Largest Dramatic Circulation in the World.

TO CORRESPONDENTS

The Spring Number of THE MIRROR will be published next week. As it will be necessary to go to press earlier than usual, correspondents are required to mail their regular letters therefor at least twenty-four hours in advance of the customary time.

A SPRING NUMBER.

THE next number of THE MIRROR will be a Spring number, which will contain many features of interest to persons in the various fields of amusements.

In addition to the regular departments that have made THE MIRROR the representative dramatic journal, this number will have many timely articles and features. Among these will be a history of the Actors' Society of America, illustrated with pictures of its headquarters; an illustrated article on the Friars; reviews of the dramatic season in all parts of the country, with the prospects for next season; a mass of matter on the Summer stock companies; notes of new theatres and improvements; the plans of many managers for next season; a review of the Summer parks throughout the country; news of the "airdomes," a modern feature of Summer amusements; a comprehensive article on the circuses of the country; pages of gossip about actors and enterprises; a record of the productions of the year in New York; special vaudeville features, of interest to all in that field of the theatre; special features relating to the motion picture field, and other matters appropriate to this season.

The Spring Number of THE MIRROR will have a handsome cover in colors, and will present many illustrations appropriate to its matter. It will be an exceptional medium for announcements in all branches of amusement and for personal illustration and advertisement, as the large and wide regular circulation will be greatly augmented for this number. The time is now short for embracing this special advertising opportunity, as the final forms of the Spring Number will close on Friday and Saturday next, April 23 and 24, and publication will be made on Tuesday, April 27.

A STARTLING PROPHECY.

CHARLES FERGUSON, writing in the New York American, noting that in this city there are now about 550 theatres to which the admission fee is 5 or 10 cents, and in which the attractions as a rule are motion pictures, makes a prophecy that may well startle persons with ideas as to the theatre fixed upon old premises.

Declaring pertinently that these cheap and amazingly numerous theatres "constitute a new social fact of very considerable importance," Mr. FERGUSON says:

I have talked with a man who makes it his business to know about theatrical matters—from a sociologist's point of view. He said that cheap theatres are going to go on multiplying, and improving; that by and by all the little country towns will have ten-cent theatres offering good plays with real actors and tangible scenery. His view was that the cinematograph is serving merely as a temporary means of introducing a more democratic and less professional kind of dramatic art, and that this new development is going to have a great deal to do with common education and public life. Anyhow, the cheap theatre is already here with its tuneful dazzle and a lure of wonderful scenes and stories that makes the small coins leap out of all the loose pockets. Myriads of people are getting their philosophy and romance—if not their religion—out of the cheap playhouses. For, whatever the pedagogues may say, effective education, good or bad, begins with what is interesting. And it cannot, in the nature of man, begin anywhere else. Consider, then, the immense power of mental suggestion emitted by these 550 endless shows!

And it is well worth considering. But are the cheap theatres to go on multiplying and improving until throughout the country the public may see in them good plays, with real actors and tangible scenery?

Who can tell? Who can measure the limit of a movement that already has astonished all concerned with theatrical and kindred amusements?

One thing is already reasonably certain. The motion pictures have marked the end of cheap offerings of a theatrical nature, not worth the money exacted for admission to them. This is so apparent that few will be found to question it.

Yet these cheap "shows," multiplying as they do, draw in tens of thousands to whom any sort of theatrical amusement would be unknown without them. They are educative in more ways than one. And it will be a long time before they exercise any injuriously competitive influence on the better offerings of the theatre, while they will steadily inspire patronage for such offerings by a multitude of persons new to the drama in its better circumstances.

AMUSEMENT COMPANIES INCORPORATED.

Certificates of incorporation for the following amusement companies were filed with the Secretary of State the past week: The Alhambra Company, Brooklyn, N. Y., to do a general theatrical and amusement business; capital, $5,000; directors, Harold Williams and Arthur Klein, New York City, and John J. Maloney, Brooklyn, N. Y. Boardman-Maxwell Amusement Company, Brooklyn, N. Y., devices and appliances for projecting amusements; capital, $50,000; directors, Frederick E. Boardman, Max C. Maxwell and Richard C. Addy, Brooklyn, N. Y. Buffalo Bowling and Amusement Company, Buffalo, N. Y.; capital, $15,000; directors, John G. Floss, A. G. Goodwin and A. G. Paterson, Buffalo, N. Y. Elks' Amusement Park Company, North Tonawanda, N. Y.; capital, $3,000; directors, Stanley C. Penchen, John G. Wallenmeier, Jr., and Oakley C. Smeaton, Tonawanda, N. Y. Fox Varieties Company, New York; capital, $5,000; directors, William Fox, Eva Fox and Michael Fox, New York City. Fox Theatrical Enterprises, New York; capital, $5,000; directors as above. William Fox (Inc.), New York, to do a general amusement business; capital, $5,000; directors as above. Arion Amusement Company, Brooklyn, N. Y.; capital, $5,000; directors, Max Levene, Louis Levene and Walter Finkel, Brooklyn, N. Y. Plaza Music Hall, Owego, N. Y.; capital, $15,000; directors, H. Calse, James P. Callander and J. Egbert Petera, New York City. The Fadettes, New York, to furnish amusement to the public and to do a general amusement business; capital, $25,000; directors, Caroline B. Nichols, Viola M. Dunn and Francis G. Daniell, New York City. New England Theatre Company, New York; capital, $100,000; directors, Louis Selig, Louis Rosenbluh and Joseph Carr, New York. The New York Ticket Speculators' Association, New York, has been incorporated with the following directors: George J. Duncan, John J. O'Brien and Morris Blau, New York City.

NANCE O'NEIL ALSO PLAYED.

A Californian writes to THE MIRROR:

In THE MIRROR of April 10 it is stated that the only three professionals who have been invited to perform at the Greek Theatre, Berkeley, Cal., are Bernhardt, Maude Adams, and Norman Hackett. That is not strictly accurate and therefore misleading, for in February, 1907, Nance O'Neil was invited to present Judith of Bethulia, the play written for her by the late Thomas Bailey Aldrich, but that season of the year being unpropitious for open air performances, even in sunny California, it was postponed till her next visit, when on July 4 of that year she appeared as Parthenia in the play of Ingomar before a large audience, and one of her most valued souvenirs of the occasion is an enlarged photograph of the beautiful theatre and its surroundings. President Wheeler, of the University, was anxious for Miss O'Neil to play Lady Macbeth there, and in all probability during her next tour to the Coast, it will be arranged for. Miss O'Neil was the first Californian actress, and unless I am mistaken, the first American star to play the classic theatre, and so highly does she appreciate the honor that I am sure she would resent her happy privilege being ignored.

IOWA'S NEW THEATRE LAW.

The new Iowa law to prevent indecency on the stage went into effect last Thursday. It provides a fine and jail sentence for any one engaging in any "obscene, indecent, immoral or impure drama, play or exhibition, show, or entertainment."

THE MATINEE GIRL.

SHE RECORDS TRIBUTES OF PLAYERS TO THE STERLING QUALITIES OF MODJESKA.

Her Kindness, Womanliness, Modesty and Helpfulness Leave Cherished Memories—Mothering a Neglected Infant and Encouraging Young Talent—The King of Optimists.

WHEREVER players met last week they talked tenderly of the quiet passing of Helena Modjeska.

Florence Smythe, who, while playing in Los Angeles, was sometimes the guest of the great Polish actress, said: "Her wonderful kindness and womanliness always touched me. Her modesty, too. She wrote a girl friend of mine every two weeks. Once when my friend had not replied promptly an appealing little note came from madame. There were two pathetic lines, 'Are the letters from an old woman becoming tedious?' she asked. 'Let me have a letter from my beloved Angelique.'

"Once at a Summer resort she heard through her open window a soft little moan. A baby was crying. She rang the bell and inquired about her little neighbor. She found that the little chap was being devoured by mosquitoes while his frivolous mother left him alone and displayed her finery and her empty head on the hotel veranda. Madame Modjeska went to the veranda, sought out the woman and asked her if she might visit her room and amuse herself with the baby. The mother very much gratified, consented, and handed her key to Madame Modjeska. Madame at once made friends with the little fellow. She undressed and bathed him and rubbed cold cream all over the bruised little body. An hour later they found her sitting beside the open window, the baby fast asleep in her arms, and she singing a Polish lullaby softly to him.

"I don't think many know that the great Marie Stuart was a great grandmother before she died. Her grandson, Felix, a big, handsome boy, was married at the age of twenty. Now he has a son of his own, born about two months ago.

"The times I spent with her were just delightfully uneventful. She put a shy girl thoroughly at her ease at once. She was so simple, so womanly, so everydayish."

Ethel Barrymore recalled that when her mother, Georgie Drew Barrymore, died in Southern California, and upon the girl of thirteen devolved the sorrowful task of taking the remains back to Philadelphia for burial, Madame Modjeska gave her a mother's love and blessing, the noble figure being the last she saw through tear-blurred eyes as she looked back at the station of the little California town.

Carlotta Nillson told of beginning her career as an extra girl in Modjeska's company in San Francisco sixteen years ago, and how madame had pointed her out at a rehearsal of Marie Stuart and said, "Let that girl stand near me." "It was the first word of encouragement I ever heard," said Miss Nillson.

Mrs. Otis Skinner told of her meeting with Madame Modjeska, when Maud Durbin was a mite of a Denver girl, whose ambition to go on the stage far overtopped her stature, and how the star, looking kindly at her said to Count Bosenta, "Let us give her her chance," as they did.

It was recalled that Mary Shaw learned her first lessons in acting from Modjeska, and that it was in her company that Maurice Barrymore won his most pronounced recognition in this country. She produced his play Nadjeska.

Howard Kyle, for three seasons her leading man, said: "Madame Modjeska had rare stage integrity. She always gave every actor in her company, however subordinate, his full meed of opportunity on the stage. Her standard of art was so high that she never changed the lines nor situations an iota to add to her stellar glory.

"I never supported a star whom I so reverenced," he says. "She seemed wrapped around with an atmosphere of ideality. When she played Marie Stuart those who played with her felt that she was not playing, but that she was the character.

"She had the most beautiful arms I ever saw. Their beauty was in their delicacy and expressiveness. They were the synonyms of grace.

"She seemed always to be enveloped in sadness. The conditions of her birth and girlhood had taken deep root in her nature. Paderewski and the De Reszkes were countrymen and friends of hers. Once after she had given a reception to them in Chicago she had said: 'They are wonderful artists, and they should be. There is nothing to do in poor Poland but to develop art. We may not fight. We may only entertain!'

"She was a wide and deep reader. Her taste was for the classics. When I found her one day in her private car reading a novel by the Duchess I expressed my surprise.

"'Ah, yes,' she answered, 'I shall read one of her books. She is successful and we should study, though we do not adopt, the methods of those who win success.'"

That was a good summary and disposition of Clara Morris made by Mark Twain. Admirers of both repeated it at the testimonial tendered last week to Clara Morris.

"I pay no compliments to Clara Morris. Her life is her compliment."

For the Easter cards engraved with greetings, that form a generous sheaf on my desk, thanks. Under the cover, an illuminated design of pink eggs against a purple nest background, I found this significant and welcome sentiment, from a former leading woman now successfully playing a domestic role in the West: "Lead us out of the narrow life into the peace of the hills and the skies."

Channing Pollock is King of the Optimists. His kingdom was acquired not by inheritance, but by conquest. In those not remote days when he came long-haired and bright-eyed from Washington to seek his fortune in New York, his only asset being the four dollars in his pocket when he crossed on the ferryboat from Jersey City, Mr. Pollock was sensitive. The weeks of his early acquaintance with that unfeeling street, Broadway, yielded him new vistas of sensitiveness. He discovered that the quality got increasingly in his way. He resolved to try to eliminate it.

"I kept a diary in those days," he said, "and I set down every day everything that had happened that hurt my feelings. When the year was finished I had made four hundred and seven entries of what I thought were grievances. And I could recall only three of them."

An interested spectator of New York life suggests that a pearl necklace be given to every woman and a seal ring to every man who isn't writing a play. An author neighbor of mine says his elevator boy is seeking a market for a sketch, and his janitor refuses to keep the furnace flaming because he is writing the third act of a tragedy. Sewell Collins told the Prowlers that he had, as he accepted a light from nine strange men on the platform of trolley cars, asked them: "How is your play getting on?" And he had received from each of the nine the same answer: "I have written the first two acts and am blocking out the third and fourth."

A serious-faced woman emerged from Belasco's Stuyvesant Theatre at the last matinee in deep converse with another serious-faced woman:

"Yes, it cost four dollars," she admitted, "but it was worth it. I always wanted to know how men talked to that sort of women. Now I know."

PAVEY.—Marie Pavey has just closed a successful season as leading woman with the Jefferson Theatre Stock company, Memphis, Tenn., and has joined the Keith Stock at Portland, Me., to play leads for the Summer season.

FROHMAN.—Daniel Frohman will sail for Germany to-morrow, to be absent six weeks. He has arranged with Liebler and Company to continue the run of Eleanor Robson in The Dawn of a To-morrow at the Lyceum Theatre until well into June, when Miss Robson is to take her annual Summer vacation.

CARUSO.—Enrico Caruso sailed for Liverpool last Wednesday to take a long rest. He denies the report that he has rheumatism of the throat.

ASHWELL.—Lena Ashwell produced a new play, The Earth, by James Barnard Fagan, at the Kingsway Theatre, London, on April 14.

NORDICA.—Lillian Nordica has confirmed the report that she is engaged to marry George W. Young, a banker and clubman of New York city.

VAN STUDDIFORD.—Grace Van Studdiford's season in The Golden Butterfly will continue until June 15. She will resume her tour in the same opera on Sept. 15.

WILSON.—Francis Wilson will give several matinee performances of his comedy, The Bachelor's Baby, in Baltimore this Spring, with the intention of using the piece for his starring tour next season.

ROBERTS.—After a successful season in Canada in The House of Bondage, Florence Roberts is on her way back to the States and will reach Minnesota about May 1.

FAVERSHAM.—William Faversham and Walter Damrosch will make a joint production of Richard Le Gallienne's English version of the Greek tragedy of Orestes. Mr. Faversham plans to present it for matinees during the run of Stephen Phillips' Herod next season.

TYLER.—April 13 was the birthday of George C. Tyler, managing director of Liebler and Company. Mr. Tyler, who is on an automobile tour of Europe, was in Madrid on that day, and received numerous cablegrams of congratulation.

CAHILL.—Marie Cahill will make her home in Boston hereafter, and intends to appear first in that city in her new plays in the future.

HARTLEY.—Randolph Hartley returned on the Koenig Albert last Thursday from Italy, where he completed a grand opera libretto for Arthur Nevin, the American composer. During his stay abroad Mr. Hartley, with Mr. Nevin, made a journey to Asiatic Turkey and Egypt, gathering material for use in future collaborations.

THE USHER

One of the early peculiarities of the late Eugene Field, who numbered many dear friends among the profession of the theatre, was the writing of poems embodying characteristics of his more or less intimate acquaintances and signing their names to the verses as authors.

One of the poet's efforts thus involved Madame Modjeska. The passionate and patriotic love of this gifted woman for her native Poland was illustrated in many ways throughout her life in this country, and was known to all of her acquaintances. Eugene Field, cognizant of it, wrote the following and attached Modjeska's name to it:

Upon a mountain height far from the sea
I found a shell,
And to my listening ear this lonely thing
Ever a song of ocean seemed to sing,
Ever a tale of ocean seemed to tell.

How came this shell upon the mountain height?
Ah, who can say
Whether there dropped by some too careless hand—
Whether there cast when oceans swept the land,
Ere the Eternal had ordained the Day?

Strange, was it not? Far from its native deep,
One song it sang:
Sang of the awful mysteries of the tide—
Sang of the misty sea, profound and wide—
Ever with echoes of the ocean rang.

And, as the shell from the mountain, height
Sang of the sea,
So do I ever—leagues and leagues away—
So do I ever—wandering where I may—
Sing, O my home! sing, O my home! of thee!

Roswell Field, commenting upon this poem, says that Madame Modjeska, who, as Mark Twain has expressed it, did not "appreciate the subtlety of the American joke," became furiously angry, despite her former regard for his brother, and denounced the hoax as a "gross and unpardonable liberty." But time softened her resentment and belied her words, for she not only pardoned him but became one of his most ardent admirers.

Sioux City, Iowa, has a clergyman, the Rev. E. H. Stevens, who expresses a sane idea of the theatre thus:

It never hurt any church member to see and hear a good play. The only reason more church people do not attend the theatre is that they are afraid of being classed with those who make no distinction between the good and the bad plays. It is absolutely useless for church members to ever hope to do anything to make the theatre as an institution a thing of the past. It is here to stay. It is only natural for a man to love good acting. The theatre has given us some of the best music and has interpreted for us some of the best plays that have ever been written and that are being written to-day. But it is the duty of church members to have such an influence over the management of theatres as to be able to insist upon and demand the best, so that they can realize the most wholesome ideals of the greatest actors.

Which is commended to other clergymen who imagine that one of their vital duties is to assail the theatre in the useless hope of destroying it.

While considering incidentally the subject of religion and churches, it is pertinent to note the startling methods employed by some preachers nowadays to attract attention.

In the good old days genius in the pulpit was sufficient. But great men are few among preachers these times, and mediocrity is forced to go outside of the legitimate field of religion to excite interest.

Here and there preachers resort to the most sensational devices to draw merely curious throngs. An example of this is shown in an advertisement in the Toronto News, of April 14, under the heading of "Meetings and Amusements."

This advertisement is addressed, "To Whom It May Concern," and adds in displayed lines: "That means 3,500 people. Listen! We have decided to hold the last service of the season—People's Sunday Services—next Sunday night, in the Massy Hall, so as to accommodate more people." To give the effect of the rest of the advertisement it is necessary to reproduce it in little thus:

The Subject of the Pictorial Sermon will be
THE SCARLET LETTER
(Hawthorne)
Illustrated by Fifty Hand-Painted Beautiful Slides, from Life
Strong, Startling, Salutary Sermon
Sittings may be reserved in first balcony up to 10 p.m. Saturday. 'Phone Main 6620.

And this is the modern manner of projecting religious principles!

A clash between common sense and hidebound prejudice is reported from the University of Puget Sound, a Methodist foundation, over the theatre.

Members of the faculty of this university have been forbidden to attend theatres by its president. The university is in a turmoil over this order, and one of the professors has resigned.

So serious is the matter that it is reported half the faculty will resign if the trustees of the institution do not remove the president.

As those who control such an institution of the Methodist church are bound by the "discipline" of that religious body, it is not probable that the president of the University of Puget Sound will be dismissed. Rather they will let the recalcitrant professors go. And if they do this, the reactionary impulse illustrated by the order of the president of the university will tend to choke all modern and liberal tendencies in the institution, and make it a thing apart from the educational spirit of the day.

An English correspondent of a Manchester, England, journal, writing from Atlantic City on the recent American premiere there of An Englishman's Home, in melancholy phrases recorded the fact that this play did not please residents of New Jersey. In his letter he said:

Atlantic City absolutely refused to take the drama seriously, and on passing out I heard such remarks as "It fairly took my goat"—an Americanism meaning "I am exasperated"—and others talked sarcastically to the box-office. "Give us back our dough," said one disgusted patron. "Dough," by the way, is Americanese for money.

How really sad it is that Americans have such a contempt for the English language that they devise a language of their own!

The President of the United States, in his capacity as a fellow citizen, attended a theatre in New York the other evening.

The President of the United States, as President, was recognised and enthusiastically applauded by the audience.

As was no doubt fit, several secret service men, unknown as such, were stationed near the President during the performance, to guard his person against accident.

But at the close of the play a body of municipal policemen, plainly known as such, arbitrarily held up the audience, permitting no one else to leave the theatre until the President had retired therefrom.

Whither are we drifting? That was hardly a democratic incident in a democratic country—and in a city, to be literal, that often votes democratically.

As the New York Sun suggests, it would be better to have an understanding—easily effected—that an audience should permit—as no doubt it gracefully would permit—the President, when a playgoer, to leave the theatre first without let, hindrance or embarrassment.

RESIGNATIONS ACCEPTED.

Shuberts Formally Leave Managers' Association—Renew Business with Newspapers.

The resignations of Lee and J. J. Shubert and Max Anderson were received by the Theatre Managers' Association of Greater New York last week and were accepted. On April 13 advertising of the Shuberts appeared in the Morning Telegraph and on the following day in the New York Press. Regarding the Shuberts' resignation from the Managers' Association Charles M. Burnham made the following statement:

About four weeks ago the Messrs. Shubert requested President Burnham to call a meeting of the Managers' Association and made certain complaints against the "Morning Telegraph" in regard to its treatment of themselves. They were informed that the association as a body could not take cognisance of matters of that kind. Mr. Jacob Shubert then remarked that if the members would not withdraw their patronage from the "Morning Telegraph," as they had in the case of the New York "Press," he saw no use of the association and would withdraw and form another one. The Shuberts were then told that, as in the case of Oscar Hammerstein, the association would be glad to informally appoint a committee to consider the matter.

This action was taken, and after a conference with the association committee, at which the Shuberts and the "Morning Telegraph" were represented, this decision was reached:

That the matters in dispute involved questions of veracity between the principals to the dispute, as well as to some of their subordinate employes; and as this committee and this association have no legal authority to call these subordinates for testimony and as it could not make itself judge and jury even if they were called before them it deemed it impracticable to pursue the inquiry further and asked to be discharged. The committee expressed its regret that it was not able to bring about an amicable understanding.

In reference to resuming business relations with the Telegraph, Mr. Shubert said:

The fact that I resumed business relations with the "Morning Telegraph" has nothing to do with the Managers' Association. I never asked other members of the association to withdraw from the "Telegraph." I simply laid certain facts before them and left any action to their discretion.

My principal reason for resigning from the association was to resume business relations with the "Press." I do not care to belong to a society which obliged me to take up the quarrels of others. This is especially true, as I am a director of the New Theatre, and the association might expect me to take part in an action which would not meet with the approval of the other men associated with that enterprise.

I do not believe in fights with newspapers. My interests are too large ad varied for unnecessary disagreements with the papers. I wish to say, however, that the "Morning Telegraph" approached me on Monday through William E. Lewis and agreed to treat me just as they treat all other managers.

A FEATURE OF A FAIR.

One of the most popular features of the fair and carnival held at the Grand Central Palace by the New York Evening Call from April 3 to April 11 was a theatrical booth at which was displayed photographs of leading actors and actresses. These portraits were autographed by the players themselves and presented to the fair.

Among those represented in the collection were Maude Adams, Ethel Barrymore, Blanche Bates, Mabel Barrison, Marie Doro, Mrs. Fiske, Bertha Kalich, Bertha Galland, Grace George, Julia Marlowe, Olga Nethersole, Frances Starr, Helen Ware, Anna Held, Elsie Janis, Marie Booth Russell, Mildred Holland, Mabel Hite, Edith Matthison, Ruth Maycliffe, Viola Allen, George Arliss, Digby Bell, Richard Bennett, William Collier, David Warfield, William Crane, Douglas Fairbanks, William T. Hodge, De Wolf Hopper, Wilton Lackaye, Robert Mantell, James T. Powers, Billy B. Van, Frank MacIntyre and Master Gabriel.

Many of the photographs were sold at auction during the fair, one of Ethel Barrymore bringing $11.85. One of Bertha Kalich sold for $8.75. The other portraits sold at good prices and netted a handsome profit to the fair.

In a voting contest as to the most popular actor and actress Maude Adams got 1156 votes and Robert Mantell 1151. Of the actresses, Julia Marlowe, Edith Wynne Matthison, Mabel Barrison, Elizabeth Aldrich, Ethel Barrymore and Mrs. Fiske got the next highest votes, and William Collier, George Arliss and Richard Bennett ran close to Mr. Mantell as the most popular actor.

HILDA SPONG SUES.

Hilda Spong, the actress, is the plaintiff in a suit in the Supreme Court to recover $876.50 from Harold R. Durant, an author and theatrical manager. She obtained an order last week from Justice Hendrick permitting her to serve her summons and complaint by publication. She says that she agreed on Oct. 31, 1908, to supply the scenery for a play of his entitled A Man and His Mate, in which she was to play a star part. For her scenery and services she was to receive $250 a week for four weeks. She got only $123.43, and sues for the rest.

GLOBE THEATRE PLANS FILED.

Carrere and Hastings filed with Building Superintendent Murphy last week the plans for the new Globe Theatre, to be built for Charles Dillingham, as manager, at 203 to 217 West Forty-sixth Street, with an entrance in the westerly side of Times Square, just north of Forty-sixth Street. It is to have a frontage of 119 feet and a depth of 90.3 feet and is to cost $300,000.

Belasco—Going Some.

Farce, in four acts, by Paul Armstrong and Rex Beach. Produced April 12. (The Messrs. Shubert, managers.)

J. Wallingford Speed	Lawrence Wheat
"Larry" Glass	Walter Jones
Berkeley Fresno	Herbert Cothell
Culver Covington	C. H. West
Jack Chapin, Jr.	T. J. Karrigan
Jeanne Chapin	Muriel Starr
Helen Blake	Oza Waldorp
Mrs. Roberta Keap	Laura Lemmers
"Still" Bill Stover	George K. Henery
Aucrerio Maria Carara	E. L. Fernandez
Cloudy	August Glassmeir
Willie	George Leach
Ah Sing Ho	W. Tammany Young
Mariedetta	Crosby Little
"Gabby" Gallagher	Hugh Cameron
Skinner	William Harrigan

J. Wallingford Speed, Yale 'varsity head yeller, goes to visit a friend on a New Mexico ranch, the "Flying Heart." He takes along his trainer, masseur and nerve specialist, Larry Glass, for Mr. Speed pretends to think himself an athlete. Other Easterners at the ranch are Helen Blake, much loved by Speed, and Mrs. Roberta Keap, a youthful widow. Jeanne Chapin is also of Smith College, and is a sister of the ranch owner. Berkeley Fresno, of Leland Stanford Glee Club, a "native son," is also a guest and also loves Helen. Still Bill Stover is foreman of the ranch; Aucrerio Maria Carara, a Mexican; Cloudy, an Indian; Willie, a crack shot; Ah Sing Ho, a cook, and Mariedetta, a Mexican, are employees of Jack Chapin. On the day of Speed's arrival the "Flying Heart" outfit is planning a foot race against the "Centipede" gang, to win back a phonograph and records lost in a previous contest. Speed offers himself as champion for the Flying Hearts. He knows that Culver Covington, intercollegiate 100-yard champion, is coming West, and it will be very easy to fall sick at the last moment and let Covington take his place. He and his trainer, Glass, find out that to lose the race will mean to lose their lives. And with this information comes a telegram that Covington is in jail in Omaha. Speed has to carry out the bluff of training, especially after the jealous "native son" tells the ranchman his suspicions of Speed. On the day before the race another telegram comes from Covington that he's on his way. He arrives—on crutches. Speed's last hope is gone when his opponent, Skinner, cook at the Centipede ranch, offers to sell the race. Speed gladly takes him up, and they run. Skinner has much trouble keeping behind, but by several judicious falls enables the Easterner to come in first. And the Flying Hearts get back their phonograph and Speed gets Helen.

The impossibility of giving an adequate idea of the "go" of this farce is staggering. From the start the audience begins laughing and keeps it up, crescendo, to the final curtain. Lines, incidents and plot are brilliant without a fleck of dust. The piece will go all Summer "and then some," to quote Mr. Speed.

Lawrence Wheat is a rather self-conscious and prideful Mr. Speed, with too much mind on his audience, but he "gets it over" most satisfactorily. Walter Jones is nearly perfect as the trainer, Glass, with much slang and a fondness for a prayer rug. Herbert Cothell as the "native son" is constantly funny. E. L. Fernandes as the Mexican cowboy, who has wagered his saddle and sombrero on the race, is excellent, picturesque and self-composed. George Leach plays the innocent appearing Willie extremely well. August Glassmeir is the Indian who turns out to be a Carlisle graduate who has "reverted to type," and he acts it well. Oza Waldorp is childish and affected as Helen, and also very pretty and attractive. Muriel Starr plays Jeanne very well, and Laura Lemmers as Mrs. Keap is good. Miss Crosby Little as Mariedetta has not a line to speak, but her acting is about the best in the company. William Harrigan plays with a fine sense of character values the role of Skinner, the cook. C. H. West is good as Covington, and T. J. Kerrigan does much with the small part of Jack Chapin. George K. Henery characterizes the ranch foreman well, while small roles are excellently played by Hugh Cameron as the rival foreman and W. Tammany Young as the Chinese cook. The staging is good and the race scene is especially effective.

Garrick—The Happy Marriage.

Comedy in three acts, by Clyde Fitch. Produced April 12. (Charles Frohman, manager.)

Joan Thornton	Doris Keane
Frederick Thornton	Edwin Arden
Charles Thornton	Albert Hackett
Paul Mayne	Milton Sills
W. D. Granger	Frank Gheen
Mrs. Ryton	Grace Goodall
Annie	May Donahue
Mayne's valet	C. A. Chandos
The Thorntons' butler	Dudley Digges

The Happy Marriage is like The Girl With the Green Eyes only in as far as a wife's jealousy is responsible for many of the developments in the story running through Mr. Fitch's three acts. The Thorntons have been married five years before they are called upon to leap their first matrimonial hurdle. This in itself is unique, since nowadays a connubial service of five years' duration is considered sufficient time for a couple to become so intimate with each other that petty quarrels of the kind which so nearly ruin the Thorntons' union are occurrences so abundant that they pass unnoticed and without serious effects. Five years of matrimony have bred in so many young couples an intense dislike for peace. Wounded at her husband's seeming indifference and aroused to jealousy by misconstruing his relations with a mutual woman friend, relations which later turn out to be of purely business caliber, Joan Thornton throws herself headlong into an affair with Paul Mayne, a bachelor admirer. The latter takes the affair far less seriously than does Joan and finds himself in a nasty mess when that lady, her belongings packed and her child and its nurse waiting for her in the corridor below, calls upon him in his rooms with every intention of running off with him via the next European steamer, for which she has engaged passage. While Mayne is trying to squirm out of his uncomfortable predicament with a thousand excuses, Joan's husband is announced. Although neither Joan, Mayne nor Mr. Fitch's audience know it, Thornton knows the truth, having obtained a confession from the nurse, whom Joan had taken into her confidence. Mayne and Joan nervously find pretexts for the unconventional call, Thornton appears to accept them unquestionably and departs with his wife. The latter, having discovered Mayne's true attitude toward her, the discovery filling her with loathing, comes to the conclusion that she had never really ceased loving her husband and craves his forgiveness. In a charming scene in the third act she confesses everything to Thornton and the latter, like a true Fitchian husband, forgives her and, to all appearances, is more in love with his wife than ever. On this attenuated skeleton of a story Mr. Fitch has draped some smart dialogue (in spots) and one or two of the pretty saccharine little love scenes that no one better than he knows how to build.

Joan Thornton, oftentimes as Mr. Fitch made her, is a silly little creature, with none of the good, womanly stamina that made "Jinny" Austin, Mr. Fitch's other jealous heroine, so appealing, and that Doris Keane made her a little less so is the prettiest thing one can say of her acting of the part. Miss Keane was charming at all times, and pretty and sweet, but one kept wishing that Mr. Fitch had supplied a "big" scene or two, where she could really show the mettle that we have come to like and admire in her in previous performances. Edwin Arden was a convincing, manly and altogether satisfactory Thornton. Milton Sills contributed a well nigh perfect interpretation of the caddish Mayne, and at times, in fact, became so likable that one wished Mr. Fitch hadn't made him quite so vicious. May Donahue supplied some little laughter as Annie, an upper servant. Grace Goodall performed a small part painstakingly and successfully. The few remaining roles were competently portrayed. Miss Keane wore some most amazing gowns of weird construction, which appeared to begin and end nowhere in particular.

Mr. Fitch, in a neat little speech, expressed the hope that this production might result in another happy marriage—with the author, play and players as a kind of bu[illegible] and the public as a groom. Mr. Fitch's [illegible] and proposal were coyly received Monday night. It was "so sudden."

Gaiety—The House Next Door.

Comedy, in three acts, by J. Hartley Manners. Produced April 12. (Cohan and Harris, managers.)

Sir John Cotswold, Bart.	J. E. Dodson
Lady Cotswold	Ruth Chester
Cecil Cotswold	William J. Kelley
Ulrica Cotswold	Mabel Roebuck
Vining	A. T. Hendon
Captain, the Hon. Clive Trevor	W. H. Sams
Sir Isaac Jacobson, M.P.	Thomas Findlay
Lady Jacobson	Eleanor Moretti
Adrian Jacobson	Regan Hughston
Esther Jacobson	Farnia Marinoff
Maxmilian	Charles Diem
Walter Lewis	Herbert Standing

The House Next Door is occupied by Sir Isaac Jacobson, M. P., and his family. Sir Isaac's father was a chairmaker on the estates of Sir John Cotswold, Bart., whose son occupies the house. Sir Isaac owns the estate. Sir John has not paid rent for months. Sir John's children, Cecil and Ulrica, are in love with Sir Isaac's children, Esther and Adrian. Cecil has just triumphed as an opera singer, much to the disgust of his father. Sir John hates Jews. He hates Sir Isaac above all others, because of the recent knighting of that gentleman. Sir John says "England is a body of people entirely surrounded by Jews," and bases his observation on the names of authors, musicians, statesmen and tradespeople of whom he hears. He refuses Cecil and Ulrica permission to visit at Sir Isaac's, but they go anyhow. He, of course, refuses to consider a marriage with that family. On that subject Sir Isaac agrees with him. In the end, when Sir John learns that Cecil's education is due to Sir Isaac's generosity, and that the Jewish knight is willing to sacrifice his feelings to his children's happiness, he concludes that Jews may not be so bad, especially Lord Beaconsfield and Zangwill. He puts on his hat and goes next door to call.

This play is made agreeable by the exquisite acting of J. E. Dodson in the role of Sir John. It would scarcely attract attention otherwise, for, while the subject is carefully handled and the situations and the dialogue are good, the theme has been threshed over so often as to be nearly all chaff by this time. Mr. Dodson's work should keep it at the Gaiety for the rest of the Spring. A part of the pleasure his appearance gives comes from a sincere desire on the part of the atregoers to welcome back an unusually fine actor. Mr. Dodson's surety of method and his ability to understand and impersonate character make his appearance as Sir John one of the acting triumphs of the season.

Thomas Findlay as Sir Isaac is stilted and rather unnatural in his speech, but in appearance and in gesture his impersonation is good. Mabel Roebuck does very well as Ulrica and Farnia Marinoff is excellent in the role of Esther. Ruth Chester as Lady Cotswold gives a performance full of gentility. Eleanor Moretti is very good as Lady Jacobson, who is scarcely her husband's equal in refinement. Herbert Standing is very amusing as Walter Lewis, the musical agent, who is either Jew or Presbyterian as the case demands. A. T. Hendon does well as Vining the butler, and W. H. Sams is good as a bounder captain.

Weber's—The Climax.

Play, in three acts, by Edward Locke. Produced April 12. (Joseph Weber, manager.)

Luigi Golfanti	Albert Brunning
Pietro Golfanti	Effingham A. Pinto
John Raymond	William Lewers
Adelina von Hagen	Leona Watson

Adelina von Hagen, daughter of a German musician and an Italian singer, is studying music with her relative, Luigi Golfanti, in New York. They are poor, she and Luigi and his son, Pietro, who is to be a famous composer. They live in a little studio apartment in New York, and take turns washing the dishes. Pietro, a boy, hot headed and ardent, thinks himself in love with Adelina, but she loves only the career she is to have—one of fame and fortune. Her voice is sure and her spirit is right. But John Raymond, a doctor who lives in Azalia, O., where Adelina's infancy was spent, does not believe in the stage for woman, and especially for Adelina, whom he loves. Adelina has a little trouble with her vocal chords—a matter that a very slight operation will cure and improve her voice. She has the operation and is ordered not to speak until a week has passed. Dr. Raymond, ready to do anything to keep the girl for himself and from the stage, suggests to her that she may not be able to sing again. He persistently suggests it, until the day when she is to be permitted to try. Her voice will not come. The low notes and the high ones are there, but for the middle register her throat is paralyzed. After her first grief, she agrees to marry Dr. Raymond, offering only a lukewarm love. On the day of her wedding he tells her how he has made her believe that she cannot sing again; how her loss was caused by suggestion. She tries again and the tones come clearer than ever before. Dr. Raymond is sent back to Azalia and Adelina begins her career again.

Such an outline gives a misleading impression of this play, put on now for matinees only. Such delicate pathos and homely humor have not been found this year or in past years. The second act grips as The Music Master did, with a tragedy smaller, perhaps, but far more real. It is life, and at the same time it is poetry, this play. The people who like it will go to see it over and over again, and a great many people will like it. There is faulty construction in it, and lack of directness, perhaps, but both flaws give it more humanness.

The little company of four people is as artistic as the play. Leona Watson as Adelina proves herself an actress of much more than ordinary talent and worth watching. Her work in the second act, her long, silent scene, is exquisite. And her singing is excellent. Albert Brunning as the old Italian plays with his customary surety and even more than his customary skill. Effingham A. Pinto as Pietro is a discovery for whom theatregoers should be grateful. His acting and his music are equally good. William Lewers as the doctor carries through the difficult task of playing sympathetically a role that is inherently unsympathetic.

Academy of Music—Julius Cæsar.

The first week of Robert Mantell's season at this house was devoted to Julius Cæsar, with Mr Mantell in the character of Brutus. This is the best played role in his repertoire, and the actor has advanced in its portrayal since 1907, the last time he played it here. Marie Booth Russell appeared as Portia, and the other principal roles were played as follows: Casca, George Stillwell; Julius Cæsar, Guy Lindsay; Mark Antony, Fritz Lieber; Caius Cassius, Ethelbert Hales; Cinna, Walter Campbell; Calpurnia, Lillian Kingsbury. This week, Macbeth.

Hackett—Divorcons.

Grace George gave a single performance of Divorcons on the afternoon of April 12 before a large and much pleased audience. Miss George's advance in the rank of the comediennes is best indicated by the improvement she showed in the role of Cyprienne. Since she first appeared in the play, in 1907, her methods have become finer and more sure and her comedy talents have manifolded. Frank Worthing gave his usual excellent performance of the role of des Prunelles. Henry Miller, Jr., played the lover and Max Freeman had his old role of the waiter.

New Amsterdam—The Mascot.

Audran's tuneful and amusing opera, La Mascotte, was revived on April 12. The piece proved to be as much alive as it was twenty years ago and the music as entrancing. The cast of the revival is as follows: Bettina, Flora Zabelle; Fiametta, Estelle Wentworth; Pippo, Henry

THE ACTORS' SOCIETY.

THE COMMITTEES IN CHARGE OF THE ANNUAL BENEFIT ARE ELECTED.

A Departure in Plans for Next Reception—The Event Set for May 2 to Be Under the Auspices of Men Members, with Some Feminine Assistance, of Course—Helen Ware Essays Her First Boy Role—News of Members on Broadway and on the Road.

On April 13, at a meeting of the Board of Directors and Entertainment Committee of the Actors' Society, much progress was reported in the plans laid for the society's big benefit at the Hudson Theatre on the afternoon of Friday, May 7. The event promises to outdo in every way the society's previous entertainments. The Board of Directors was made a general committee in charge, with William Courtleigh at the head. H. Nelson Morey was elected benefit treasurer, Samuel Colt the chairman of the ticket committee, Harold Woolf the chairman of the press committee, Ralph Delmore the chairman of the programme committee, and Edna West the chairman of the programme printing committee. With such members at the helm preparations are working smoothly, and the success of the benefit, which seems assured, will be due in no small measure to the competent hands in which its affairs were placed.

Feeling that his continued absence from the city would make it impossible for him to fulfill his duties as a director as thoroughly as he would wish, Theodore Friebus has resigned from the Board of Directors. Samuel Colt has been elected to serve out the remainder of Mr. Friebus' term. Mr. Friebus is now a member of a permanent Boston stock company and is seldom able to spend any length of time in New York.

So far this season the women members of the society have reaped the congratulations and success which have attended the society's receptions, but now the men are to have their fling at it. They have set the date of their reception for Sunday evening, May 2. Of course, feminine assistance will be necessary to some extent, and consequently a few women members have generously consented to serve on various committees. The Reception Committee will consist of F. F. Mackay, William Courtleigh, Ralph Delmore, Thomas A. Wise, Fanny Cannon, Josephine Sherwood, and Maggie Breyer. Mr. Mackay, Mr. Courtleigh, and Mr. Delmore form the Executive Committee. A Committee on Arrangements includes Secretary George Seybolt, H. Nelson Morey, Samuel Colt, Harry Stubbs, and W. D. Stone. The Floor Committee consists of Arthur Row, Harold Woolf, Richard Allen, James J. Ryan, John D. O'Hara, and Earle Williams. The Committee on Decorations consists of William Haddock, John Gorman, and Devore Parmer. A "ladies' auxiliary committee" includes Eleanor Lyons, Ethel Browning, and Patty Allison.

At the Berkeley Theatre last Friday afternoon, at an entertainment presented by the Radcliffe Club of New York for the benefit of the scholarship fund maintained by the New York Club, Helen Ware, now appearing in The Third Degree at the Hudson Theatre, played a boy's role for the first time, appearing in a one-act play by Beulah Marie Dix, entitled The Hundredth Trick. Her performance was most enthusiastically received. The Actors' Society was well represented throughout the programme, since, in addition to Miss Ware's appearance, Wilton Lackaye opened the entertainment with a short address, J. J. Ryan appeared with Miss Ware in The Hundredth Trick, and Josephine Sherwood, herself a Radcliffe graduate, and Frank Jamison portrayed the leading roles in a farce-comedy by Agnes Bangs Morgan, entitled The Orange Girl.

John Sutherland closed his season with Girls at the Metropolis Theatre April 10.

George Ober, with a competent supporting company, is to produce Charles Hoyt's A Texas Steer in Yonkers early in May. Any one who has ever heard Mr. Ober sing "I'm Just as Young as I Used to Be" in A Temperance Town (and any one who hasn't has missed something) might well believe in the truth of the rollicking song to see Mr. Ober hustling about preparing A Texas Steer for production.

Eugene Ordway, a member of the Charles Hanford company and an alumnus of Georgetown University, was recently elected to the position of past grand master of the Salt Lake G. B. U., at Salt Lake City, his particular title being "Chief Traveling Representative and Exponent." Mr. Ordway, because of his connection with the Actors' Society and his demonstration of ability while in the midst of the charter members of the lodge, is high in the councils of the order. A smoker in his honor was given at the Fleur De Lis clubrooms in Salt Lake City at the time of his initiation.

Edward Locke, the author of the play produced by Joseph Weber so successfully at Weber's Theatre last week, The Climax, is a prominent member of the society, and his success has brought him the sincere congratulations of his fellow-members.

Florence Huntington has been engaged to support Sydney Rice in a new sketch, written by Mr. Rice, in which he made his vaudeville appearance at Port Jervis last night.

Grace Griswold is now rehearsing with Jack Kruger, preparatory to a vaudeville tour.

Phœbe Davis, so long identified with the role of Anna Moore in 'Way Down East, is having a new play by W. J. Hurlburt, author of The Fighting Hope, prepared for her use. It will be given an elaborate production by Joseph R. Grismer.

The annual meeting of the society comes this year on June 10.

Harry K. Hamilton is meeting with much success as a member of the Wolfe Stock company at Joplin, Mo.

Alfred Hollingsworth and Beatrice North are prominent in the support of Julius Steger in the latter's new vaudeville play, The Way to the Heart.

Wedgwood Nowell has closed a season in Winnipeg, Canada, where he appeared as a stock star at the Grand Opera House in conjunction with Maude Fealy and James Durkin, and has opened, April 12, as stage director of the Lyric Theatre company, Minneapolis, Minn.

Albert Roccardi, now playing Marianno in the road company of The Man from Home, was a visitor to the society last week.

Sue Van Duzer is now leading woman with A. B. Morrison's stock company at Memphis, Tenn.

Susanne Willis has been engaged by Laurence Irving for his production of The Incubus, which is to have special matinee performances at the Hackett Theatre.

Helen Strickland has joined Francis Wilson's company for an important role in When Knights Were Bold, for the balance of the season.

John Martin and Marion Lord (Mrs. Martin) have been engaged by Billy Burke for his vaudeville production of Uncle Tom's Cabin.

In the latter company, too, Blanche Seymour has been secured to portray Topsy.

The following managers have transacted business through the society during the past fortnight: William A. Brady, Charles Frohman, Edward C. White, Valerie Bergere, Laurence Irving, George Ober, Cohan and Harris, E. J. Ratcliffe, Vaudeville Producing Company, Charles A. Burt, E. H. Sothern, Colonel Feigl, Mattie Keene, Billy Burke, and Charles Emerson Cook.

EMPLOYMENT AGENCY BILL PASSED.

The bill introduced into the New York State Legislature by Assemblyman Voss, to amend the general business law relative to employment agencies was passed in the Assembly on April 13. The important features of the act were printed in last week's Mirror.

REFLECTIONS

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Von Tilzer will leave New York on the Kronprinzessin Cecilie on Tuesday for Europe, to spend four months traveling in Italy, Switzerland, Austria, Bohemia, Germany, Holland, Belgium, France and England. Mr. Von Tilzer hopes to arrange for the production of some of his musical pieces abroad.

Richard J. Jose, the tenor, has been engaged by Paul H. Liebler, to be starred next season in a new play called Silver Threads.

Gladys Crollus, who has been with the Eastern Montana company all Winter, has joined the Western company to finish out the season.

Beulah Watson has returned from a trip to Mexico.

Charles T. K. Miller has returned to his old position in Frederick Thompson's office, and is now business-manager of A Fool There Was.

Harry Frank's course of lectures on Shakespeare and Hamlet are being well attended at the Berkeley Lyceum on Wednesday evenings.

D'Annunzio's new tragedy, Phedra, was produced at Lirico Theatre, Milan, Italy, on April 11, and proved a failure.

The Conklin bill, designed to permit the sale of liquor in the New Theatre, was defeated in the Assembly at Albany last Thursday.

The will of the late F. Marion Crawford was filed for probate last week in New York County by attorneys of the executor, Arthur Crawford. Ten thousand dollars is left to Mrs. Crawford, and the residue is left in trust to the four children of the novelist until they shall reach the age of twenty-five years.

Moreton Baker is still ill at El Paso, Tex., where he has been for some time. He has made good friends there and has also received aid from the Actors' Fund.

The Grand Opera House at Superior, Wis., was destroyed by fire on April 13. The loss is about $40,000.

The Prima Ballerina, a new comic opera, words and music by Felix Schwartz, was produced in Berlin on April 14. It is said to be another Merry Widow success.

Arrangements are being made for an open air production of The Rivals, to be given in the woods at Palenville, in the Catskills. George Ober will head the company of players.

Tom H. Wallace, a member of Miss Petticoats company, was taken ill with inflammatory rheumatism at Willimantic, Conn., last week and removed to St. Joseph's Hospital in that city.

Maggie Holloway Fisher is playing the part of Lady Creach in The Man from Home, during the illness of Ida Vernon.

Florence Reed, who has received for a number of seasons very flattering offers for a special Spring engagement for stock at the Belasco Theatre, Los Angeles, Cal., has never been able to accept this offer owing to the fact that she was not at liberty at the time they wanted her. Owing to the closing of the Girls company, Miss Reed was able to take advantage of the offer of Manager Belasco, and is in Los Angeles, where she will play a short season in stock. She opens in Miss Hobbs, followed by Merely Mary Ann and The Warrens of Virginia, the latter piece being the first presentation in stock of this production.

The Fair Co-Ed will move from the Knickerbocker to the Criterion on April 26, to make room for The Candy Shop. An Englishman's Home, now at the Criterion, will go on tour.

Mr. and Mrs. George Alison (Gertrude Rivers) will retire from the Thanhouser company at the Bush Temple, Chicago, on April 25, and rest at their home in Boston until May 30, when they commence an engagement at the Metropolitan Opera House, St. Paul. This ends their third year at the Bush Temple.

Jack Binns, wireless operator of the Republic when the liner went down, joined the cast of Via Wireless last week, to appear in the wreck scene.

E. H. Sothern sent Daniel Frohman a check for $150 for a box for the Clara Morris testimonial performance at the New York Theatre last Friday afternoon.

Edgar Norris has been engaged by Mildred Holland for her Spring season.

Owing to the big success of The Beauty Spot at the Herald Square Theatre, Lew Fields will place his Summer production, The Midnight Sons, at the Broadway Theatre. June 1 is set for the opening date. The cast will include Lotta Faust, Marion Stanley, Dan Malley, Ed Radcliffe, George Monroe, Fritz Williams, and George C. Boniface.

Isabel Daintry, recently a member of the chorus in Havana, was married on April 13 to Francis H. A. Williamson, a young Englishman. The ceremony was performed at St. Patrick's Cathedral by Rev. Father W. B. Martin.

The Kilties Band has been playing Tasmania and New Zealand during the month of March, meeting with much success.

In support of Olga Nethersole when she opens at the Savoy Theatre next week will be William Morris, Robert T. Haines, Beverly Sitgreaves, Adelaide Nowak, Frank Craven, Albert Hackett, Florence Spreen, and John Bickford.

Lea Remonde joined the Burwood Stock company at Omaha on April 1, to play characters.

William McVey has been engaged for The Whirlpool.

The Garden Theatre has been engaged by the Equal Franchise Society, of which Mrs. Clarence Mackay is president, for suffragist meetings next Winter. Morning meetings will be held twice a month. The rest of the time the house may be put to its legitimate uses.

William Burress has gone to Chicago to take his original role of Andy Tandy in The Girl from Rector's.

Jules Murry has bought the entire production of Fluffy Ruffles, and will star Florence Gear in the piece next season.

Ethel Tucker is at Caldwell, Idaho, recovering from injuries received in Ontario, Ore., on New Year's Day, when she broke her leg. She is still on crutches. Her husband, Whit Brandon, is in Caldwell with her.

Arthur S. Phinney, manager for The Merry Widow company, and Dora Anspits Filippe, formerly with Savage's English Grand Opera company, were married in New York city on April 7.

Thomas Aiken has been re-engaged by Liebler and Company for the part of Mr. Stubbins in Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch, for next season.

Mercelta Esmonde (Mrs. H. S. Northrup), who is playing Mrs. Dennett in the No. 1 company of Girls, played Kate West for a week with emphatic success during the temporary illness of a member of the company.

Edward E. Rice has acquired the rights to a new musical comedy, The Duchess of Dublin, by M. Douglas Flattery, of Boston, and is negotiating for a Broadway theatre for a Spring production.

FREDERIC SUMNER.

Frederic Sumner, whose picture appears on the first page of this week's Mirror, has for the past season been playing Edgar Holt in Girls, receiving much praise from press and public, who have pronounced him second to no one who has played the part. Mr. Sumner has appeared in a number of New York productions and first-class road companies, such as The Little Minister, Iris and The Girl and the Judge, and is particularly adapted to both light comedy and juvenile leads. He has had a thorough schooling in the best stock companies in the country. Mr. Sumner will accept a first-class Summer engagement or place a company of his own if the desired location can be secured.

THE LONDON STAGE.

WEATHER AND PLAY PRODUCING BECOME MORE SPRING-LIKE.

The Noble Spaniard a Success—Bevis Equally Good About American Plays in England—Why Some Fail—Many Openings Promised.

(Special Correspondence of The Mirror.)

London, April 10.—At the moment of mailing, with Hot Cross Bun-day safely over, and with the near approach of what will be to some (but not, alas! for me) holidays of Easter, it gladdens me to be able to report two right pleasant matters—namely, vastly improved climatic conditions and a couple of capital new comedies.

No one on all the earth can, of course, say how long or short a run the weather betterment may achieve. The British-born climate is even more uncertain than the show business. As regards the two comedies, however, each of them certainly deserves a long and prosperous career, whether each gets it or not. Comedy No. 1, in point of priority of production, is The Noble Spaniard, adapted by that very prolific playwright, Somerset Maugham, and produced by Charles Hawtrey at the Royalty Theatre up in Soho, "by arrangement with Tom B. Davis," as the now piquant playbill announcement hath it, T. B. D. being concerned with several West End playhouses.

The Noble Spaniard plot revolves around the many amatory and martial or would-be dweller of adventures of Ferdinando Francisco, Duke of Hermanos, Marquis of Alcala, Knight of the Golden Fleece, and so on and so forth. The grandiose grandee's lightning-like pursuit of and proposals to a young and lovely widow lead to many alarms and excursions of comic jealousy and vivacious vengeance among all the dramatis personæ, married and single—and extremely diverting are the episodes thus aroused.

The scene is laid in Boulogne in 1850, and very quaint effects are produced by the early Victorian dresses, peg top shaped, Dundrearyish and the like. Charles Hawtrey impersonates the haughty, high-born cloaked and sombrero'd Spaniard with splendid humorous effect. In my mind's eye, Horatio Mirror, I seem to see your fine comedian, John Drew, in the part if the play reaches American shores, as no doubt it will.

Actor-Manager Hawtrey is brilliantly supported, especially by pretty Kate Cutler as the romantic and ringleted young widow, Lyall Swete as a justice, Athol Stewart as the Dundreary-like, or Brother Tham-like Captain Chalford, Leon M. Lion as a French Count, Vane Featherstone as his handsome Countess, Anne Cleaver as a sentimental ingenue, Joy Chatwin as a perplexed servant maid, and Fanny Brough richly comic as the jealous justice's wife, Lady Proudfoot. The Noble Spaniard may be described in English slanguage as a Spick and Span-ish panacea for pessimism.

The other new comedy which makes for the contentment of what the old play-tags used to call "our kind friends in front," is Bevis, written by that mostly brilliant young dramatist, Herbert Henry Davies, and produced at the Haymarket a few evenings back. Doubtless I ought to say "presented" instead of "produced," for the ubiquitous Citizen C. Frohman is associated with the Haymarket's lessee and Manager Frederick Harrison (Master of Arts, Trin. Col., Camb.) in the submitting of Bevis to public patronage. Indeed, so ubiquitous is Citizen Charles that I have had thoughts of inventing a kind of theatrical form of your new jig-saw game, called "Find-Where-Frohman-Isn't."

As to Bevis, I don't know that I can undertake to describe the story. To write it down would, I fear me, make it appear as thin—and shall I say as transparent—as the (for that time only) stupid Marie Dressler's recent "explanations" reported in the Mirror's contemporary, the Boston American, of her managerial muddle and fiasco in London a few weeks ago.

While upon this theme kindly allow me to state that Miss Dressler has not the slightest reason or cause for saying that we London playgoers and play noticers ever show any prejudice against American plays, and ditto players. The English public and the English press alike welcome play acting and play writing ability from whatever quarter of the world it may come to this metropolis.

Some American play importants have suffered here from being wrongly cast (as Paid in Full), from being too strictly American in "local color" to be understandable by London public, as, for example, 'Way Down East and The College Widow, and some plays America has sent us have been what the poor little swell in When Knights Were Bold calls "p-ure p-iffle." But every play and player from your States has had fair and just treatment here, and the disappointed player or playwright who comes back to your side attributing hatred and prejudice to the London public and press lies in his or her teeth! and as the man says in Measure for Measure—"Say I said so!"

I am amazed that Marie Dressler, whom I have always regarded as being as common-sensible as she is clever, should have held forth as to her recent managerial failure at the Aldwych Theatre in this city, as she is reported to have done. She assured me with her own lips that she meant to run that theatre for seven years certain. After putting on a piece, which proved utterly useless for London playgoing consumption, she gave up after about seven nights and made a hasty exit from this town. Miss Dressler knows that both in our variety theatres and at the Aldwych, the London public and press have always welcomed and applauded her brilliant comedy gifts and have enabled her to make large salaries here. I am still hoping to hear (as I still believe I shall) of Citizeness Dressler settling up certain unsettled matters regarding the Aldwych experiment which she so suddenly funked. But in the meantime, if Marie really did say all that the Boston American said she said, then I am reluctantly compelled to conclude by saying "Ungrateful Marie!" Nay! I was almost saying "Untruthful Marie!"

But revenons à nos moutons, the chief mouton in this case being Bevis, from which I digressed—or Dresslered. Well Bevis, although possessing a plot as transparent and delicate as—shall I say—a Dresden china cup-let, is yet a splendidly written and highly exhilarating work. I was not too well when I traveled many a weary league to see this play the other night, but I assure you that it quickly acted on your humble Knight to command, like a tonic. Like myself, the whole house heartily enjoyed this brightly penned and beautifully played society comedy. The only thing I was able to suggest by way of improvement was that the finale should be worked up a little more strongly instead of Bevis, the much sought young Marquis of Bewdley, and his at last captured sweetheart, a rich brewer's pretty and desirable daughter, strolling off and leaving an empty stage as it were.

Everybody in Bevis acts so artistically that it would be as stupid as invidious to place one before another in order of merit. Enough that the cast includes that excellent young light comedian, A. E. Matthews as Bevis, Marquis of Bewdley, and Henrietta Watson as his prim and precise mamma; C. V. France as the rich brewer, C. M. Lowne as Bevis' pebbly-beached uncle, and Lottie Verne screamingly funny as that uncle's artful little widow-fiancée.

The one sensation—or sensationette—of the week has been the sudden prohibition by the Lord Chamberlain of a projected Passion play which (with a crucifixion scene, if you please) was announced for presentation early this week at the so-called "Fortune Playhouse," which is a little front room off Golden Square in the new West End, a room hired by a small play producing association bearing the somewhat lofty name of "The English Drama Society."

Your Gawain was just doffing his chain mail for a more Lenten form of garb in order to travel to the Fortune, when lo! came tidings of His Chamberlainship's forbidment. I now learn, however, that the E. D. S. proposes to present the Passion Play privately next Tuesday Nous Verrons, which means Time and Small Bills will show.

The aforesaid American drama, Paid in Full, which suffered so severely from inadequate casting by President Frohman at the Aldwych a few months ago has, I am glad to say, just been given another chance. It has just promisingly started on tour with a strong company headed by Miss O'Neill. Some have regarded this Miss O'Neill as Nance ditto, but N., of course, is vaudevilling on your side.

The new play and the revival outlook is of a promising character. It includes Mr. Preedy and the Countess, by Richard Claude Carton, at the Criterion next Tuesday, with Weedon Grossmith and Katherine Compton (Mrs. Carton) in the leading parts; The Earth, a new drama by J. B. Fagan, to be produced by Lena Ashwell and Otto Stuart at the Kingsway next Wednesday. The Devil, adapted by Henry Hamilton from the German (via one of your American versions) at the Adelphi next Tuesday; the gorgeous revival by Beerbohm Tree of The School for Scandal at His Majesty's; The Conquest (with Lewis Waller and Maxine Elliott) at the Lyric a week or two hence, and Colonel Smith, written by A. E. W. Mason, M.P., for George Alexander, to produce at the St. James' on the 21st.

Also we are looking forward to Captain Kidd (formerly The Dictator), by Richard Harding Davis, with Seymour Hicks; Byron, written by Alecia Ramsey for Lewis Waller, to play the Bard of that name; Perkin Warbeck for H. B. Irving; Artful Miss Dearing, by Arthur Law, at Terry's, and The Chorus Lady, with Rose Stahl, at the Vaudeville. N. B.: Rose is expected to land on these shores this afternoon. Rose will again be welcome.

Gawain.

REVIEWS OF NEW PLAYS.

Coote; Lorenzo XVII, Raymond Hitchcock; Rocco, Edward M. Favor; Frederic, Edgar Atchison-Ely; Matheo, Bruce Smith; Parafante, Arthur Thalasso; Physician, Pony Moore; Nicola, Marie Louise Miller; Gabrini, Marguerite Loveridge; Adelaide, Inez Girard; Rosa, George Pullman; Rienzi, Clarence Coldren; Carlo, Nita Manson; Paolo, Alice Marrenner; Angelo, Flora Crosbie; Luigi, Geraldine Bruce; Marco, Greta Gleason; Garri, Bee Wentworth. Mr. Hitchcock as Lorenzo is amusing in his usual way, which makes up for his total inability to sing. Flora Zabelle makes a pleasing Bettina and plays well opposite the Pippo of Henry Coote. Estelle Wentworth is good vocally and histrionically. Edward M. Favor makes a good Rocco, and Edgar Atchison-Ely plays Frederic well. Others in the cast are satisfactory and the production is expensive.

West End—The Fighting Hope.

Blanche Bates opened to a large audience on April 12 at the West End Theatre with her complete production as it appeared at the Stuyvesant Theatre of The Fighting Hope. Only the highest words of praise can be said of the production and its supporting cast, and Miss Bates as Anna cleverly portrayed the emotions of the character in every detail. This week Liebler and Company will present Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch with the organization that toured Australia for six months.

At Other Playhouses.

Grand Opera House.—After two successful weeks, Paid in Full has been replaced by The Soul Kiss, with Genee.

Metropolis.—Girls was well received here last week. This week, The Wizard of Oz.

Yorkville.—Forty-five Minutes from Broadway was last week's attraction here. This week, Fifty Miles from Boston.

Daly's.—The last week of E. H. Sothern's engagement here was devoted to If I Were King, for five performances, and Lord Dundreary and Richelieu for one each. Last night Roy McCardell's comedy, The Gay Life, received its first New York hearing.

Grand Street.—The Great White Diamond was the offering by the stock company last week. This week, White Slaves of New York.

THE NEW ZEALAND STAGE.

Red Mill and Prince of Pilsen Tours Draw to a Close—Notes.

(Special Correspondence of The Mirror.)

Wellington, March 16.—Ben Fuller, of the Fuller Proprietory, leaves by the Manapouri today en route to America. He joins the Mariposa at Papette, journeying by that steamer to San Francisco. He will be away some ten months, his mission being to secure novelties for the Fuller circuit.

If everything be true that is said, theatrical managers will have a "big hurdle to jump" during the coming Winter to make ends meet.

Meynell and Gunn's Dramatic company opened a tour of the Dominion at Auckland on March 15 with The Miner's Trust.

J. C. Williamson's Royal Comic Opera company commence a tour of the Dominion at the Wellington Opera House on Easter Saturday with a repertoire including The Merry Widow, The Duchess of Dantzic, The Dairymaids, and The Girls of Gottenburg.

The New Zealand tour of the Ada Crossley Concert company was not up to the managerial expectations from a financial standpoint.

Edwin Geach's Dramatic company opens a tour of the Dominion at the Wellington Royal on Easter Saturday.

The Pollard Opera company is doing fair business since its return from Australia some four weeks ago. The company is due at Auckland for Easter.

J. C. Williamson's Red Mill and Prince of Pilsen company is just finishing a tour of the Dominion. Business has been fairly good.

The New Zealand tour of the Royal Welsh Male Choir is proving very successful in every way.

Montgomery's two moving picture shows are doing fine business.

The New Zealand tour of the Kolker-Titheridge-Humphrey's Dramatic company was brought to a sudden close, the Dunedin and Invercagill dates not being fulfilled. I am sorry to state that the box-office receipts were not by any means up to the managerial expectations.

Andrew Smart.

BROOKLYN'S ONLY BOHEMIAN.

John J. A. McBrien, celebrated and widely known across the bridges as "Brooklyn's Only Bohemian," has been engaged by Harrison Grey Fiske for Roy L. McCardell's comedy, The Gay Life.

Mr. McBrien is of diminutive but striking personal appearance, it not being known whether he is a very old young man or a very young old man. He is a journalist of some note, being late of The Fermanagh News, Enniskillen, Ireland, and more recently connected with the Metropolitan Section's Geographical Survey, wherein he gained more than passing fame by heading several Perry Pharmacy Relief Expeditions.

For the past several years Mr. McBrien has been a familiar figure around the ice cream parlors of Brooklyn, leading the merry roysterers of the rubber plant city in many root beer and doughnut orgies, sometimes holding high revels around drug store soda fountains as late as 10 p.m. Mr. McBrien also held the Prospect Park croquet championship two Summers, and won the Merry Greenwooders tiddledewink tourney.

As "Brooklyn's Only Bohemian," Mr. McBrien prides himself on the fact that he never touches alcoholic liquors in any form, abstains from tobacco teetotally, and carefully avoids the company of those whose conduct may be the cause of criticism.

He appears in the bohemian restaurant scene in the third act of The Gay Life at Daly's Theatre, and represents in Manhattan the reckless and care-free bohemianism they know across the bridges.

THE CLARA MORRIS BENEFIT.

A Varied and Notable Programme Enjoyed by a Large Audience.

Clara Morris as Camille.

At a benefit tendered to Clara Morris at the New York Theatre last Friday afternoon under the auspices of the Twelfth Night Club, the sum of $3,200 was raised toward the $4,000 indebtedness on "The Pines," Miss Morris' home at Riverdale-on-the-Hudson. The theatre was filled, practically every player within easy reach of Broadway being in the audience, in addition to many men prominent in the managerial field. Old-time theatregoers were there, too, in abundance, gray heads being numerous in the front rows, and to these, perhaps, Miss Morris' farewell appearance meant more than to the younger element.

The programme was a lengthy and remarkable one. The most noteworthy number was the presentation by an "all-star" cast of the second act of Oscar Wilde's witty play, Lady Windermere's Fan. Virginia Harned was the Mrs. Erlynne, Frances Starr appeared as Lady Windermere, the Lady Jedburgh was Ida Waterman, the Duchess of Berwick, Selina Fetter Royle; Lady Plymdale, Julia Dean; Lady Agatha Carlisle, Nellie Thorne; Mrs. Cowper-Cowper, Lucille Watson; Lady Stutfield, Dorothy Tennant; Lord Windermere, Robert Warwick; Mr. Hopper, William Courtleigh; Lord Augustus Lorton, E. M. Holland; Cecil Graham, William Courtenay; Lord Darlington, Edwin Arden; Mr. Dumby, Lawrance D'Orsay, and Parker, W. Chrystie Miller. The guests at the Windermere's ball were portrayed by a most distinguished group of "extra ladies and gentlemen," including Mrs. Lawrance D'Orsay, Mrs. Gilbert Heron Miller, Agnes Herron Miller, Mary Cecil, Louise Collins, Eloise Dean, Margaret Gordon, Jane Rogers, Jack Devereaux, Roy Fairchild, Lloyd Carleton, J. Malcolm Dunn, Robert Fielding, Evert Jansen Wendell, Hassard Short, Robert McKay, Langdon West, Mr. Graham, and Mr. Hill. David Belasco staged this number of the programme and Will J. Dean acted as stage-manager at its performance. The remaining numbers on the bill were the presentation of a one-act play by Evelyn Greenleaf Sutherland, entitled His Own, in which Edmund Breese, Ina Hammer, Edna May Hamel, and Sheldon Lewis appeared; the second act of Divorçons, with a cast including Grace George, Frank Worthing, Henry Miller, Jr., Ruth Benson, Evelyn Carrington, Jewel Power, Frederick Esmelton, and Edward Fielding; a one-act farce by John Kendrick Bangs, entitled The Real Thing, and staged by Elisabeth Tyree Metcalfe, with a cast including Louise Galloway, Carolyn Kenyon, Sally Williams, Helen Ashley, Ina Hammer, Alfred Hickman, and Charles Laite; Amelia Summerville in an amusing monologue; Anna Wynn with some clever imitations; David Bispham, Chauncey Olcott, Jefferson De Angelis, Flavia Arcaro, and Miss Morris herself, assisted by Mr. Campbell and Edith Campbell, in the sleep-walking scene from Macbeth. Miss Morris was enthusiastically greeted. The orchestra was under the direction of Gustav Saenger, and the stage under the management of Ira Hards, assisted by Lloyd Carlton, Bernard A. Reinold, and Charles Laite. Daniel Frohman acted as treasurer.

Wilton Lackaye made a happily worded speech at the opening of the bill, and at the close of the performance Miss Morris spoke, seated in a chair in the center of the stage, dressed in the white night-robes of Lady Macbeth, and surrounded by the players who had so generously proffered their services. Her little speech was one of reminiscence and thanks, and at its close, standing as the orchestra and audience joined in "Auld Lang Syne," Miss Morris waved her farewell as the curtain slowly fell.

ALBANY THEATRE MANAGERS WARNED.

The local theatre managers at Albany, N. Y., were notified last Saturday by the police department of the new theatre ordinance recently enacted by the city government barring children under sixteen years from attending theatres unaccompanied by parents or guardians. Many protests have been already made to the Mayor over the enforcing of this order. One moving picture theatre proprietor said he received most of his patronage from children, and it would be the means of compelling him to close. He said he had never showed any pictures that could be complained of. Although this new ordinance was supposed to be aimed solely at the moving picture houses it has its effect upon all classes of theatres in Albany. Another ordinance which the theatre managers have been notified to comply with is that requiring women to remove their hats in theatres.

ZIEGFELD LOSES APPEAL.

An application by F. Ziegfeld, Jr., for permission to appeal from a judgment of $1,299 obtained against him by Lee Shubert in the City Court and affirmed by the Appellate Term, was denied last Friday by the Appellate Division. Shubert alleged that he cabled the money to Ziegfeld when the latter was abroad on condition that a contract was later to be entered into between them. Ziegfeld, he says, refused to enter into a contract, and Shubert wants his money back. Counsel for Ziegfeld asked for permission for an appeal on the ground that because his client denied receiving the money from the Shubert Theatrical Company, in whose name the suit was first brought, it was wrong to infer that Ziegfeld borrowed the money from Shubert.

NEW ROCHELLE ON A VISIT.

A delegation of residents of New Rochelle, N. Y., occupied boxes at Daly's Theatre last night to witness Roy L. McCardell's comedy, The Gay Life. Mr. McCardell is a resident of New Rochelle, and his fellow townsmen naturally wished to be present at the initial performance of The Gay Life. The delegation consisted of Hon. George Raymond, Mayor of New Rochelle; Judge Van Auken, Hon. Harry Todd, Albert Mahlstedt, Julius Kusche and R. E. Forbes, editor of the New Rochelle Paragraph. Accompanying them were Captain Thomas Powers and Captain French, U. S. A., and Lieutenant Ross, army officers attached to Fort Slocum, which is just opposite New Rochelle.

DECLARE FOR "THE OPEN DOOR."

A VERY SIGNIFICANT MOVEMENT BY THE WESTERN THEATRE MANAGERS' ASSOCIATION.

Representatives of More than Four Hundred Theatres in Various States in the West Make a Declaration of Independence, and Will Open Their Houses to All Acceptable Attractions.

When the Western Theatre Managers' Association declared, at its recent meeting in Chicago, for "the open door" policy in the future, with regard to booking attractions, it aroused more public interest than was expected. The declaration of independence, for it amounted to that, has been a live topic since in and out of the theatrical world.

While the meeting was large, the full membership was not present, but the number answering the roll call was a very creditable percentage of 280 managers so widely scattered. Absentees were in full sympathy with those present, it is said, so the declaration has the full force of an announcement that hereafter more than 400 theatres in the Middle West will book any attraction that looks good, no matter who offers it.

The following is a nearly complete list of the managers present at the meeting which declared for the "open door" policy:

Charles T. Kindt, Davenport; W. M. Savage, Alton, Ill.; George W. Chatterton, Springfield, Ill.; Mark Heiman, Champaign, Ill.; George Peck, representing the Chamberlin-Harrington circuit, and James Wingfield, representing the Interstate circuit; J. T. Henderson, Joliet and Aurora; W. L. Busby, Quincy; Samuel Harrington, Peoria; J. E. Williams, Streator; Samuel Kahl, Mattoon; W. T. Wiseman, Robinson, Ill.; George Sackett, Rockford, Ill.; F. J. Given, Decatur; Mr. Flannery, Dixon and Freeport; L. H. Dibble, Faribault, Minn.; John W. Seigel, Connellsville, Ill.; O. F. Burlingame, Winona; W. J. Nankvee, Austin; F. C. Zearing, Lincoln, Neb.; C. A. Lick, Ft. Smith, Ark.; Marvin Hufford, Frankfort, Ind.; C. A. Holden, Wabash, Ind.; H. E. Rosenberg, Huntingdon, Ind.; F. Gazzolo, Logansport, Ind.; D. Nye, Hammond, Ind.; John Wingfield, Racine; Jos. G. Rohde, Kenosha; J. Heiman, Madison; Ed. Overholzer, Oklahoma City (and a chain of theatres in that part of the country); W. M. Hinton, Muskogee, Okla.; C. W. Philley, St. Jo; Don Stewart, St. Jo; Geo. Olendorf, Springfield, Mo.; Crawford, Joplin; M. S. Scovil, Burlington, Iowa; W. S. Collier, Cedar Rapids, La.; Busby Brothers, Grinnell and Waterloo; O. Oelwine, Marshalltown; Mr. Bell, Chanute, Kan.; Harry Enrich, Ft. Scott, Kan.; W. K. Bell, Independence, Kan.; W. W. Bell, Pittsburg, Kan.; Roy Crawford, Topeka; W. Pierce, Sedalia; Mr. Martling, Wichita; J. J. Marshall, Manhattan; Maurice Jenks, Sioux Falls; Mr. Coffin, Hot Springs; S. D. Curran, Colorado circuit.

The association is growing rapidly, as its present membership of nearly 300 after two years of life indicates. It was started in Kansas City with less than twenty members. At the last meeting there were forty applications for membership. The association is organized after the plan of the national body of billposters. The members mutually assist in getting information about attractions and reports on them. The headquarters are now at Springfield, Mo., where the secretary, Mr. Olendorf, lives, but it is expected the general office will be in Chicago after next season. The vice-presidents for the various States include: James Wingfield, Illinois; J. R. Rode, Wisconsin; O. F. Burlingame, Minnesota; W. L. Busby, Iowa; C. A. Lick, Arkansas; C. A. Holden, Indiana; Roy Crawford, Kansas; W. F. Hinton, Oklahoma.

Among the theatres now pledged to the "open door" policy are four in Arkansas, nine in Indiana, twenty-three in Missouri, twenty in Iowa, thirty-six in Illinois, nine in Minnesota, six in Nebraska, twenty-four in Kansas, five in Oklahoma, three in Utah, one in Wyoming, and eleven in Colorado.

FIELDS TAKES BROADWAY MAY 1.

Lew Fields, who becomes the manager of the Broadway Theatre on May 1, announces that the initial attraction at that house under his régime will be William Faversham in The World and His Wife, the dramatic satire adapted from the Spanish by Charles Frederic Nirdlinger, in which Mr. Faversham played an engagement at Daly's Theatre earlier in the season. Mr. Faversham's engagement at the Fields' Broadway Theatre will begin Monday evening, May 3. Mr. Faversham will be followed at the Broadway by Mr. Fields' own Summer revue, The Midnight Sons, by Glen McDonough and Raymond Hubbell, which is now being staged by Ned Wayburn, who staged the presentation of Havana, now running with extraordinary success at the Casino.

BEVERLY OF GRAUSTARK A SUCCESS.

Last week at the Alvin Theatre, Pittsburgh, A. G. Delamater's and William Norris' production of Beverly of Graustark played to 9,087 people. At some performances the orchestra was placed upon the stage, and at the Saturday matinee the sale of standing room was stopped by the police. Curtain calls were numerous and the company and scenic equipment came in for much warm praise from the Pittsburgh press. The piece is in Buffalo this week and appears in Toronto next week. Jessie Busley, who plays the leading role, has been placed under contract for a term of years by Mr. Delamater, and it is the latter's intention later to star her in a new modern comedy by a well-known author.

SUCCESSFUL IN STOCK.

Pretty Peggy, which Arthur C. Alston bought about two years ago from its author, Frances Aymer Mathews, is rapidly becoming popular as a bill for the stock companies. On his Western trip Manager Alston leased the play in ten different cities. It was produced in Minneapolis at the Lyric the week of March 21 and scored such a hit that it had to be kept on a second week. It was put on at the Valencia, San Francisco, week March 28 and, owing to the enormous business done, it was kept on the following week. This week it is being seen at the Lois Theatre, Seattle, and immediately following its production there it will be put on in Tacoma, Portland, at the Belasco, Los Angeles, Salt Lake City, Omaha and St. Louis.

THE CANDY SHOP PRODUCED.

The Candy Shop, by George V. Hobart, with music by John L. Golden, was produced at Atlantic City, N. J., on April 16, under the direction of Charles Dillingham. The cast includes Louise Dresser, Frank Lalor, Annie Yeamans, Bliss Milford, Malcolm Williams, William Rock, and Maude Fulton. After a week in Philadelphia the piece will open at the Knickerbocker for a Summer run.

SWINBURNE DEAD.

Algernon Charles Swinburne, the English poet, died at Putney, England, on April 10 of pneumonia. His poems include several tragedies, among them "Bothwell," "Erechtheus," "Mary Stuart," "Marino Faliero," "Locrine," and "Sisters." He was born in London on April 5, 1837. The body was taken to Bonchurch, Isle of Wight, for burial.

FRANK KEENAN LEAVES BELASCO.

Frank Keenan has cancelled his contract with David Belasco by mutual consent. He felt that the terms of the contract, that prevented his accepting engagement except under Mr. Belasco's management, interfered with his opportunities. The severance of his relations with Mr. Belasco was perfectly amicable. He has no definite plans for next season.

JOHN CORBIN TO BE JUDGE.

John Corbin, literary director of the New Theatre, has been asked to act as dramatic judge in the contest for the Governor-General's trophy in Ottawa, Canada, next month.

THREE ONE-ACT PLAYS.

Presented at the Berkeley Theatre by the Radcliffe Club, of New York.

At the Berkeley Theatre last Friday afternoon the Radcliffe Club of New York presented three original one-act plays for the benefit of the fund maintained by the club. The first, The Wings, by Josephine Preston Peabody (Mrs. Lionel Marks), was presented by Mrs. Bertha Kinn Baker, David A. Mason and Felix Krembs; the second, The Hundredth Trick, by Beulah Marie Dix, was played by Helen Ware, who appeared for the first time in a boy's role; Ben Johnson, J. J. Ryan, and Jacob Wendell, Jr.; and the third, The Orange Girl, by Agnes Bangs Morgan, was interpreted by Josephine Sherwood, Blanche Friderici, Frank Jamison, and the authoress herself. All three plays were written by Radcliffe graduates. Between the acts Robert Craig Campbell sang, and William Grafing King, violinist, played to the piano accompaniment of Mabel W. Daniels, of the Boston Vincent Club, a sonata of Miss Daniels' composing. The audience was large and contained many theatrical, literary and social notables. Wilton Lackaye opened the programme with a short address.

BARNARD'S TWELFTH NIGHT.

Large Audiences Witness the Undergraduate Production Without Scenery.

At the Brinckerhoff Theatre, Barnard College, on Friday and Saturday evenings and Saturday afternoon of last week, the Undergraduate Association produced Twelfth Night to audiences which completely filled the little theatre and were enthusiastic in their approval. The play was mounted without scenery, although costuming and properties were made use of. The Viola was Frances Randolph, who contributed an intelligent, painstaking and altogether charming impersonation. The Orsino was H. Wayt (whether Miss Helen, Harriet or Heloise the programme failed to state), and with a most manly mustache and a dashing little tuft just above the dimple in her chin, acted in quite matinee idol fashion. A jolly old reprobate was Miss Dempsey's Sir Toby, bibulous as to face and unsteady as to gait. The Sebastian was Miss Woodhull; the Antonio, Miss Black; Sir Andrew, Miss Closson; Malvolio, Miss Obendorfer; and the Maria, Miss Allen. The smaller roles were carefully done and in every way the performance was thoroughly enjoyable and commendable.

ACTORS' CHURCH ALLIANCE NEWS.

Local and National Headquarters, 550 Seventh Avenue, New York.

The Brooklyn Chapter held a reception and entertainment at Hotel Imperial on Friday evening, April 16. Many members and friends were present, and after an interesting business meeting the following programme was presented under direction of Mrs. Diack, the chairman of the Entertainment Committee: Humorous stories, by Mr. Wiegand; speciality, Irene Collins; baritone solo, William Mogk; comic sketches, Emmett Bailey; recitations, Miss D. Buerman; specialties, Maybelle Clarke; recitations and mandolin selections, Leona and Thelma Entwisle. The singing and spirited piano playing of Ethel Davenport was also a delightful feature of the occasion. Refreshments and a social hour followed. During the evening interesting addresses on Alliance opportunity and duty were given by Samuel C. Morris and Charles T. Catlin, of the National Council.

Tickets for the euchre for the funds of the National Council, Waldorf-Astoria, Wednesday afternoon, April 21, may be obtained at headquarters.

Information, literature, etc., will be sent promptly to friends in any part of the United States or Canada who desire to form chapters.

The Alliance religious service, Manhattan, Church of the Intercession, West Forty-third Street, Sunday, 18th, was well conducted by the rector, Rev. Mr. Steen, who preached a sermon effective and inspiring.

Under direction of Kizzie B. Masters, the committee chairman, a delightful programme is in preparation for the New York Chapter's April reception, Thursday afternoon, April 22. A cordial invitation is extended to all Alliance workers and friends. The place will be the Intercession Chapter House, West Forty-third Street.

The National Convention opens May 27, in New York. The New York Chapter annual meeting will be at 7.30 P.M. on May 6. C. T. Catlin's reading of Richelieu, for the New York Chapter, will come in the second week in May.

SOME SHUBERT ACTIVITIES.

The Messrs. Shubert announced yesterday afternoon that by special arrangement with Harrison Grey Fiske, Madame Bertha Kalich would appear next season under Shubert direction, probably opening in a modern play. Other announcements of the Shuberts are that The Blue Mouse will remove from the Lyric to Maxine Elliott's Theatre on May 3, to make room for The Great John Ganton, now being played in Chicago. Charles Cherry in The Bachelor will play one week at the West End before Mr. Cherry starts for England. The Shuberts have obtained the American rights to Gretchen, a German farce played at the Irving Place Theatre two weeks ago, and to The Prima Ballerina, a light opera produced in Frankfort, Germany, last week. A Spring production by the Shuberts will be The Revellers, a comedy by Charles Richman.

SPECULATORS INCORPORATE.

The New York Ticket Speculators' Association, New York, has been incorporated at Albany, with George J. Duncan, John J. O'Brien and Morris Blau, all of New York, as directors.

GOSSIP OF THE TOWN.

The Servant in the House, translated into Swedish by Hilda Englund, was produced at the Svenska Theatre, Stockholm, on April 14.

The Brass Bowl, that opened in Springfield, Mass., on April 12, was withdrawn Saturday night.

Carrie Bowman has been engaged for Lew Fields' company in The Midnight Sons.

Sixty Years Young, a new comedy, will be given at the Berkeley Theatre this afternoon for the benefit of the Art Workers' Club. In the cast will be Ernest Perrin, Bonnie Maud, Jarvis Jocelyn, and Maud Madison.

Lorraine Keene underwent an operation at Dieu Hospital, El Paso, Tex., on April 5. She is recovering and will be out in a few weeks.

Jessica Filkins, formerly a member of E. H. Sothern's company, was married in Chicago, Ill., on April 14, to Ernest C. Filkins, of the firm of Holland and Filkins.

The Golden Gate Professional Club met Sunday night with T. E. Walsh, of the California Promotion Society, in the chair. A committee was appointed to consider means of organizing a club of all the Californians in New York.

Mrs. H. C. De Mille is rejoicing over the success of the dramatization of "Beverly of Graustark." She is representing George Barr McCutcheon, the novelist.

Lillian Lee has been engaged for The Midnight Sons, at the Broadway Theatre, this Summer.

The American Theatre at Elyria, O., was destroyed by fire on April 14.

A letter from Edwin Mordant states that a woman calling herself Charlotte Crane is asking aid of theatrical people in New York, using Mrs. Mordant's name as a reference. Mrs. Mordant does not know the woman, except to the extent of having given her a small sum of money at one time. Mr. and Mrs. Mordant will return to New York early next week.

Mrs. Harry F. Winter, wife of the manager of the Empire Theatre, Toledo, O., was badly burned by the explosion of gas in a gas range at her home in Toledo last week.

Marie Pavey, on the night of her last appearance with the Jefferson Theatre Stock company, Memphis, Tenn., before going to Portland, Me., was presented with a handbag by the company and Manager Morrison. She also received many flowers and a number of presents from her friends in Memphis.

Kittie Nice Perle, who joined the Royal Opera Company appearing in Giroflé-Girofla at Gloversville, N. Y., week of May 15, made a big impression as prima donna with that organization. The local papers stated, in no uncertain terms, their approval of the change made by the management in the prima donna and conceded that the company has been strengthened to such a degree it was a revelation to all music lovers in Gloversville. She has received the strongest indorsement for her voice and work in this organization which she so recently joined, which must be a source of appreciative satisfaction to her and her plans.

Will S. Rising, the well-known actor-singer, has fallen heir to an interest in the large estate of his father, Philip Rising, a retired banker and veteran of the Mexican War, who died recently at the old homestead in Lancaster, Ohio.

The Harvest Moon, a play written by Augustus Thomas from a one-act sketch recently presented at a Lambs Club gambol, will be produced early next Fall with George Nash in the leading role.

Kathryn Osterman will appear next season in a new play entitled A Woman of To-day, by Arthur W. Stace and Roy K. Moulton.

One of the most promising enterprises of the coming Summer season is the Buffalo Midsummer Exposition, which is to be held in that city from June 19 to July 4 inclusive. This exposition will have a spectacular display in the amusement line.

The Balance, a new play by Ford L. Shotwell, a young writer, will be produced in Syracuse this Spring. The theme is one of every-day life and the cast contains six people.

Chrystal Herne has been engaged for the title-role in Miss Philma, to be produced next Fall.

Kate Douglas Wiggin is at work on a play to be called Rebecca, founded on her novels, "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm" and "The Chronicles of Rebecca."

Louis James will make a big production of The School for Scandal next season, Mr. James playing Sir Peter Teazle and Aphie James Lady Teazle.

Walter Kerrigan, now with Brown of Harvard, is to be starred next season in the West under the direction of Edward Cassidy.

Jeannette Lowrie has replaced Violet Dale as Lente in The Girl from Rector's. Miss Dale has joined the Chicago company.

Boyd Nolan, of Percy Williams' Stock company, which closed at the Gotham, Brooklyn, last week, has been engaged for both the leads with the Phelan Stock for a limited Spring season at Lynn, Mass.

Josie Robinson Haywood left for Portland, Me., where she will be a member of the Keith Theatre Stock for the Summer.

NOTES OF VARIOUS ACTIVITIES.

Henrietta Goodmann, who has been playing the lead in Under Southern Skies (Western) during the past season, has received universal praise for her work by the press of all cities in which she has played. She is open to offers for season of 1909-10.

An elegant plush tableau curtain, as good as new, costing $700, and costumes of the Gainsborough period, which cost $4000, are offered for sale at a sacrifice by "J. P. S.," care this office.

The Gaiety Theatre, Galesburg, Ill., which has been successfully operated by Holmes and Chappell for the past three years, is offered for sale by them. Their Gaiety Stock Company, after a profitable run of fifty consecutive weeks, will close the week of April 26 with an elaborate production of When We Were Twenty-One. They open their new Gaiety Opera Company on Monday, May 3, headed by Grace Belmont and Steve Stott, in The Mikado. The company will number twenty-six, and an orchestra of ten pieces, under Paul Kramer, will be featured. The Gaiety Theatre's reputation will doubtless find a ready purchaser for the property.

Andrews, the widely known Chicago dealer in stage costumes, has just moved into a handsome new store, several doors north of the old location. The new number is 230 South State, opposite Congress street. A largely increased stock in great and handsome variety is shown and many other marked improvements. For ten years or more the Andrews house has been in high favor and evidently intends to keep there.

THE RECORD OF DEATHS.

Mrs. Elizabeth Booth Tarkington, mother of the novelist, died at her home in Indianapolis of heart disease on April 17.

Dennis De Voy, father of Arthur and Emmett De Voy and brother-in-law of the late J. K. Emmett, died at his home in St. Louis last week.

E. H. Stevens, an actor of some repute and talent, died at the Elks' Home, Bedford City, Va., April 13.

ETHEL FULLER.

This picture shows Ethel Fuller as Maryland Calvert in The Heart of Maryland, a part she played with much success. The past season she has been starring in La Belle Russe, David Belasco's famous old play. This Spring Miss Fuller has been assiduously reading vaudeville sketches in search of a suitable vehicle for a try at the two-a-day.

BOSTON

David Warfield—The Traveling Salesman, 2d—Marie Cahill—Others.

Boston, April 19.—There is an unprecedentedly large number of changes of bills in town to-day, for all the houses, but two make changes so as to bring in new attractions for the holiday matinee on account of Patriots' Day.

Perhaps the most interesting of all was the coming of David Warfield, who opened at the Majestic at night. He has always had notable engagements there in The Music Master, and now he comes here with an entirely new play with which to make comparison. A Grand Army Man was received with the greatest of favor, especially for the impersonation by Mr. Warfield. It will remain here only this week, and then he will replace it by The Music Master for a week, but it may be received again before the engagement ends.

Marie Cahill is back in town after a long absence—nearly two seasons—and there were large gatherings to greet her at both matinee and night. The Boys and Betty gives her capital opportunities as a comedienne, and her songs are of her best. The company is far above the average for musical comedy, and those especially well liked were Eugene Cario and Harriet Burt.

The Traveling Salesman reached town to-day after having been anticipated all the season at the Park. The comedy by James Forbes ought to have a long run, judging by the marked success which The Chorus Lady had here a year ago, but this has no star part and depends for its popularity upon the excellence of the rest. This is certainly well balanced, and Mark Smith, James O'Neill, Jr., Rowland Caulfield, and Diana Hunter were especially well liked. Mr. Forbes is in town for the premiere.

The policy at the Castle Square has again changed for a time so as to go back to the regime which was so well liked when The Circus Girl held the stage. The new production is A Runaway Girl, and it exhibits the full strength of the stock company with additions. Mary Young is capital as Winifred Gray, and Donald Meek is genuinely amusing in James Powers' old character. One of the most interesting of the special engagements is that of Louise Le Baron, who sang delightfully and acted with genuine comedy force as Carmelita. There was an enlarged chorus, and men replaced the women's orchestra.

At the Bowdoin Square the stock company sticks close to dramatic work. No carnival comedy there ever, for life is far too serious at the West End. The revival of the week is The Octoroon, reminding of days in the old Museum. Charlotte Hunt was the Zoe, Annie Clark's old part, and her sister, Gussie, also shared honors of the evening.

Mrs. Fiske, who has just finished a most successful engagement in Boston, was tendered a reception by the editors of the Harvard "Advocate" at Harvard University, on the afternoon of April 17. She was accompanied by Lotta Crabtree. The guest of honor was presented by W. G. Tinckom-Fernandez, editor-in-chief of the "Advocate," and assisting him were his fellow-member on the staff, including Edward Sheldon, '08, author of Salvation Nell. A group of handsomely gowned women presided over the tea table, and among those who dropped in to pay their respects to Mrs. Fiske were many of the prominent members of the faculty of Harvard, including especially Professor George P. Baker, who is so intimately associated with the drama, and Professor Barrett Wendell and members of their families.

The Follies of 1908 is back again in town, with all the people that scored hits during the long run at the Tremont, but this time the engagement is at the Colonial. This is the last fortnight of the tour and then the company goes to New York for preparations for the new revue at the Jardin de Paris.

The Servant in the House is in its fourth week at the Tremont, with the Henry Miller Associate Players. The engagement is continuing with such excellent business—excellent for such a play—that several of the members of the company have taken apartments for the Spring and are keeping house, just as The Merry Widow folks did.

There is plenty of fun for a change at the Grand Opera House this week, with Happy Hooligan, full of specialties, and living up to the fun of the newspaper cartoons.

The Globe ended its regular season with the engagement of School Days, and now for the Summer it will be devoted to moving pictures and vaudeville, which is a decided change in policy for that house.

Will H. Murphy, Blanche Nichols, and their company head the bill at Keith's this week, and Marie Dainton is so popular that she has been retained for another week.

George Primrose is another minstrel star brought to the Orpheum as a headliner, and Katie Barry, Eddie Girard, and others are on the bill.

Andy Lewis and his Mardi Gras Burlesquers are at the Gaiety, the Merry Maidens at the Columbia, Uncle Sam's Belles and a house olio headed by Wills and Hassan at the Howard Athenaeum, and Bob Manchester's Cracker Jacks at the Palace. There is a double bill announced at Austin and Stone's, and the Bijou Dream and the other moving picture houses make changes of bill for the holiday week.

There will be still another new theatre built in town this Summer, for Charles H. Waldron, who gives up the Palace, is not going to be out of the running by any means, for he has his plans all made to build a new house, to be devoted to burlesque and vaudeville. He has been at the Palace for ten years and now he will take a new site on Hanover Street, near Tremont Row. The house, Waldron's Casino, will be a large one, as to seat about 2,000, and it will be fireproof in every way. It will be built at once so as to open early in the Fall. Clarence H. Blackall, who planned the Colonial and several other Boston houses, is the architect.

It looks as if the Ringling Brothers' Circus, when it comes here next month, would have a downtown location on the site of the old Park Square station. If arrangements are carried out, the old buildings will be razed in time for the circus to enter. All that is needed is municipal authority. A protest was made to the Mayor on Saturday by ministers who wanted the circus kept away from that section of the city.

The Bank Officers' Association had its ladies' night last week in Tremont Temple, and vaudeville attractions from all over town added to the interest of the occasion. It has not been decided yet whether the bank officers will give theatricals next year or not. Several parks are under consideration by them.

Mrs. Emma Sleviden Frye was in town last week and spoke upon the educational value of a children's theatre at a special conference held at the rooms of the Twentieth Century Club.

Jeanne Gerville, leader, and Clauter Gilbert, of the Manhattan Opera forces, remained over in town to give a concert at Symphony Hall.

Emil Mollenhauer has been secured to be the leader for the ten Sunday afternoon concerts in Boston Common. He is one of the best liked of the conductors hereabouts.

There was general regret at the sudden death of Fred R. Comee, the assistant manager of Symphony Hall. He had been identified with the Symphony and Pop concerts, and had thousands of friends. His illness was very short.

The first statement of the executors of the late Isaac B. Riel was filed last week, showing receipts of $234,473, and expenditures of $39,123, leaving a balance of $195,350 for distribution. A large part of the personal property is represented by stocks and bonds of various railroads.

BALTIMORE

The Fortune Hunter Wins Out—A Managerial Opinion of the Season's Business.

Baltimore, April 17.—The Fortune Hunter, with Thomas W. Ross, has scored a genuine success at Ford's this week, where the houses have been full to overflowing. The comedy is regarded as one of the most truly delightful seen here in years. Frank Daniels will be seen next week in Hook of Holland.

Fritzi Scheff has enjoyed a week of fairly good business at the Academy in The Prima Donna. E. H. Sothern will appear next week in repertoire, beginning with Richelieu, to be followed by If I Were King, Lord Dundreary, and Hamlet.

The Page Stock company will present The Importance of Being Ernest, Oscar Wilde's well-known comedy, at the Auditorium. The patronage this week to witness Mrs. Temple's Telegram has been encouraging.

The usual excellent Keith bill is presented at the Maryland. The Avenue Girls appear next week at the Monumental, and Fred Irwin's Majestics will hold the stage of the Gayety.

Cole and Johnson open next week in The Red Moon at the Holliday Street.

Baltimore Lodge No. 7, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, will hold its annual benefit at Ford's on Monday evening, the attraction being Frank Daniels in Hook of Holland. The house has been completely sold out, and tickets are in such demand that it could have been filled twice over.

Speaking of the business of the season Manager Charles E. Ford, of Ford's Grand Opera House, stated that "the results of the passing theatrical season from a financial standpoint have varied but slightly, perhaps less than five per cent. from last year. This variance was occasioned both by the financial depression and the political situation. The general result, however, has been most satisfactory, both as to the character of attractions and the patronage. Ford's Grand Opera House will remain open the entire Summer, with light entertainments at popular prices. The experience of last season indicates the possibility of some regular entertainments during the heated term."

The season's business at the Maryland has been uniformly good, and the Keith bills have proved generally satisfactory. At the vaudeville houses, the Gayety and the Monumental, the season has been satisfactory, the management at the Gayety intimating that they will be perfectly happy if business in future years is as good as in that just passed.

Mr. Ford adds that he is not interested in theatrical enterprises beyond the opera house, feeling that that gives him sufficient occupation.

The moving picture exhibitions which, for the most part, charge but five cents admission, with some few charging ten cents, have made decided inroads in the business of the popular priced theatres. These picture shows are springing up all over the city, many being located in the most unlooked-for places. So far as these exhibitions are clean and wholesome they should be patronized, as they are undoubtedly educational in their tendency, but the question presented is, "Are all of the pictures exhibited of a wholesome character?"

HAROLD BUTLEDGE.

PHILADELPHIA

Mrs. Carter Resumes Tour—The Catspaw, Formerly The Panic—Notes.

Philadelphia, April 19.—David Warfield's six weeks' engagement at the Lyric was concluded Saturday night. The first two weeks A Grand Army Man was produced and was followed by The Music Master. This week, Blanche Bates in The Fighting Hope.

The Devil, with George Arliss in the titular role, was a revelation to the audiences which gathered at the Adelphi last week. The local press fairly bubbled over with enthusiasm in their reviews of the interpretation given the name part by Mr. Arliss, whose acting they rounded as perfection. Mr. Arliss was the third actor who has essayed the role in this city, the first having been W. L. Abingdon at the Broad and William Ingersoll of the Orpheum Players, at the Chestnut Street Theatre. The Devil of Mr. Arliss, however, was so far superior to either of the others that a comparison is out of the question. This was generally recognized by press and public alike, as was also the Fiske version of Molnar's great play, The Wolf, which has been practically rewritten, comes to the Adelphi this week.

The Chestnut Street Opera House had crowded houses all of last week, the attraction being the Mask and Wig Club of the University of Pennsylvania in Merely a Monarch, which was very creditably produced and acted. This week, A Stubborn Cinderella.

Mrs. Leslie Carter in Kassa drew fair sized audiences to the Broad last week. A local interest attached to the play by reason of the fact that it was written by a Philadelphian, John Luther Long. Kassa affords Mrs. Carter ample opportunity to display her emotional power to the limit. In her treatment of the part she revealed all of her old-time skill and force; she seems to improve as she grows older. Certain it is she has never given a more finished or powerful portrayal. Sharing her success are Charles Millward, Harriet Sterling, and Richard Thornton. The production, which is under Mrs. Carter's personal direction, as is also the staging, is magnificently colored and massive in proportions, making the four settings required for the five acts imposing and impressive. It is doubtful whether Philadelphia has ever seen anything that surpassed Kassa on its pictorial side. Mrs. Carter remains at the Broad this week.

Robert Edeson in The Call of the North has made a decided hit at the Garrick, the reception accorded star and play having been most cordial. The drama that George Broadhurst has founded on Stewart Edward White's novel, "Conjuror's House," is interesting, exciting, thrilling at times, yet it lacks coherence; the characters flit in and out of the scene with conversation that contributes little to the progress of the play. But these defects are overlooked in the general enjoyment of the drama, and The Call of the North is well worth seeing. Mr. Edeson has very capable support in Ann Murdock, Kate McLaurin, Maude Knowlton, Stephen Wright, Harrison Ford, Spottiswood Aitkin, Seymour Stratton, and Joseph Hawley. The piece is attractively staged.

This week, The Candy Shop. The latter was produced for the first time on any stage at Nixon's Apollo Theatre, Atlantic City, last Friday evening. It is a musical comedy written by George V. Hobart, with music by John L. Golden. The cast includes Louise Dresser, Annie Yeamans, Frank Lalor, Rock and Fulton, Bliss Milford, and others.

The Three Twins continues at the Forrest. Business has been good.

The "two shows a day" policy which was inaugurated at Keith's last Monday has proven very satisfactory to patrons and management alike, the attendance having been practically capacity at each performance. Last week's bill included Pat Rooney in a new sketch based on Simple Simon Simple. He was assisted by George Thornton, and between them they extracted a lot of fun out of the comedy. Another new feature was Harrison Armstrong's sketch Circumstantial Evidence. A Night on a House Boat met with a hearty reception, as did Wilbur Mack and Nella Walker in The Girl and the Pearl. Claire Romaine won favor with several songs, and a decided hit was scored by Chassino, a shadowgrapher; Emil Subers, a monologist, and the Gus Onlaw Trio in a novel wire-walking act were also well received.

The Orpheum Players played to capacity throughout the week at the Chestnut Street Theatre, the attraction being The Prince Chap. The co. has never appeared to better advantage, and Edward Peple's pretty little play was presented in a charming manner. The parts were entrusted into the capable hands of Marion Barney, Margaret Lawrence, little Dorothy Black, May Desmond, Peter Lang, William Ingersoll, G. D. Parker, and Louise Randolph. This week, Thelma.

May Robson in The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary concluded its successful run at the Walnut Saturday night. Judging from the attendance last week the play could have been continued a week or two longer to good business, for its popularity here was unquestioned. This week, The Catspaw, which was played here earlier in the season under the name of The Panic. Emmet Corrigan and Ethel Clifton have the leading characters. The piece has been practically rewritten.

The opening week of the Grand Opera House with vaudeville and moving pictures was a success, the attendance being large. Four shows are given daily. The week's attractions included, in addition to some interesting pictures, Haslam, whose act is patterned after that of Houdini's; Lowlande's Pony and Dog Circus, the Brunettes, comedy bicycle act; the De Hardits, acrobats, and the Shelly Trio, singers and dancers.

Young Buffalo in The Sheriff of Angel Gulch played to a big business at the National. This week, The Black Beauty.

An excellent company, headed by William A. Mortimer, presented in a most creditable manner last week at the Girard Avenue Theatre George Ade's comedy, Just Out of College. Attendance large. This week, The Four Huntings in The Fool House.

Fred Irwin's Majesties drew well at the Casino. The olio and burlesques were pleasing. This week, The World Beaters.

The Frolicsome Lambs had a big week of it at the Bijou. The bill was a diversified one, and was well received. This week, Pat White's Gaiety Girls.

Lubin's Palace was not big enough to hold the crowds that wanted admission last week. An attractive bill was given, including Mlle. Bertha Ami, a soprano of merit; the American Musical Trio, Jordan and Jervaise, duettists; Yackley and Bunnell, musical specialty; Rose and Rose, Radio and Bertman, Falk and King, Edyth Wells, English, hoop roller, and Mandy Gilbert, vocalist. A feature was the exhibition of moving pictures of this year's Easter parade at Atlantic City.

Moving pictures and vaudeville seem to have "caught on" at the Park, as the house was filled throughout the week. In the olio were: Marsene and company in The Mechanical Dolls, the Three Mitchells in an acrobatic and novelty act, Keyser and his Canine Circus, Lamaire and Horton in a rapid fire sketch, the Lyric Comedy Quartette, Corbett and Forrester in The Female Judge, the Aldines, novelty act, and La Rue and Miley.

The Cherry Blossoms bloomed forth at the Trocadero, and E. R. O. was at a premium. The company is a large one, and some pleasing novelties were introduced, including two burlesques which have not been seen here before, The Cherry Blossoms Abroad and Look Out Below. This week, The Brigadiers.

Lilly Leonora led the Dance of the Devils, executed by eight young women, as a part of the performance offered by The Dainty Duchess company at the Gayety. Another special feature was the Ruby-Hart trio, introducing "the man with two heads." The specialists were clever. This week, Rose Hill English Folly company.

The Unique (moving pictures and vaudeville) was crowded all week. A good bill was given. The Elvercelli Troupe of Aerial Equilibrists, Leo Brothers and Allen, dancers; Martini and Flynn, comedy acrobats; Alquist and Clayton, a "dizzy" team; George J. Odermann, vocalist; Gillette and Hallahan, comedy sketch; F. Carlton, female impersonator; Wally Fitzgerald, comedy musical act, and Fred Howard, comedy illusionist and magician.

The Liberty, notwithstanding the Grand's competition for business in the same neighborhood, had a most successful week, drawing crowds daily. Its bill included Arnaldo's leopards, Sisters La France, and the Three Harmons.

The Eleventh Street Opera House, long the home of minstrelsy in this city, ended its career as such Saturday night. The house was crowded to suffocation, and in the audience could be recognized many and women who were regular attendants at the little theatre when John L. Carncross, E. F. Dippy, Sam S. Sanford, Frank Dumont, R. R. Slocum, Lew Simmons, Sam Sharpley, Hughey Dougherty, and other old-timers were in their prime. Saturday night's programme must have brought back to them memories of long ago, for the bill was made up of old features—old songs, old jokes, old sketches, old dances—everything old, even to the stage settings. And how that audience did enjoy the treat that had been prepared for them, and when the curtain finally fell, after the different members of the company had said a parting, good-bye, those old timers seemed loath to go. The house reopens to-night with Joe Hortin in the new musical comedy, Fritz, the Wandering Musician.

Director of Public Safety Clay last week closed several additional moving picture houses because of defective wiring. They were only small concerns.

The coolness of the ushers in the Camden Theatre last Thursday night prevented what might have been a serious panic. The performance had just ended, and about half of the audience was already out of the building, when fire was discovered on the fourth floor. The ushers uttered reassuring words to the remainder, and they left the theatre without confusion or undue haste. The damage was slight.

Margaret Lawrence, of this city, made her professional debut as Claudia in The Prince Chap at the Chestnut Street Theatre last Monday evening. She has had considerable experience in amateur theatricals. She will be known on the stage as Elizabeth Moore.

JAMES D. SLADE.

WASHINGTON

Francis Wilson—A Week of Many Amateur Performances—General News.

Washington, April 19.—The Washington Dramatic Club, composed of leading young society amateurs, presented for the first time to-night Mrs. Albert Clifford Barney's Egyptian musical play, About Thebes. The play will be given during the week in aid of worthy local charities. The Belasco Theatre was crowded. President and Mrs. Taft and party occupied the Presidential box, and all social and official Washington filled the house. It is a most pretentious offering. Percy F. Leach having drilled and rehearsed the dances, marches and ensembles. Harry Wheaton Howard is responsible for the incidental music, while the costumes, scenery and effects were designed by Mrs. Barney. Over one hundred people take part in the performance. Next week, E. H. Sothern.

Francis Wilson attracts a crowded house to the National Theatre to-night, when he is seen for the first time here in the irresistibly funny comedy, When Knights Were Bold, scoring a strong success in the part of Sir Guy de Vere, a role that presents the comedian at his best. Mr. Wilson has a fine line of support in Clarence Handyside, John Trevor, George Irving, F. Owen Baxter, Victor Benoit, Helene Montrose, Edna Bruns, Blanche Sharpe, Margherita Sargent, and the comedian's talented young daughter, Adelaide Wilson. Next week, Grace Van Studdiford in The Golden Butterfly.

An open week at the Columbia Theatre devoted to special events presents to-night and Tuesday the Calcium Club of the George Washington University, in original minstrels and the one-act play College Days; Wednesday night, Claude Bennett in a lecture on the Panama Canal, illustrated with motion pictures; Thursday, the Grease Paint Club in minstrels and vaudeville; Friday, the Cheviot Dramatic Club in A Midsummer's Night Dream; and Saturday The Princeton University Triangle Club in The Duchess of Bluffshire. Next week, The Whirlpool.

The popularity of McFadden's Flats continues unabated. In its fourteenth year it is as attractive and entertaining as ever. The Academy of Music is crowded to-night. The presenting company is an excellent one, and the fun is brisk and lively. Next week, A Child of the Regiment.

Chase's continues to business of a top notch character. The very excellent bill for the current week presents Harrison Hunter and company in The Van Dyck, the Willy Pantzer company, Bert Levy, Augusta Glose, the gifted mimic and charming pianologist, in "song talk"; Wilbur Mack and Nella Walker in The Girl and the Pearl, the Hodge company in the rural sketch, The Troubles of Bill Bilthers, Bachelor; the Tom Jack Trio of musical eccentrics, and the vitagraph. Next week's headliners are the Brothers Byrne company, Wilfred Clarke company, and Harlan Knight and company.

Fred Irwin's Big Show, featuring Walsh, Lynch and company in Huckin's Run, and the Imperial Sextette, open strong at the Gayety, with strong opposition in Miner's Merry Burlesquers at the Lyceum Theatre, presenting the comedian, Harry Fox, in the two-act musical comedy, The Fixer, and the Sherman-De Forrest company in A Jay Circus. Next week's announcements are: Gayety, Irwin's New Majestics; Lyceum, Hughey Kernan's The Washington Girls.

Flora Wilson, soprano, daughter of Secretary James Wilson, of the Department of Agriculture, gave a song recital at the Columbia Theatre Friday afternoon before a crowded house. Miss Wilson has just returned from Paris after four years' study under Jean de Reszke. She was assisted by Charles Waterous, basso of the Metropolitan Grand Opera company, and Karl Klein, violinist.

During Francis Wilson's engagement at Ford's Opera House in Baltimore a comedy in three acts, written by Francis Wilson, entitled The Bachelor's Baby, will have a first production at a special Wednesday matinee.

Bert Levy, the vaudeville cartoonist, playing this week at Chase's, has patented and is using an apparatus by which he magnifies his black and white drawings.

Manager Hughey Kernan, of the Lyceum Theatre, has received a novel Easter offering from across the sea. It consists of two photographs and a package of shamrock seed, which were sent by Lydia Yeamans and her husband, Frederick Titus, from Belfast.

Manager Ned Stein, of the New Masonic Auditorium, presented at that concert hall Sunday night an entirely new and novel series of motion pictures never before seen in Washington or the East. They will be continued indefinitely.

Following the engagement of E. H. Sothern at the Belasco, Lulu Glaser will appear week of May 3 in Mlle. Mischief. The week beginning May 10 the English Grand Opera company will be heard in Madam Butterfly.

Thursday afternoon, May 27, will be the time of the Lambs' public gambol, and the New National Theatre the place.

JOHN T. WARDE.

PITTSBURGH

Mrs. Fiske—Polly of the Circus—Melodrama, Vaudeville and Burlesque.

Pittsburgh, April 19.—The advent of Mrs. Fiske is always considered the principal attraction of the local theatrical season, and as soon as her engagement is definitely announced the theatre's box-office is besieged for seats. To-night the Duquesne held the most brilliant and intellectual audience of the season, and every seat was occupied. Mrs. Fiske's portrayal of Nell Saunders adds another triumph to her series of remarkable characterizations and made a most profound impression—one that will linger for a long time. Salvation Nell is an intensely interesting and strong play and is excellently staged. The large supporting company is thoroughly efficient, and the work of Holbrook Blinn merits much praise. Madam Butterfly follows.

Polly of the Circus seemed to please the large audience at the Nixon to-night, and was presented by a very capable company. Mabel Taliaferro is a winsome young woman and played the part of Polly delightfully. The stage settings are splendid and the circus tent scene is quite realistic. William Collier in The Patriot and the Metropolitan Opera House company in Faust, Tannhauser, Madam Butterfly, and Aida are underlined.

The large audience at the Alvin to-night was offered an old-time favorite, Shore Acres, and it was well received. Archie Boyd as Uncle Nat was competent, and supported by an adequate company. Next week, The Honeymooners.

Hal Reid's play, The Kentuckian, held the attention of the large audience at the Bijou to-day; the company was efficient, and the scenery met requirements. Washburn's Uncle Tom's Cabin the coming week.

The Grand offered the following bill to-day to its customary large patronage: Circumstantial Evidence, presented by a cast headed by Marshal Farnum. Seven Yuilians, Four Fords, Murray Sisters, Midgely and Carlisle, Trovollo, Dooley and Sales, Pique and dog, Hyman Myer, and moving pictures.

Blaney's Empire has the following bill: Keno and Melrose, Van Buren and Mursine, Sisters Elliott, Billie Paxton, Dan and Ida Manning, and moving pictures.

The Star Show Girls entertained the usual habitues of Harry Williams' Academy to-day with burlesque and vaudeville. The Girls of the Moulin Rouge, with Jack Johnson, the world's champion, as a feature, drew a crowd to the Gayety to-day. Irwin's Big Show for next week.

The Hiland, situated in the East End, started on its new career to-night, under the management of A. D. Klaus, with a dramatic stock company, of which Frederica Going is the leading woman. His Partner's Wife was the play, and a good sized audience was present.

ALBERT S. L. HEWES.

CINCINNATI

Kyrle Bellew in The Thief—The Truants—Business, After Lent, Revives.

Cincinnati, April 19.—Henri Bernstein's great play, The Thief, which was originally produced in this country by the German Stock company in this city nearly two years ago, had its first presentation in this city in English to-night at the Grand. It is interpreted by a notable cast, including Kyrle Bellew, Effie Shannon, and Herbert Kelcey, and, despite the approach of Summer weather, will undoubtedly enjoy large patronage, Brewster's Millions next.

Mary Mannering appeared at the Lyric to-night for the first time in her new play, The Truants, by Wilfred Coleby, and won a well deserved success. The principal roles are well played by White Whittlesey, Zelda Sears, Mary Nash, Addison Pitt, and Master John Taney. Mrs. Fiske follows in Salvation Nell. The Blue Mouse May 2.

Wine, Woman and Song is at the Walnut for its third engagement, to fair patronage. Bonita and Nat Carr still head the company.

The next to the last week of the Forepaugh company at the Olympic is devoted to A Mock Hero, a farce-comedy from the pen of Willis Goodhue, which gives opportunities for the introduction of specialties by the members of the company.

There was a noticeable revival of business at the various theatres last week. The Merry Widow thrived on the patronage of the thousands who could not get seats upon its first visit, and Viola Allen in The White Sister had one of the best engagements of the season at the Lyric.

The company which is to control the new theatre on Walnut Street, next to the Columbia, was organized formally this week, and at the same time the information was given out that the house would be attached to the Sullivan-Considine Circuit. A permit was also taken out a day or two ago for the erection of another large moving picture theatre on Walnut Hills, and announcement was also made that owing to the successful termination of a deal for additional ground in the rear, the new house about to be erected by John J. Ryan and associates on Vine Street, near Eighth, would be larger than originally contemplated.

Trixie Friganza heads the entertainers at the Columbia this week. On the remainder of the bill are Gus Edwards' Kountry Kids, Felice Morris, Marvelous Millers, Happy Jack Gardner, Kuduras Japs, La Mothe Trio, and Leo Donnelly.

Frank Carr's Thoroughbreds are at People's, and Rush and Weber's Parisian Widows at the Standard.

The Beggar Student, with Manager Otto Ernst Schmidt in the leading role, drew a splendid audience to the Grand last night.

The Auditorium has Evelyn Harris, Maltese company, Charlie Bell, Mundy's leopards, and Raymond and Delmont. At the Robinson are Kousada Brothers, George Paul, Stanley and Mayo. The Arthur Guy Novelty Minstrels are at the Lyceum, also the Eagle Quartette, Outhank and Blanchette, and Kennedy and Peltier.

ST. LOUIS

De Wolf Hopper—The Poynter Company in The Road to Yesterday—Notes.

St. Louis, April 19.—Following John Drew in Jack Straw, De Wolf Hopper came to the Olympic yesterday and was well received in The Pied Piper. Mr. Hopper supplies much fun, the music is tuneful, and the star's support adequate.

The Blue Mouse starts its second week at the Garrick with every sign of increasing patronage each day. It is interpreted by an excellent company.

Max Figman came to the Century yesterday, succeeding George H. Brennan's production of The Traitor.

Beulah Poynter's Stock co. at the Imperial this week presents a very creditable performance of The Road to Yesterday.

Tracy the Outlaw is the attraction at Havlin's and at the Grand Buster Brown is housed, with Master Rice in the title role.

The burlesque houses, the Standard and the Gayety, offer, at the former, The Follies of the Day co., and at the latter The Jersey Lilies aggregation. Both continue to do good business. The vaudeville theatres, both the American and the New Columbia, offer strong bills to well-deserved, excellent business.

This week the circus has come to town, Rice Brothers' Railroad Shows performing at Cardinal and Manchester avenues, and the small boys (and countless pretty big ones) are happy.

GOSSIP.

Copies of a new song by Walter Pulitzer, entitled "The Dawn of a To-morrow," and published by Stern and Company, are to be the souvenirs at the two-hundredth performance of The Dawn of a To-morrow, at the Lyceum Theatre.

The Educational Theatre for Children and Young People has extended to Arthur Row, of Robert Hilliard's company, an invitation to become its director next season. Engagements previously made prevented Mr. Row's acceptance.

NEWS FROM CHICAGO.

SEVERAL INTERESTING PRODUCTIONS FOR EASTER WEEK.

The Sins of Society a Hit—Mary Jane's Pa—The Traveling Salesman—Gossip of Players—Plans for Summer.

(Special to The Mirror.)

CHICAGO, April 19.—Mary Jane's Pa, with Henry Dixey in the title-role, at the Chicago Opera House, has evoked a chorus of praise from the critics, and won the hearts of all who have seen the play. Its true American life, fine wit and humor, its example of worthy womanhood, the editress, were all fully appreciated. Mr. Dixey plays Hiram Perkins with all his characteristic deftness, facility and sympathy. Some Chicagoans are inclined to think that Mary Jane's Ma is almost if not quite the best part. Possibly this is because Marie Nordstrom plays it so well. Her grace and charm in David Garrick gave us no hint that she could do a woman country editor so finely, substantially and completely. All of the supporting company are good, including the young aspirant who has chosen the name of Augustin Daly Wilks, and Gretchen Hartman, who does Mary Jane ingratiatingly. In the company here are: Emmett C. King, Morgan Coman, Hardee Kirkland, John Junior, E. E. Wright, Horace Newman, Edward Chapman, Frank Bixby, Marjorie Wood, Maud Earle, Alice Gilmore.

Manager Sol Litt's big Spring production at McVicker's, The Sins of Society, exceeded expectations, and they had been raised high by Manager Eddie Cooke of the production and his remarkable campaign of publicity. The transplanting of this Drury Lane melodrama by the authors of The Great Ruby has been apparently done without regard to expense, for there are crowds of people on the stage and nearly a score of big scenes. It is a good play to follow in among its wonders of stagecraft, the interest being maintained strongly throughout its extraordinary length. The story is chiefly about a titled English woman, who, desperately in need of money, accedes to the plan of an unscrupulous friend to pretend to pawn her diamond tiara and change boxes, so that the money-lender carries away a sealed box of coal, leaving the tiara in the lady's possession. Discovery of the fraud would fix a crime on her, and so the villain has her in his power. He wants her pretty young sister to marry him, but she is love with another man. This young man, when suspicion points to the fair borrower, after she has drugged the money-lender in his home and carried away the box of evidence of her guilt, helps her to elude the police. He takes charge of the box and escapes in a boat on a river. As a fugitive he gets on a ship. He is disguised as a common soldier. The ship strikes a rock, and goes down, but he is saved, and gets back to England just in time to prevent his sweetheart from marrying the villain to save her sister. The sinking of the ship with bursting boilers and soldiers going down to death with bands playing the national air is an immense achievement and gets tremendous applause. The big scene at the Paris racetrack is an eye opener early in the play. The river scene and the waterfall apparently into the seething pool, gets great applause. The moving panorama of the flight on the river and the dinner of a duchess in honor of her pet dog to which all guests come with their pet dogs, greeting the duchess' dog as the host of the day, is another big hit. The name of each guest is announced, and also that of her dog, as she enters. The pets sit in the chairs at the table, mistresses behind them, and are waited on with dainties like human beings. Dorothy Donnelly plays the lead, Lady Marion, with sufficient emotional and general ability and looks the part well. Vincent Serrano is good as the hero, Sir Dorian, and Louise Rutter is sweetly capable as the ingenue. Louise Closser Hale is interesting and successful in the comedy part of Lady Goldbury, and Leslie Kenyon, playing the opposite comedy part, has made it exceedingly popular. Oscar Adye, who is over from Drury Lane Theatre, does the pawnbroker admirably, and W. L. Abingdon makes an excellent villain. In the company are Loer Sibley, who does the Duchess with marked originality and comicalness: Florence Edney, Elsa Payne, Grace Thorne, Lilian Collins, Mary Coarse, Hortens Eney, Walter Edney, Malcolm Watson, C. P. Zell, Charles Rowman, Frank Dekum, Frank Payne, who is good as the Vicar: William Walkers, who does the Sergeant well: Elmer Watts, and many others. The attendance has been very large.

The Traveling Salesman, judging from the sounds of happiness at the Illinois during a performance, is the most successful comedy imported from Broadway this season. Its sentiment is appreciated, too, so the prospects for a good run seem bright. The entire company is clever, with Frank J. McIntyre satisfying all expectations of the title-part. His spontaneity and magnetism are especially noticeable. Elsie Ferguson is an ideal Beth, and Sara McVicker is a very large part of the entertainment with her inimitable Mrs. Babitt. Nothing of the kind so good in many seasons. H. D. Blakemore's Julius is also a hit in Chicago. In the excellent company are: Frances Fuller Golden, William Beach, Maud Sinclair, Percival T. Moore, Arthur Shaw, and R. C. Turner.

May Irwin will close her vaudeville tour here, having completed her two weeks at the Majestic, and go to her Thousand Island Summer home to prepare it for its new responsibilities. The coming Summer the Summer home will be an inn. Two plays are in preparation for Miss Irwin next season.

Laurence Irving and Mabel Hackney, Joe Welch, and Saharet, who have just filled fortnight engagements at the American, will sail about May 1 on the same steamer for London, to open in the Coliseum.

Creatore, whose band was more successful in Chicago at one of the parks last Summer than ever before, will be back again the coming Summer for the entire season of seventeen weeks. This will be good news for thousands of park patrons, and it is safe to predict that the crowd will follow Creatore.

Master Gabriel, the smallest but one of the biggest Mystic Shriners in the country, entertained a houseful of Shriners one night last week, coming close to a full realization of the idea of a "lion."

George Alison, who will close another long season as leading man at the Bush Temple in a week, will go East, with Mrs. Alison (Gertrude Rivers), for a short vacation and then return West for a Summer engagement as leading man of the stock at the Metropolitan, St. Paul. James Neill will manage the company. Mr. Alison has exceeded all records as a stock leading man in Chicago.

The Alaskan, new version, with emendations by Gus Weinberg and Richard Carroll, has won considerable popularity and a good deal of favorable press comment. A good deal remains of the original version by Joseph Blethen, the Seattle editor, and Harry Girard. The "Totem Pole" march song, one of the most original and interesting of recent musical comedy compositions, is retained, and a dozen encores are given. It is finely sung by Edwin Martindel, an accomplished bass singer with rich, mellow voice, and a good actor. There are half a dozen new songs by Mr. Weinberg or Mr. Carroll, and several long scenes in which either Mr. Carroll or Mr. Weinberg, the rival comedians, feed fat the ancient craving for the stage center and point monopoly. The original story gives the production an interesting background, and Esquimaux dogs and sleds, cradling for gold and Alaskan costumes are introduced effectively. There is a snowballing song which is a hit, the audience throwing back the balls with gusto. William P. Cullen, the producer, has staged the comedy handsomely and provided a capable company, which includes Fernest Huff, William Fables, who does a good comedy bear; Arline Bolling, Lora Lieb, Pearl Elaine Robberts, an exceedingly small soubrette of pleasing ways; Clyde Hunnewell, Al. Rauch, Frank La Perre, and William Brady. The houses have been big and the expectations of a run seem likely to be realized.

The College Theatre patronage has been so good since Easter that the season will be extended a week beyond May 9.

Geraldine Farrar and Scotti, the former as Madame Butterfly and the latter as Falstaff, have been exceedingly popular since the opening of the grand opera season, and Madame Butterfly will be repeated. Falstaff delighted the critics, but failed to draw.

The new stock season conducted by Ed. Rowland in the Criterion started well last week with Thorns and Orange Blossoms. Lena Rivers this week.

Arthur Gillespie and Colin Davis, authors of The Yama Yama Man, are writing the new musical comedy which will probably be the opening bill of the new Cort Theatre next Fall.

Manager Elmer Rogers, of William Morris' American Music Hall, announces a number of improvements during the Summer, including a new ventilator system.

The bills this week: Grand Opera House, The Red Mill; Studebaker, Cameo Kirby; Illinois, The Traveling Salesman; Chicago Opera House, Mary Jane's Pa; McVicker's, The Sins of Society; La Salle, The Golden Girl; Whitney, A Boy and a Girl; Auditorium, grand opera; Powers', The Family; Garrick, The Great John Ganton; Colonial, Little Nemo; Princess, A Prince of To-night; International, The Girl from Rector's; Bush Temple, The Second Mrs. Tanqueray; College, Peaceful Valley; People's, The Minister's Son; Marlowe, The Ironmaster; Bijou, Human Hearts; Academy, Shadows of a Great City; Alhambra, Bunco in Arizona; Criterion, stock in Lena Rivers; National, The Royal Chef.

Eleanor Gordon, formerly of the Chicago Opera House Stock, is at the Majestic this week in a new playlet.

Adelaide Keim is starred as the head of the stock company at the Bush Temple.

At the Majestic this week: Harry Bulger, W. C. Fields, Master Leslie Cliff, Grayce Scott, Nichols Sisters, Violet King, Four Readings, Gartelle Brothers, and others.

Olympic Music Hall this week: Marian's Dogs, Redpath's Napanees, Hibbard and Warren, Loney Haskell, Ernest Van Pelt and co., Blockson and Burns, Sue Smith, and others.

American Music Hall: Four Mortons, Lillian Shaffner and co., song contest, George W. Day, Edward Blondell, Hunter Brothers, Caron and Herbert, Cliff Gordon, and Three Dumonds.

Haymarket: John T. Kelley, Tom Waters, Castellane and Brother, Bertie Fowler, McNish and Penfold, Eddie Mack and Dot Williams, the Pelots, Douglas and Douglas, Schoenwerk and Burke, and Fairview.

Columbus, vaudeville: Wilson Brothers, Harry and Kate Jackson, Frank Tinney, Schaar-Wheeler Trio, McRand Dogs, Marie Laurens.

Star: Vindobonas, White and Simmons, Olive Vail, Delanhoye, Lamothes, Woods and Woods Trio, Elliott and West.

De Wolf Hopper in The Pied Piper is coming to the Garrick next week, beginning Sunday. The Merry Widow returns to the Colonial next Sunday.

The Village Postmaster at the College last week gave the patrons a cheerful Spring glimpse of farm life and country scenes. Thais Magrane did Miranda with unusual sincerity and naturalness and Albert Morrison was correspondingly good as John Harper. The numerous sentimental scenes of these two characters were acted in just the right manner for these bucolic plays. E. H. Calvert was good as Ben Dean and Smith Davies as Seth Wingfield.

There was another fine bill at the Majestic last week, with John W. Ransone, Carita Day, May Irwin, and Olive Vail among the hits. Mr. Ransone had a good monologue, which included some capital stories in dialect. He is a valuable acquisition for advanced vaudeville.

The Four Mortons were a big hit at the American Music Hall last week, being unable to supply the demand for encores. Cliff Gordon was another hit, and Grace Reals and Frank Ferguson won much applause in The Ace of Trumps. Katie Barry made a palpable impression with her suffragette speech and some of her songs.

Another inhabitant of Chicago's small but interesting theatrical world of the 70's came to town recently, Jay Rial, representing Barnum and Bailey's Circus, which finds itself, under the new syndicate control, opening at the Coliseum, Chicago, April 1. Mr. Rial was on the staff of Frank Aiken in 1870 when he opened the handsome Adelphi at the corner of Wabash and Congress Streets with a stock which did not pay. The theatre was burned, and the walls of the old post office burned in '71, at Monroe and Dearborn Streets, the site of the present First National Bank, were purchased for a new Adelphi. It was built in these walls, and managed as a variety theatre by Leonard Grover, becoming a great success.

Treasurer C. W. McDaniel, of the Grand Opera House, will have a benefit next Sunday night. The play will be A Gentleman from Mississippi. Mr. McDaniel as assistant treasurer and treasurer, has been in the Grand box office many years.

THE THEATRE IN AUSTRALIA.

DESPITE WARM WEATHER, THE SYDNEY THEATRES ARE WELL PATRONIZED.

Tommy" Burns Becomes a Manager—Melbourne, Bijou Now the Burns Theatre—Nellie Stewart as Kitty Bellairs—Williamson Obtains An Englishman's Home—Theatrical News.

(Special Correspondence of The Mirror.)

Andrew Black, the well-known Scotch singer, who has resided in Sydney for about the last three years, was married on Jan. 30 last to Mrs. Lichtenheindl, the proprietress of Pfahlert's Hotel, a well-known Sydney hostelry.

William Anderson and his wife are off to Europe in March, and this enterprising manager hopes to pick up some new plays suitable for his Australian circuit.

Tommy Burns, the ex-champion boxer, has decided to settle in Australia and to go in for theatrical management with his brother-in-law, Keating, who is not altogether unknown in American theatrical circles as an enterprising manager. The new management have as a start taken a five years' lease of the Bijou Theatre, Melbourne, which henceforth is to be known as Burns' Theatre. George Darrell, the Australian actor-author, is busy on a new play in which Tommy Burns is to have a part.

H. D. McIntosh's manager, Shipman, has left for Europe and hopes to return to Australia during the year with new attractions, including a company in which his wife, who is an actress not unknown in your States, will star. McIntosh must have coined money with the Burns-Johnson fight in Sydney and reaped a rich harvest from the biograph films of the fight.

Poor old Johnny F. Sheridan ("Widow O'Brien") handed in his checks at Newcastle about last Christmas. His end was fairly sudden and he leaves a host of friends.

Bland Holt has had a run of bad luck lately, as on top of a smash up in his motor car, the light fingered gentry lifted £320 intended as treasury at his theatre, Christchurch, New Zealand.

Nellie Stewart was to leave London on Feb. 6 and is expected to open under J. C. Williamson's management at the Princess Theatre, Melbourne, in Sweet Kitty Bellairs. Langbourn Burton and A. B. Tapping are to support her.

Forthcoming concert tours of special interest are those of Melba and Ada Crossley.

Carrie Moore, according to English papers, has made a big hit in Courtneidge's English pantomime of Cinderella.

Herbert Flemming, of the Brough-Flemming Comedy company, whose death I reported awhile back, left personal estate in Victoria of £1,300 due. He bequeathed his interest in the company with which his name is associated to his leading lady, Beatrice Day.

Betty Ohls, who succeeded Carrie Moore in the role of The Merry Widow at Her Majesty's Theatre, Sydney, and who has since been successfully appearing as Renee in The Duchess of Dantzic, has just undergone an operation for appendicitis and is progressing favorably.

News has been recently received here of the death in London of Fernando Vert, a manager, to whom is due the successful visits to Australia of Antonia Dolores.

J. C. Williamson, with his usual acumen, has obtained the Australian rights of An Englishman's Home. Du Maurier's sensational successful play at Wyndham's Theatre, London. The same manager has decided to produce at early dates the following of Bernard Shaw's plays: John Bull's Island, Man and Superman, You Never Can Tell, Arms and the Man, and Captain Brassbound's Conversion.

The following particulars of the career of the late George Lauri, whose demise I reported in my last letter, may prove of interest to Munsey readers: The deceased actor was appearing as the Grand Inquisitor in The Gondoliers at Boston when J. C. Williamson secured him for his Australian Royal Comic Opera company, with which company he opened in The Merrie Monarch in 1891. With the exception of a brief interval, during which he produced on his own account at the Sydney Palace A Bunch of Keys, with his wife, Marietta Nash, as principal, he remained with the Royal Comics until last year. The strain of constantly appearing in the round of characters which fell to the popular comedian began to tell on him two years back, but he refused to take any extended holiday until last year, when he went on a holiday trip to Ceylon. His last appearance was at his own benefit in April last. George Lauri was a member of the famous actor family of that name and was close on fifty years of age at the date of his death. He visited New York for four months last year.

The late Charles Warner, the news of whose death was cabled to us last week from New York, visited Australia with his daughter, Grace, in 1887. His tour was arranged to cover sixteen weeks and extended over two years, which shows you how the actor's talent was appreciated on this side of the world.

Hugh Ward, Grace Palotta, Rose Musgrove and Celia Ghiloni have just closed a successful season at the Calcutta Opera House, and are now en route for China, Hong Kong, and Shanghai, and after visiting Singapore and Colombo will sail for Western Australia, where they are due to open under Allan Hamilton's management at the Royal, Perth. The Bachelor's Honeymoon is the piece de resistance of their repertoire and will be seen in Sydney about December next.

Allan Hamilton has completed arrangements with a well-known New York manager for the despatch to Australia of a company to produce plays similar to those performed by The Travesty Stars. Thirty principals have signed and the company will be supplemented on its arrival here, which will probably be about October next.

On April 3 next Allan Hamilton will open at the Sydney Palace with The Queen of the Night, in which Ada Guildford, Maud Chetwynd, Rosemary Rees, George Cross, and G. P. Carey will appear. In the Ranks will also be produced during the season.

The Duke's Motto will follow the present revival of The Scarlet Pimpernell at Sydney Royal. Julius Knight will appear as Raoul de Lagardere and will be supported by Beatrice Day.

cent engagements is that of Paul Cinquevalli, the best juggler ever seen in these parts, and whose previous engagement, some years ago, was a tremendous draw at Rickard's various theatres.

Meynell and Gunn's Dramatic company is now at the Sydney Palace and appearing with success is Campbell's (J. A.) Old Folks at Home, a charmingly pretty English play, in which Conway Wingfield, Beatrice Holloway, J. B. Athowood, C. R. Stanford, Ida Gresham, and Alice Deorwyn are all happily cast.

William Anderson is scoring well at the Criterion with the romantic Australian drama, A Squatter's Daughter. George Cross and Eugenie Duggan are in the principal roles.

William Anderson is not content to remain as a lessee when in Sydney and is searching for a suitable site for a theatre of his own.

The Duchess of Dantzic is now in its sixth week at Sydney Her Majesty's, and public interest and appreciation does not flag in this tuneful production. Florence Young has never been seen to greater advantage than as Madame Sans Gene, and her voice seems to improve in every production with which she is associated.

Despite the warm, moist weather always to be found in Sydney at this time of the year, theatrical business is far from being slack.

Walker Whiteside Well Received—The Lyric Players—Thomas E. Shea—Vaudeville.

Walker Whiteside and his splendid co. in The Melting Pot held over for a week at the Metropolitan 9-14. The play was well received and so offering seen here this season has created as much discussion. Al. H. Wilson in When Old New York was Dutch follows 16-17, after which we are promised a week of The Merry Widow.

At the Bijou Thomas E. Shea, supported by a competent co., drew fair houses in The Bells, Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde, and a new play, The Counsel for the Defense. The play, although powerful and strongly melodramatic, is not well balanced and needs revision. Grace Merritt in When Knighthood was in Flower follows.

The Lyric players gave an unusually fine production of The Road to Yesterday. Corlune Cantwell found her happiest opportunities of the season as Elspeth, and scored a personal hit. Edith Evelyn made much of the strong role of Malena, and Lee Baker was a likeable Jack. W. H. Tooker, Frank Kingdon, Kate Blancke, Helen Wilton, W. K. Allen, Rowden Hall, Julian Noa, Madeline Liggett, and Georgie Bessett all scored, and the production was beautifully staged.

At the Orpheum a fair bill was headed by Dick Creolius and co., and included the Murray Sisters, Johnny McVeigh and His College Girls, Sullivan and Pasqualena, Ward-Klark co., T. Nelson Downs, and the Astaire.

The Last of the Regiment was the headliner at the Miles, others being Herbert Brenon and Helen Downing, local favorites. George Lavender and Clara Thropp. At the Princess The Prodigal's Return was featured, while Eva Ray filled a like service at the Unique.

The Dewey drew big crowds twice daily with The Big Review.

Mischa Elman appeared in concert at the Auditorium 15.

The Round Up was the Valentine attraction for the week 12 to good business.

At the Lyceum The Flower of the Ranch pleased good houses 8-10. James J. Corbett followed 11-13 in Facing the Music. House dark 14-16. The regular stock season begins 25.

The Arcade had Hoyt and McDonald, Dixie Harris, Frank Hall, Excella and Franks, the Harrahs.

At Burt's La Auto Girl, Maude Chefale, John Mangels, I. M. Black, Sidney Johnstone.

Mary's Lamb—Are You a Mason?—Pretty Peggy—Black Patti Troubadours—Vaudeville—Gossip.

At the Van Ness Theatre Richard Carle finished a very profitable two weeks' engagement in Mary's Lamb 11. Otis Skinner opened at this house to a large audience 12 in The Honor of the Family. Mr. Skinner has lost none of his scholarly presentation of his characters, and is excellently supported by a very capable co. This star will remain with us two weeks. The co. consists of A. G. Andrews, Francis Carlyle, Harry Burkhardt, Russel Crauford, Walter F. Scott, Frederick Sargent, Harry Barfoot, Joseph Wheelock, Sr., Alfred Hudson, Jr., Percy Haswell, Sarah Padden, and Rosalie Dupre. Ethel Barrymore, John Drew, and Maria Doro will all appear at this house in their present season's successes, and will bring with them their entire New York cast and productions.

The Alcazar opened with Are You a Mason 5 and as heretofore played before a large audience. The leading roles were taken by Bertram Lytell, John B. Maher, Will R. Walling, Evelyn Vaughan, Rosabe Barricale, Ernest Glendenning, and Adele Belgarde. The next attraction will be Under Two Flags.

The Valencia, as has been the custom of this house, excellently produced Pretty Peggy on 7. Blanche Stoddard made her last appearance as the leading woman at this house, the new stock co., being in readiness to take charge. The Valencia was closed until 11 matinee, at which time it opened with a production of Peter Pan, which quite pleased its patrons. The new leading people are Harriet Worthington and Paul McAllister.

The Princess produced Nancy Brown 11. The Empire, sumptuously staged, opened 12. Indications are that this play will draw well during this engagement.

The American opened with Black Patti Troubadours 4; business was not very good, the co. being far below the standard that heretofore supported this star. Norman Hackett opened at this house matinee 11 in Classmates and a very large audience was present to welcome this star, who is well known in San Francisco. Mr. Hackett gave one performance on Saturday evening 10 at the Hearst Greek Theatre at Berkeley, an adjunct to the University of California. It seems that this play lost its time at the Van Ness and at the McDonough Theatre at Oakland. It was booked, however, for one week at the American Theatre, to fill the San Francisco dates. He gave the play one of the evenings which had been allotted to Oakland. So Professor Argue, having learned of this open night, induced Mr. Hackett to play at the Greek Theatre, and the audience was well pleased with the performance.

The Orpheum opened the following bill: Mlle. Zelle De Lussan, R. Miller Kent and co., Joly Violetta, Blair Fuye, Miller and Weston, Tom Mayo and co., Casting Dunbars, Charles Matthews, Melanie, and motion pictures.

The Novelty and the Central are giving 5 and 10 cent vaudeville shows, while the Wigwam, National and Pantages are giving vaudeville performances at 10-20-30 cents to good business.

Blanche Stoddard leaves San Francisco 8 for Salt Lake City to begin limited star engagement with the Willard Mack stock co. at the Colonial Theatre. Her opening bill on Easter Sunday will be by special arrangements with Arthur Alston, owner of the play Pretty Peggy.

A brand new American play by two American authors, and San Franciscans at that, will be produced for the first time on any stage at the American Theatre Sunday evening 13. It is called Night's Mirist. Frank McGlynn and Jack Gleason, the baseball magnate, are the authors of the play.

I understand that the American Theatre 25 will give a stock minstrel performance consisting of all the star performers. McIntyre and Heath are among the number.

Darrel Standing, one of the most popular members of the Valencia Stock co., will return to this house after a two weeks' vacation, and will play Mr. Darling in Peter Pan.

J. J. Shubert, who is now in Los Angeles, will come to San Francisco for the purpose of securing a theatre to be in the line of his circuit. Mr. Shubert is quoted as saying: "We intend to build a theatre in San Francisco that will be worthy of the wonderful city which has emerged so splendidly from its disaster, and until we are able to carry out our building plans we shall lease a theatre for our productions."

Garrick Theatre, which will replace the Orpheum at its old location, promises to be the scene of musical activities for some time. The opening attraction will be Mischa Elman, and he will be followed by Dr. Ludwig Wullner, with his noted accompanist, Conrad Ros. Then comes the Russian Symphony Orchestra, and in conjunction with Ben Greet Players, the Zech Orchestra, numbering sixty of the best local musicians, under the direction of W. P. Zech.

In June the Philippine Constabulary Band will give a few concerts, after which Mr. Greenbaum will take this band on a tour along the coast.

The southwest corner of Market and Church streets was leased to the Manhattan Investment Co. for a period of twenty-five years, and it is the intention of this co. to erect at once a vaudeville theatre, to be known as the Market Street Theatre. It is expected that this new house will be ready for occupancy by September of this year.

Mlle. Zelle De Lussan was out of the Orpheum cast for a number of days on account of her inability to sing, having had a sore throat.

Nat Goodwin has again shown his generosity by contributing money enough to help care for his old friend, Ed. Purser, the one-time race track plunger, who became suddenly blind, and worrying over this illness suffered insanity. He is now in a private asylum, being cared for by Nat Goodwin and other old-time friends.

Kelly and Violette are now sojourning in San Francisco with their folks. They are owners of property in San Francisco and Los Angeles. Mr. Kelly told me that he would try to make San Francisco his permanent home, playing short engagements along the coast.

The Forepaugh Players—George Arvine Scores—Three Twins—Vaudeville—Gossip

The Three Twins, with Victor Morley, Bessie Clifford, Della Niven, Elgie Bowen and others, played a return engagement at English's 8-10, repeating the great success made here earlier in the season. Louis James opened the week with a massive and beautiful production of Peer Gynt 12-14. The Merry Widow 22-24.

The Miller, as presented by the Forepaugh Stock co. at the Majestic 12-17, was a well acted, interesting and enjoyable performance. George Arvine made a splendid impression as Mark Cross and played his strong scenes unusually well. Lucille Spinney gave an intelligent, effective portrayal of Lady Hardine. Ainsworth Arnold handled the difficult role of Sir John Harting with dignity and strength. Fay Baker made a distinct hit with the audience as the light hearted, girlish Kate Merryweather. Morris Foster handled the role of General Merryweather in his usual capable manner, and Romaine Callender as Simeon Strong was good. Mattie Choate, who appeared only in the second act as a delightful, beautifully gowned widow, Mrs. Glynn-Stanmore, had a good comedy scene with Forris Foster as the General that was generously applauded. Genevieve Reynolds was a charming and gracious Mrs. Cross. Thelma 19-24.

The Phantom Detective pleased the patrons of the Park 12-14. Ethel May, the Mystery Girl, was an added feature during the week that attracted much attention. The Arrival of Kitty follows 15-17 in place of Corinne in Lola from Berlin, which was canceled. The Holden Stock co. opens their Spring season at this house 19.

Julie Herne and co. made a winning impression as a headliner in her pretty little playlet, A Mountain Cinderella, at the Grand 12-17. Gus Edwards' Kountry Kids and Augusta Glose shared the honors. Happy Jack Gardner's songs, parodies and tuba playing made a big laughing hit. Leo Donnelly was an interesting and successful story teller. Marvelous Miller's dancing scored. Morrow and Schelberg in Happy's Millions and Rice and Elmer pleased.

Empire: The Ducklings 12-17. The Jolly Girls 19-24. At the Gayety were Three Methven Sisters, John and Alice McDowell, Lulu Thies, Jack and Claire, George Peltier, and motion pictures. The Family Theatre offered Springford Trio, Kashima and Otto, Curran and DeGray, Harry F. Pierce, and motion pictures.

Creatore will give three concerts in Tomlinson Hall 30, May 1, under the direction of Mrs. A. J. Tron.

The billboards about town herald the coming of Hagenbeck and Wallace's Shows 29. Barnum and Bailey is scheduled to appear here May 10.

Augusta Glose, who presented a dainty little act at the Grand last week, sang "The Boy Who Stuttered and the Girl Who Lisped" and "The Lion and the Bird," written by Louis Weslyn, formerly of this city, and made a distinct hit. Mr. Weslyn was press representative of the Grand for several seasons and left for New York last May, where he is now writing songs and sketches and acting as critic for the Witmark music publishers.

Louis James and co., who arrived 8 after filling engagements in Ohio, rested here until their opening at English's 12.

James Harris, of this city, who has been with the Vaughan Glaser Stock co. this season, has joined the Holden Stock co., which opens at the Park 19.

Mr. and Mrs. George Phillips Meier entertained at dinner at their home in Woodruff Place 11 for Rose Melville, who was here last week at the Park in Sis Hopkins.

Continued Prosperity of the Stock Companies—Vaudeville—Interesting Items.

The Friend Players appeared last week to advantage in Charley's Aunt, and the excellent performance of it greatly amused a good sized audience. George Henry Trader, the capable stage director, in the leading comedy part, gave a clever characterization. Ralph Kellard and E. Dodie Harvey supported to advantage. Edward Pollock, Wilton Taintor, Walter Hartz, Gwendolyn Piers, Anita Van Buren, Howard Bahlle, Gertrude Dallas, and W. H. Thomas contributed to the general enjoyment. Week 19 Hamlet.

The management of the Majestic made a happy selection in their headliner this week by having Mabel Ellis and Elsie Bailey, as the bewitching twins, appear in this city 14, and the members of the co. found Milwaukee quite crowded when they arrived and gave Mr. Dunlap and his wife a big reception. Although the act is billed as the headliner, the girls became rightly labeled as Chief and Pearle Eaton's Pleasure, which is one of the best little comedy sketches seen in vaudeville for a long time. The characters seen in Milwaukee for a long time. The characters were all good, and included Harry W. Fields and the Kangaroo, Violet Khan, Cushman and Holcomb, Lora Rowe, McNish and Randall, Odell and Walker, Lora Rowe, McNish and Randall, Odell and Walker, Lora Rowe, McNish and Randall, Odell and Walker

SPOKANE.

Pantages Co.—Vaudeville—The Y. M. H. A. Benefit—Angels Rag and the Empire.

Pantages Co. put a capable co. forward at two performances daily. Many of the features were new to Spokane. Ethel Grey Terry, Violet Lansdowne and Sunette Jackson, 11-17, and were the headliners in The Mills of the Gods 11-16.

Lois Bedford and co. in a playlet called Cupid at Play opened at the Orpheum Monday to a crowded house. Miss Bedford was the leading character and was ably assisted by Frank Lee, Ray Raymond, Hugh Buckler and Edwin Lowe. Miss Bedford is a favorite here and her work was up to the standard of the Orpheum productions.

The Kinetograph, with a four-part singing act was featured at the Pantages Theatre the week of 4. Others were Hennings and Robert Randall, Bessie Bailey, W. E. Gilson, Ford Strickfadt, Ethel Grey Terry.

Wallace and Wilbur's Chocolate Drops, featuring King and Wilbur and two comely colored girls, were one of the big hits. Others were Harry Langdon, Cal Stewart, Mabel and Hastings, El Rayo, and the pictures, which topped off the week.

Spokane Lodge, B. P. O. E., will give its annual grand opening benefit in the Auditorium Theatre May 6, when the Richard Carle co. will be featured. Local lodge talent will contribute talent. The opening ceremonies will be under the direction of Charles E. Lundgren, president of the lodge, who is also chairman of the General Committee.

Angelo Hay bought the controlling interest in the Empire for $42,000 and will present a new event at the opening early in May. There will be a strong co., including a chorus of thirty. Miss May, who is now completing a tour in Canada, will manage the house, also booking the co.

Miss Grace Clark Kibbler, formerly of Spokane, joined the Rice Grant co., singing the soprano role in A Midsummer Night's Dream.

John W. Face, manager of Natatorium Park, announces the opening of the season 26.

Henry C. Ballinger, financial secretary-treasurer and chairman of the Executive Board of Local 52, International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees, has been chosen a delegate to the convention at Springfield, O., July 13-16. The local has thirty-five members and is working under the home rule law.

Thurston a Worthy Successor to Keller—Interesting Notes.

Howard Thurston drew well at the Majestic Theatre 12-17 with his clever, peculiar performance, assisted by Baker Hunnan, an Indian conjurer, and Paul Khelet, in the black art. The latter is very clever. Thurston himself is an extraordinary entertainer and his programme presents many new features, all his own invention. It is a most pleasing performance. Brown of Harvard 19-24. Robert Edmond 26-May 1.

Business at the Bon Ton Theatre is at the topnotch. The Dreamland Burlesquers gave a meritorious show 12-17 and the best of satisfaction is the verdict from the patrons. The show is full of good material. The Cherry Blossoms 19-24.

The Academy of Music has the call on big business. There seems to be no diminishing in attendance. The pictures are changed twice a week, and the vaudeville is good. Appearing 12-17 were Jane Stewart, monologue and imitations; Mongeon, strong people, and Tom Morrow, monologue.

Keith-Proctor's Theatre is doing immense with moving pictures and illustrated songs.

The Hudson Theatre (Union Hill) expects to remain open all Summer. Business is very good. The bill 12-16 offered the Zingari Singers, the Ferrell Brothers, Gus Williams, Kelly and Barrett, Lane and O'Donnell, Sheppard and Ward, and Boptin and Tillson.

Dave Marion and William Lawrence are the bright stars of the Dreamland Burlesquers this season.

The employes of the Bonton Theatre had a ball 14 and it was a big success. The Dreamland Burlesquers appeared on the stage between dances.

Appearing at the McCarthy show 16 were the Hobsons, clowns; John L. Sturgis, illustrated songs; the Overing Trio, song and dance; Whalen and West, sketch; Charles E. Bowers, cartoonist; the Bates Musical Trio, and moving pictures.

Appearing at the Democratic stag 13 were Charles Weber, Dave Allman, Professor Strupt, Charles Bartholomew, and Harry Ferguson.

The Elks will have a ladies' night 19.

John H. Bunce, who has been treasurer of the Academy of Music for many seasons, will again handle the pasteboards for the Iron Steamboat Co. to Coney Island this Summer. This has been an annual Summer engagement for him for seventeen years.

The Seattle Company Closes—The Pantages Players—Girls at the Moore.

At the Moore 4-10 Girls was the attraction, which caused good business. Bessie Toner as Pamela Gordon, Ethel Grey Terry as Violet Lansdowne, and Sunette Jackson as Kate West gave portrayals that were interesting and lifelike. Caroline Locke as Lucille Purcelle was clever in her characterization of the part. The support was excellent. In the cast were Mercetta Ramonde, H. S. Northrup, Charles Brandt, Heyburn Benson, E. A. Locke and others. The Right of Way 11-15, matinee 15. Gusip Gabrilowitsch 17, under auspices of the Ladies' Musical Club.

A new play by James Slevin, The Better Way, 4, matinee 4, was presented at the Grand for the first time, with Harry Beresford and co. in the cast, but the attendance was small at both performances, and it was decided to present in its place Who's Your Friend 5-10, the popular offering of the previous week. The Mills of the Gods 11-17.

The Seattle Theatre Stock co. terminated its engagement with a realistic presentation of The Scout's Revenge 4-9 and 10, matinees 4 and 8. The applause was frequent. In the cast were Virginia Thornton, Dorothy Davis, Eva French, Blanch Bryant, Noel Travers, Roy Sutherland and others. Oliver Eckhardt made a hit and his comedian work was skillfully executed. Selma Herman in The Christian 11-17.

At the Lois the Pantages Players appeared at their best in a good presentation of Bedford's Hope 4-10, which was well received from audiences ranging from small to large. F. C. Huebner as Bill Bedford delineated the character with skill and fidelity. Harry F. Cummings showed his versatility to good advantage as Alf Hooker. William Abrams made a good Lord Winston. Agnes Johns acquitted herself well as Mrs. Marley. Allsen May showed her usual skill and cleverness in the role of Alice. Clara Kimball, H. G. Lonsdale, Carl Hinckley, E. M. Kimball and others contributed to the success of the performances, which were given under the personal direction of T. Daniel Frawley, who also appeared in the cast as Harry Bedford. Tess of the D'Urbervilles 11-17.

DETROIT.

The Temple Bill—Brewster's Millions—Manager Ward's Successful Plan—Melodrama.

The Temple Theatre 12-18 offered one of the best balanced bills ever seen in that popular house. At the Country Club, with its original setting, was afforded the stellar honors. The terpsichorean efforts of the Four Fords were as graceful as ever. Frederick Hawley and Frances Haight offered their little tragedy of the mountains, The Bandit. Sadie Jansell's clever imitations were much above the average. Others contributing to the bill were Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Darrow, Frank Bryon and Louise Langdon, Carter and Blueford, and Wynn and Lewis.

Brewster's Millions played a return engagement at the Detroit Opera House 12-14. At the same theatre 15-17 Fannie Ward in The New Lady Bantock drew excellent houses.

The Vaughan Glaser co. offered Merely Mary Ann as the second bill of their engagement, and their judgment was sustained by the capacity houses that responded. Mr. Glaser as Lancelot was all that could be desired, and Fay Courtney gave exposition to the necessary moods and expressions associated with the role of Mary Ann. Next week, Salomy Jane.

Manager Ward offered the Hasting Show at the Gayety Theatre 11-17, a co. larger than most burlesque troupes and possessed of the necessary requisites for a successful performance. Mr. Ward's efforts to educate women to patronize burlesque are bearing much fruit. Next week, Girls from Happyland.

A meritorious military drill, executed with precision and the necessary snap, was a feature of the performance given by the Champagne Girls at the Avenue Theatre 11-17. Next week, Miss New York, Jr.

The End of the Trail drew good houses to the Whitney Theatre 11-17. Next week The Smart Set will probably draw its customary large Detroit houses.

The Round Up will receive its first presentation in Detroit at the Detroit Opera House 19-24.

LOS ANGELES.

Lillian Russell in Vaudeville—Friends at the Majestic—The Dollar Mark Continues—Musical Plays.

Lillian Russell in Vaudeville, playing at the Mason, 5-10, was the one big attraction outside of the stock establishments, and she lived up to all of every expectation. Mr. Pomeroy left nothing undone that would help to make the engagement a success, and Miss Russell was ably assisted by Warren Wilfork, Madeline Chalmers will open 12-17 in vaudeville, and then Mrs. Gladwin also is expected.

At the Majestic Dick Fowle and Florence Stone were seen in a delightful production of Friends. They were supported by several actors from the Burbank Theatre, among whom were Harry Hastings, formerly cast as Arthur Kyle; William Normandy, who gave a most excellent and finished portrayal of Hon. Otis Frederick Gilbert, who is a newcomer, was satisfactory in the role of Harold Hastings; Florence Stone, of course, was as beautiful as ever, giving a perfect conception of Marguerite, and wearing several new and delightful gowns; Mr. Fowle made a commendable part in John Fedora, Jr.; La Claire Perry made her initial appearance in a small part, which she did most satisfactorily. Coming 11-17 is Daniel Boone, by The Majestics.

The Mason announces the sixth week of The Dollar Mark, commencing 11. This piece has had a most phenomenal patronage, and there seems to be no let up in the demand for seats. Considering that our city should soon have completed above this city to have 327,000 population, no one can wonder at a six weeks' run.

At the Orpheum 5-11: The Kilpatrick Troupe was featured, and their turn was full of new surprises; G. Herbert Mitchell was well accepted as a baritone soloist and story teller; Martin Beck's Indian act, A Modern Pocahontas, is an interesting bit of melodrama; the Six Little Girls and a Teddy Bear is an entertaining act. Held over were: Fay and Clark, Bowers, Walter and Gardner, Agnes Mahr, Connelly and Webb.

At the Grand The Sultan of Sulu was cleverly presented by the Ferris-Hartman co., and enjoyed splendid patronage for the week. Commencing 11, The Tourists will be given its first production on any local stage.

Gay New York has enjoyed a big week's business at the Burbank 4-10, and will continue another week. The musical comedy has been tremendously well received, and it has been given an elaborate and picturesque staging. Blanche Hall, Lovell Alice Taylor, Jessie Mae Hall, Margo Duffet, and Louise Royce added to the brilliance of the piece by their clever work and handsome gowns. In addition to many of the regular Burbank players, the Marquis Ellis Quartette and a big chorus were strong features.

DON W. CARLTON.

NEWARK.

Grace Van Studdiford—Vaudeville—Burlesque—Manager Mumford's Generosity.

Grace Van Studdiford and her clever co. presented the Golden Butterfly at the Newark Theatre 12-17. Marie Quive, sister of Miss Van Studdiford, sang the role of Ilma Waldon at the Wednesday matinee and scored. Fritzi Scheff in The Prima Donna 18-24. Ahern Grand Opera in Carmen 26-28.

Happy Hooligan and his mule Maud delighted the audiences at the Columbia Theatre 12-17.

Vanity Fair Burlesquers in A Night in Bohemia was greatly appreciated at Waldmann's Opera House 12-17. The Dainty Duchess 19-24.

The Brigadiers in Mr. Wise from Broadway crowded Miner's Empire Theatre 12-17.

A very good programme at Proctor's Theatre 12-17 was Carletta, Una Clayton, assisted by Francis Morey and Mona Ryan; Hanley and Jarvis, Al Lawrence, Montgomery and Moore, W. H. Murphy, Blanche Nichols and co., the Big City Quartette, and Holden's Manikins. Next week Maurice Freeman and co.

Jack Lorimer headed the bill at the Lyric Theatre 12-17. Others on the programme were the Royal Musical Five, Charles E. Bunnell, Miss Mabel Craig, Raymond Finley, Lottie Burke, Brooks and Vedder, Mr. and Mrs. Vivian Zimmer, Smith and Kennedy.

Mgr. Currie has decided to reduce prices beginning 19, and, notwithstanding highest price seat will be 50 cents, he has some first-class artists booked, such as Laurence Irving and James J. Jeffries and others.

The Arcade Theatre is giving its usual interesting programme, which includes Captain Sidney Hinman, Miss Ada Wilkes, John Flynn, and Miss Nan Doyle.

Mgr. Mumford gave the playground boys and girls a treat the other afternoon when it was too rainy for them to play outdoors, and filled his little theatre with complimentaries.

Gertrude Nelson Andrews, of South Orange, has closed a contract for her two plays to be produced the coming season; one of them is entitled Through a Window.

The Aborn Grand Opera co. will present Carmen 26-28 at the Newark Theatre. In the cast will be Bertha Shalek, George Tallman, Roland Paul, Harry Lockstone, Thomas Richards, Fred Chapman, Howard Chambers, George Shields, Nedda Morrison, Aileen Hodgson, Alma Bietzler, Hattie Belle Ladd, Charles W. Phillips, Sol Solomon, George Gordon White, and the orchestra will be conducted by Brahm Van Den Berg. Cavaleria Rusticana and I Pagliacci will be given the latter part of the week.

GEORGE S. APPLEGATE.

SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

The Brass Bowl Produced—Cyril Scott Scores—Vaudeville—The Poli-Nelson Case Continues.

There was only one dramatic performance at the Court Square Holy Week. Paid in Full, 8, competently played by the co. that has Clara Blandick, Lionel Adams, and Scott Cooper in the leading roles. The Burns-Johnson fight pictures were shown 7. The Brass Bowl had its premiere here 12, and was repeated 13. It proved a strong melodrama, in which Cyril Scott scored in the leading part, and Lillian Kemble, Eapley Holmes, and E. J. Le Saint made good in their parts. The play makers, Winchell Smith and Louis Joseph Vance, the latter author of the novel, "The Brass Bowl," from which it was made; Joseph R. Grismer, and other theatrical notables were present.

William Collier brought his delicious farce, The Patriot, 15, and a more pleased and amused audience has not been in the Court Square this season. Come oftener William; when you call on us only once in two or three years you can't expect the packed house you deserve. Grace Van Studdiford in The Golden Butterfly 21. Montreal Dramatic co. 22, 23. Springfield Turn Verein 24. Fritzi Scheff in The Prima Donna 27.

The Gilmore had The Golden Crook 12-14. Montana 15-17.

Poli's bill week 12 was specially attractive, with Bessie Wynn and Midgely and Carlisle. Other features were: Harry First and co., Pandur and Brother, Jennings and Renfrew, Myers and Rosa, and El Cato.

The Poli-Nelson case drags on in the courts. George Nelson, the owner, at the hearing, claimed he had a right to break the lease and eject Poli from the theatre, because the lease to the United States Amusement Co. forbade subletting. The Poli people claim that he was perfectly aware of the conditions, and that they had run the theatre for two years without molestation, or until William R. Fox offered more money. As it is Fox's manager is now running the house with a bill of moving pictures and vaudeville.

EDWIN DWIGHT.

LOUISVILLE.

The Broken Idol—De Wolf Hopper—Vaudeville—Concerts—Local Notes.

Otis Harlan in A Broken Idol, supported by a good co., drew excellent business to Macauley's 12-14 and was followed by equally as good business for three nights and matinee when De Wolf Hopper appeared in The Pied Piper. The sale of seats for Louis Mann in The Man Who Stood Still, which comes to this house for one week, beginning 19, indicates large business.

Rosabel Morrison and a big cast, including the Faust Choir, was the attraction at the Masonic week of 12, drawing excellent houses.

For week of 11 the following excellent bill is offered at the Mary Anderson: Felice Morris and co., the Italian Trio, the Mosarts, Vontello and Nina, General Ed Lavine, Gaston and Green, Sue Smith, and the Eight Phantastic Phantoms; business was large.

Week of 11, vaudeville and moving pictures were offered at the Avenue; in the vaudeville portion there appeared Billy Sheets, Four Venetians, Wilbur and Ami, and Christy, Bawens and Christy; business good.

The Thoroughbreds co. furnished entertainment for the patrons of the Buckingham week of 11. Mlle. La Toska, the Denette Sisters, Henry and Francis, Riley and Winters, and Boyd and Veola were in the olio. Week 19, The Ducklings.

Emma Eames gave a concert at the Woman's Club 14, under the auspices of the Musical Art Society, to a large and appreciative audience.

Louisville Symphony Orchestra, assisted by Cornelie Overstreet, gave a concert afternoon of 16 at the Masonic.

It was learned with regret that Walter S. Matthews passed away at his home 14, after a very short illness. Mr. Matthews was in the prime of life, being but forty-five years of age. He was a man of means and had written plays of some note. At one time he had histrionic aspirations, and was well and favorably known to the profession.

CHARLES D. CLARKE.

PORTLAND, ORE.

The Girl Question Pleases—Gould Season—Willow Grove Season—Vaudeville.

The Girl Question was a very attractive offering at the Baker 5-7. The principals essayed the parts well and the Baker stage management had the same well in this Court. Paul Madison as the lead is to be commended for the manner in which he handled the part. Other members of the company were also favorably considered. Miss Grey as the leading woman of the company, was all that could be desired. Others in the cast were Frank Lamb, Edward Keane, Lee Millard, Wilbur Clinton, Jessie Glover, Ethel Gilmore, Gertrude Bennett and Ida Fuller. The play was well staged and well played. Coming 8-10.

Starting with the usual opening at the Lyric Stock co. offered a production of The Holy City, and it was one of the best bills the co. has presented for a long time. The whole co. seemed to fit into the sympathetic part given them. Uncle Tom's Cabin 11.

Two Football favorites, James Hall and Eddie Chapman, were seen at the Orpheum week of 5 in a one-act playlet, The Lady Across the Hall. The sketch was a gem, and was considerably benefited. Frank Fogarty, Bessie and Lucado were one of the best seen in Portland for some time. The Imperial Male Quartette in "The Busiest Season of Them All," a travesty done by Fred Ray's Players; Arnolds, Ames and Corbett, and the Edison pictures completed an excellent bill.

The bill at the Grand week 5 was: Maurel Bessette with the Foley Sisters, Gaylyn's Pantomime co. and the pony Dan. Bellmore and Gaylin, Tom Dugan, Clooney and Russell, Harry McDuffie in songs, and moving pictures.

A Night in Naples, presented by the Armitans, was the best act on the bill at Pantages' week 5. Ed-Mora, Wentworth and Vesta, Mora and Rutter, West and Mack, picture songs, and motion pictures rounding a pleasing bill.

J. P. LOGAN.

COLUMBUS.

The Waning Season—Managers' Plans—The Colonial Troubles—Park News.

As the end of the season approaches Columbus managers are looking to their Summer arrangements. Already announcements are coming to the house with regard to the policy of Keith's and the Grand Southern, at both of which motion pictures are to be installed, with a strong singing combination at Keith's and vaudeville at the Southern as interpolating acts. Manager Proctor says that his Summer bill will be absolutely new and a great surprise. It is to be one of his original plans, and if it is up to the usual Proctor standard it will be a winner.

The end of this month will see all of the houses closed for the season, with the single exception of the Colonial, which will continue until the middle of May. Underlines at the Southern are The Merry Widow 19-21 and Montgomery and Stone 22.

Manager Harper states that his season will close with Bonita in Wine, Women and Song, with The Arrival of Kitty filling in a three days' engagement just previous. The Summer policy of the High Street has not yet been determined.

A few internal troubles are grappling forth at the Colonial. Miss Grey is to go to Providence for the Summer stock season and may not return here next Winter. Milton Boyle has also left the co. and has gone to New York. Mr. Boyle had some trouble with the management and held the curtain in Twelfth Night until his claim was satisfied. The Colonial Players put on The Devil last week and Walter Green easily scored a big success. Manager Howell has gone to New York to engage new members.

Olentangy Park opens for the season 25, better and greater than ever before. Milt Hoffman, manager for Vaughan Glaser, was here recently and made arrangements for a four weeks' season of stock at the park. It is assured that Joe Weber and his musical comedy co. are to be here for a six weeks' season later in the Summer.

The Serenaders were at the Gayety week of 11.

Madame Emma Eames and De Gorgoza sang to immense audiences at Memorial Hall 12.

The Angel and the Oz and Rose Melville in Sis Hopkins divided the week of 12 at the High Street Theatre.

The Love Waltz and Griff, the juggler, were the headliners of a good bill at Keith's week of 12.

JOSEPH RUSSELL HAGUE.

BUFFALO.

The Mimic World—The Catspaw Produced—Strongheart—Shea's Bill—Albert Schoengold's Death.

The Teck did the banner business of the season week 12 with Gertrude Hoffman in The Mimic World, the S. R. O. sign being in evidence at every performance.

The Catspaw, a new drama of American finance, written by Forrest Halsey and Franklin Searight and elaborated by John Stapleton, and originally called The Panic, and presented in Philadelphia last September, was the attraction at the Star 12-14. It is an excellent play, and it should be a success. The cast includes Emmett Corrigan, Wilson Melrose, Margaret Bourne, Ethel Clifton. The play has been lavishly staged.

Robert Gaillard in Strongheart attracted large audiences to the Lyric week 12. Mr. Gaillard is a clever, versatile actor, and has a splendid stage presence, and is seen to good advantage. The support is adequate, and includes Robert Lothian, a Buffalo boy, who surprised his legion of friends here by the fine portrayal of an exceedingly difficult part.

The Kentuckian fared well at the Academy week 12.

Shea's: Week 12 had Trixie Friganza, Sam Chip and Mary Marble, Tate's Motoring, Six Musical Nosses, McKay and Cantwell, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Barry, Crouch and Wells, Welch, Netta Vesta, the Salvaggis, kinetograph.

Miss New York, Jr., held the boards of the Lafayette week 12. Rice and Barton's Big Gaiety, featuring Charles Barton, put on a good bill at the Garden week 12, and did a fine business.

The many friends here of Arthur Gregory were grieved to hear of his death, which occurred in New Jersey. Mr. Gregory was a member of the old Academy of Music Stock co., under the management of the Mooch Brothers.

Albert Schoengold, the pioneer of the Jewish drama in America, was stricken with heart failure in the centre of the stage during a performance here 9, and died before medical aid could reach him. He is survived by his wife and daughter, who are connected with a stock co. in Cincinnati, and a son, who is an actor, and at present in Chicago.

P. T. O'CONNOR.

TORONTO.

William Faversham—Italian Grand Opera—Vaudeville at the Majestic.

William Faversham in The World and His Wife appeared at the Royal Alexandra for week 12-17 with great success. Gertrude Hoffman in The Mimic World 19-24.

A good line of music was given by Ivan Abramson's Italian Grand Opera co. 15-17 at the Princess Theatre. For the first of the week the house was packed by the superior attraction of W. S. Hart in The Virginian. Fanny Ward in The New Lady Bantock 19-24.

The Wizard of Oz played to excellent patronage at the Grand Opera House last week, delighting all with its mystic and varied effect.

The Majestic Theatre has deserted melodrama for the present, to become a vaudeville house. Four performances will be given daily—two in the afternoon and two in the evening. The bill will include a number of good specialties, with the latest motion pictures. The prices will be 5 and 10 cents, and a good business is expected.

Many Torontonians were attracted last week by the performances given by Anna Eva Fay, at Bennett's Theatre, Hamilton.

Shea's bill for week 12-17 was quite up to the usual good standard, presenting Ed. F. Reynard, ventriloquist, in A Morning in Hicksville; Bert Levy, Henry Martin and co., the Du Ball Brothers, the Four Beadings, the Village Choir, and the kinetograph.

A double bill, the Fay Foster co. and the California Girls, was the good attraction at the Star for week 12-17, playing to a fair house.

The Ben Greet Players—Babes in Toyland—The Clay Baker—Vaudeville.

A more beautiful production has never been seen here than that of A Midsummer Night's Dream as presented by the Ben Greet Players with Mendelssohn's music. It was perfect in every detail, and attracted large audiences to the Broadway. This theatre will be dark for two weeks, except for local entertainments.

Babes in Toyland packed the Tabor during Holy Week. Beth Tate as Contrary Mary was immensely popular. Ignace Martinetti, Gus Pixley, and Gene Cressale were all excellent as to fact, was every member of the co. The Ruhm-Johnson pictures 11-17. A Message from Mars 18-24.

At the Curtis The Clay Baker opened a good attraction. Walter Appleton was particularly effective in the strenuous scenes of the old Clay Baker's part. A good co. supported him. The Governor 11-17.

At the Auditorium 12 Robert Hilliard presents Olive Fremstad, and on 16 Mlle. Klimah.

The remaining houses all had good bills. The Orpheum offered Charles Gillingwater and co., Will Rogers, Emmy Wehlen, Tony Wilson and Mlle. Rosina, Amoros Sisters, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Clarke, and the Mitchell Boys.

At the Majestic were: Ralph Johnstone, Frank Morgan, the Country Club, The Bonnie's Dream, Dolan and Dolan Lorimer, Rowland and Phelps.

The Crystal had Kid Gabriel and co., Bartlett and Webb, Allman and Lorraine, Glasgow Oliver, Tait and Keen.

NEW ORLEANS.

The Gay Nineties—Cecil Spooner—Vaudeville—Burlesque—Coming Attractions.

The Gay Nineties, with Temple Stone, Amelia Stone and Lorrie Kendall as the principals in the cast, was a fair drawing card at the Tulane Theatre 11-17. Miss Kendall is very popular and has many friends here and was the recipient of much attention during the engagement. The rest of the cast was satisfactory. Three others 18.

Cecil Spooner, in the second week of her engagement at the Crescent Theatre, presented The Girl Behind Him 11-17. George Palmer Moore, Lee Russell, Will Hutchinson, and Albert Hendricks contributed much to the success of the play. The Girl from Rector's 18-24.

Bell Isle Stanley was the bill presented at Stanley's Lyric Theatre 11-17. Rogers Barker, Phyllis Gilmore, Minnie de Castro were prominent in the cast. Ten Nights in a Bar Room 18-24.

The Casino Girls held forth at the Greenwall Theatre 11-17, and played to fair business during the week. Both burlesque and vaudeville features were encountered. Beauty Spot 18-25.

At the St. Charles Orpheum for 12-18, the features were: Electrified Girl Revivo, Edwin Hull and co., Van Hoven, Burt Howard and Ellis Lawrence, Jarvis, the Three Donnis, Fonda, Bell and Fonda, and the kinetoscope.

The Bisbis, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Bisbis and their children, Bernie, Sarah, and Sanford, all of whom are New Orleans people, are making a decided hit in Their Daddy, a clever skit by Allen Gregory Miller. These accomplished people were seen at the Orpheum 5-11.

The Napoleon Theatre, under the management of Morgan Harding, opened 11. Vaudeville will be the policy of the house.

The White City opens 17, with many outdoor attractions, such as chute the chutes, etc., concert band and vaudeville.

The Shubert, Winter Garden, Alamo and Victor theatres, in the moving picture field, are doing well.

Lois Glaser Welcomed—Light Opera Continues—Stock News—Vaudeville—Burlesque.

A good stock house greeted the opening of Lois Glaser at His Majesty's 12 in Mammolo Minchiff. Miss Glaser is a great favorite here and was warmly received. Local Grey musical and dramatic contest 19-24.

The old-time favorite, The Mascot, was the bill given by the Manhattan Opera co. for their fourth week, and in spite of age the opera seemed to be enjoyed as much as ever. Jack Henderson scored as Laverne, Adeline Fildes made a most charming Bettina, and Alfred Vaughn was a capable Pippo. The opera was well put on. Pirates of Penzance 19-24.

The Eagle Comedy Stock co. opened to a good matinee Easter Monday at the Francais and played to a packed house at night. The bill was The Christian and a remarkably smooth performance was given. Opal Arden as Glory became an instant favorite and played the part splendidly. Owing to the illness of Victor Browne, the leading man, Mr. Cummings himself had to play the role of John Storm on short notice. He was sincere and capable. Eddie Walton made a sympathetic Polly Love, and the rest of the cast as a whole did good work. Northern Lights 19-24.

Anna Eva Fay in her mystifying act was the headliner at Bennett's and proved a big drawing card. Lew Wells made a hit in his monologue and saxophone work. It's Up to You, William, was an amusing farce. Charley Chase in monologue and the Dunedin Troupe of bicyclists were also features.

At the Princess Theatre the Bohemian Show proved an exceptionally good offering. Molly Williams scored a big hit as Anna Held. The impersonations of Montgomery and Stone by Frank Hayes and James C. Morton were also good.

Williams' Idealz held the boards at the Royal. The burlesques are well staged and beautifully costumed. Charles H. Mackie, Johnny Love and Minnie Lee, and Grant and Grant are also worthy of mention.

The Easter week bill at the National was Camille, which proved as popular as ever. This week The Ironmaster.

SALT LAKE CITY.

Madame Nazimova—The Kerry Gow—Musical Comedy—Vaudeville—Items.

At the Salt Lake Theatre Madame Nazimova in repertoire played the entire week of 5 to practically full houses at advanced prices, and gave pleasing performances. Ben Greet's Players and the Russian Symphony Orchestra 12-14 in repertoire.

At the Colonial Arthur Cunningham drew excellent business with Kerry Gow. This week same co. in Shaun Rhue. George Calvert, Lillian Raymond, Daniel McManus, Alice Condon, and Robert Leonard were worthy of mention.

The Salt Lake Symphony Orchestra will give the last of the series of recitals for the season on Sunday afternoon 18, under the direction of Professor J. J. McClellan.

At the Bungalow Lewis and Lake, with a good co., opened their musical comedy, The Ten Thousand Dollar Beauty, to good business. Marjorie Lake was dainty and popular. The Jolly Four male quartette was excellent, and in great demand. Abe Friedland, Monte Carter, and Sim Kerner, as a comedy trio, were enjoyable. Next week the Willard co. in La Tosca.

The Grand Theatre had good houses all the week, presenting A Runaway Tramp to pleased audiences. This week the Arrington Stock co. in On the Stroke of Twelve.

At the Orpheum week of 4 At the Sound of the Gong, Imro Fox, Tony Wilson and Mlle. Helaine, Will Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Clarke, Sam Sursall and Ada Hazall, the Amoros Sisters, and the kinodrome. Houses sold out before curtain.

This has been the week of the great Mormon conference (April and October) and there have been thousands of visitors in the city, making it a red letter week for the theatres and moving picture houses. Nearly everything has been packed entire week.

Great preparations are being made for the reception of the G. A. R. encampment, which convenes here the coming Summer.

Al Field's Minstrels Draw Well—Vaudeville—Shenandoah Revived—A Record Jump.

At Boyd's Theatre Field's Minstrels 11 drew two good sized audiences, and gave general satisfaction. The co. is unusually strong vocally, and in addition to this attractive feature there are a number of good comedians and many new jokes. A Stubborn Cinderella 12-20. Charles B. Hanford 20, May 1.

At the Orpheum the bill for week of 11 was: Mack and Marcus, the Vindobonas, Julie Ring, Elizabeth M. Murray, James and Sadie Leonard and Richard Anderson, James Thornton, the Sisters Gasch. Business is good, especially on the first floor, where the demand for seats exceeds the supply. For week of 18: George W. Leslie, Frank Nelson and co., Max Witt, the Sisters De Pace, Jeannette Adler, Gray and Graham, the Three Bohemians.

At the Burwood Shenandoah was the offering week of 11, with Thaddeus Gray, the new leading man, in the part of Korchival West. The other new members of the co., Lea Reynolds and Hugh Gibson, were also well received. Maude Leone as Gertrude Ellingham was popular, and Mr. Todd as General Haverill was excellent. For week of 18, The Cowboy and the Lady.

Down at the Krug the house is turned over for an indefinite season to the moving picture con. Business is good and prospects are encouraging.

Field's Minstrels made a record run to Omaha, in order to be in time for the Sunday matinee. The Union Pacific Railroad put a special train at their service, coming into the city at the rate of a mile a minute.

Mrs. Fiske and her New York co. are booked at the Burwood in May.

Julius Steger's Latest Musical Dramatic Sketch Seen for the First Time—Mme. Valery Makes Vaudeville Debut—Return of Eddie Leonard to the Variety Stage—Other Offerings.

The Way to the Heart.

Julius Steger was seen at the 125th Street Theatre last week, for the first time hereabouts, in a new sketch by Keith Conover Mitchell entitled The Way to the Heart. Like Mr. Steger's previous vehicle, it is of a military and matrimonial nature, with an opportunity provided to show that well Mr. Steger can sing. His story tells of a rich and powerful old colonel who has allowed his grief and sorrow at the loss of his wife to so overcome his better qualities that he has become cruel and insulting to his daughter and particularly cruel and insulting to her mother, who is a kind of shady letter forward to the latter, who is a kind of upper superintendent in his works and very popular with his fellow workers. At a time when the old owner is hard pressed for money and on the verge of cutting salaries in the works, his brother, for the first time in their quarrelsome lives, comes to the rescue and makes a plan in behalf of the employees. He is to make a plea in behalf of the employees. He is to make a plea in behalf of the employees, but not before he has mapped out for his brother that a sum of money left by his eccentric brother (that is the will's story) to the only person in the mill owner's employ (the chief superintendent) under the terms of the will, is to be given to

MORRIS LEAVES LINCOLN SQUARE.

Disagreement with Charles E. Blaney Leads Independent Manager to Move Over to the New Plaza Theatre in New York.

Because of constant friction between Charles E. Blaney and William Morris, the latter suddenly decided to move out of the Lincoln Square Theatre on Saturday last, April 17, and to replace that house on the Morris Circuit with the New Plaza Theatre on Fifty-ninth Street and Madison Avenue. This house was built for the presentation of German productions, and a few weeks ago it was announced that the Shuberts were to take it over, but this fell through. It was not until Wednesday of last week that William Morris made his decision to withdraw from the Lincoln Square, and he at once notified Mr. Blaney and all of the players who were to appear at the Lincoln Square beginning last night, directing them to report for performances at the Plaza.

Nine acts are to be seen on each bill hereafter, the opening bill consisting of Julian Eltinge, Sabaret, Edith Helena, Harry Fisher and Rose Botti, Brothers De Wynne, Rice and Cady, James J. McDonald, Fred Karno's Comedians, and motion pictures.

It is stated that a Summer stock company will be installed by Manager Blaney at the Lincoln Square, with Cecil Spooner at its head, beginning within about three weeks from now.

SUNDAY MANAGERS WIN.

Theatrical managers presenting Sunday performances won a decisive victory last Friday, April 16, when the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court decided that the Supreme Court had no jurisdiction in the proceedings for the revocation of the American Music Hall license, and stating that suit must be brought civilly for $500 by the city against the manager of that theatre, such suit being tried before a jury in either the Supreme Court or in a lower court. This virtually means that the Doull ordinance recently enacted, and which endeavored to outline the kind of entertainment that might be presented in New York on Sunday, is a dead issue, at least for the present. On last Sunday night, April 18, practically every vaudeville theatre in town gave a full and regular vaudeville performance. It is the general belief that no jury could be found that would decide to revoke a theatre manager's license for a violation of such an ordinance. The case against the American Music Hall was made to make a test after the city had begun action to revoke the licenses of the Victoria, the Alhambra, and Hurtig and Seamon's Music Hall.

VAUDEVILLE THEATRE BURNED.

The American Theatre in Elyea, O., was entirely burned April 14, making a complete loss to the Lake Shore Film Company, of Cleveland, of $5,000. The Musical Ten Eycks lost their entire wardrobe and instruments, valued at $1,500. Maria Gillette, singer and dancer, saved her goods. The fire started in the next block and the theatre was considered safe, but the walls of next block fell and in a short time the American Theatre was no more.

NEW ORPHEUM IN 'FRISCO OPENS.

Million-Dollar Theatre on Same Site as the Original House of the Big Circuit.

(Special to The Mirror.)

Last night, Monday, April 19, the new Orpheum Theatre in San Francisco was opened to the public for the first time, amid such a demonstration as the city has not seen since the fleet of warships visited us months ago.

This newest and finest theatre on the Orpheum Circuit was built to take the place of the old Orpheum, destroyed by the fire and 'quake of 1906, and the building occupies the site of the original and first Orpheum Theatre, which was opened on June 30, 1887. The theatre cost $500,000, and, with the ground, cost nearly $1,000,000. The ventilating plant alone cost $20,000. The seating capacity is for 2,500 persons, and there are thirty-four exits, with patent doors so arranged that they open outward upon the slightest pressure. The stage is the largest in the city, being 38x108 feet. G. Albert Lansburgh and Bernard J. Joseph are the architects. The interior decorations are beautiful in the extreme, striking but not glaring, the color scheme being gold and red. Every possible luxury for the comfort of patrons has been installed, making the house the finest in San Francisco and one of the finest in the country.

At the opening, which was set to occur on the third anniversary of the destruction of the old Orpheum, the house was packed from top to bottom. Martin Beck, M. Meyerfield, Jr., and other officials of the Orpheum Circuit were on hand to aid in the celebration, and the house was decorated with a profusion of flowers. The officials of the Orpheum Circuit Company received telegrams of congratulations from all over the world, and the evening was made a gala one in every sense of the word. The following acts and players appeared on the opening bill: Frank Moulan and Maude Lillian Berri, Margaret Moffat and co. in Sewell Collins' Awake at the Switch, Rigoletti's Flying Ballet, Frank Fogerty, Sandwinas, Paul Saunder's Miniature Circus, and motion pictures. The bill made a pronounced hit and the first audience to visit the latest playhouse in the city went home happy and content.

A pleasing feature of the inaugural was the presentation of handsome loving cups to Martin Beck, general manager, and to Morris Meyerfield, Jr., president of the Orpheum Circuit, by all the employees of the big chain of theatres, numbering nearly a thousand in all.

NEW ACTS AT A BENEFIT.

The Greeters, an organization of hotel clerks, gave a benefit at the Broadway Theatre Sunday night to raise funds to refurnish their clubrooms at 1146 Broadway. A long bill of vaudeville acts was given. Three of these acts were shown for the first time in New York. The most elaborate was Kris Kringle's Dream, with Kathleen Clifford and Arthur Hill. This number, made of up incidents of dances from The Top o' th' World, is now at Keith and Proctor's Fifth Avenue Theatre, and will be reviewed next week.

The second of the new acts was The Call of the Heart, played by Ruth Richmond and company. This was a dramatic playlet with undeveloped possibilities. The scene is laid at a girls' school in Winnipeg, and the characters are a half-breed girl, honor graduate of the school, her Indian mother, a middle-aged ranchman, and a young French Canadian engineer. The half-breed girl, smarting under the indignities offered her on account of her parentage, refuses the offer of marriage given her by both ranchman and young engineer. She finally accepts the young man. The play needs comedy and cutting. It would be unfair to criticise the acting, for the players were under the disadvantages of a wrong setting and a house entirely too large for such a piece.

Catherine Cameron and her company made a distinct hit in a comedy sketch called Kitty and the Drummer. Miss Cameron has the part of a good hearted chorus girl, very hungry and quite ready to accept an invitation to dinner. In the end she gets the invitation and the prospects of marrying a genial and gentlemanly drummer. Miss Cameron and her company played well, and got the most out of the many comedy lines.

About twenty other acts were given, most of them pleasing the large audience.

SOUVENIR OF THE ORPHEUM CIRCUIT.

The Orpheum Circuit has sent out one of the most handsome souvenir booklets ever published by any firm or corporation. It is done in a loose leather binding and printed upon a very high grade of glossed paper, and contains beautiful illustrations of every theatre on the circuit, as well as portraits of the principal officers and directors. The reading matter is very interesting and gives a brief history of the large chain of houses, with data regarding each house that should prove of value to every manager and performer in vaudeville. The Orpheum Circuit and its officers are to be congratulated for the artistic and comprehensive way in which this souvenir is presented, which is on a par with everything the Orpheum Circuit sends out to the press and public.

EDDIE LEONARD AS A MINSTREL STAR.

Eddie Leonard, it was announced last week, will head a minstrel company next season, under the management of Reich and Plunkett, and will be seen in the Shubert circuit of theatres. George Thatcher will be one of the feature comedians, giving an act reminiscent of minstrelsy in the past. A women's orchestra of sixty pieces will also be a feature, the women appearing in blackface.

CAMERON AND FLANAGAN SEPARATE.

Tudor Cameron and Ed. Flanagan have separated as a vaudeville team until next season, the split being entirely amicable and made solely to allow Mr. Cameron to go to the coast for a much needed rest. In the meantime Ed. Flanagan will take on another partner until Fall, when the original team will be seen in a new version of On and Off, playing Morris time.

VOSS BILL IN SENATE.

The Voss bill, introduced in the Assembly to amend the New York State Employment Agency law, was passed by that body on Wednesday, April 14, and is now before the Senate for approval.

THIS WEEK'S BILLS.

AMERICAN MUSIC HALL.—Lillian Wright, Mina Hurst (illustrated songs), Burrows-Travis Company, Juggling Jordans, Shean and Warren, Charles J. Ross, Four Luby Sisters, Blake's Circus, Rinaldo, James J. Jeffries (second week), Fischer and Burkhardt, McLallen-Carson Duo.

THE PLAZA.—Opening week under William Morris' management. Julian Rittings, Edith Helena, Brothers De Wynne, Sabaret, Rice and Cady, James F. McDonald, Harry Fisher and Rose Botti, Royal Musical Five, Fred Karno's Comedians.

COLONIAL.—Vesta Tilley (third week), Carlin and Otto, Charles Leonard Fletcher, Howard and North, Tomson's Mystery, Charles Ahearn Troupe, Basque Quartette, Five Juggling Jordans, the Pianophiends.

ALHAMBRA.—Andrew Mack and company, Waterbury Brothers and Tenny, Elinore Sisters, Eva Williams and Jack Tucker, Dan Burke and His Girls, John E. Hazzard, La Vine-Cimaron Trio, Davis and Walker, Fun in a Boarding House.

KEITH AND PROCTOR'S FIFTH AVENUE.—Julius Steger and company, Rossi's Musical Elephants, Kathleen Clifford and Arthur Hill, Mirza Golem Troupe, Odette Valery (second week), Fred Watson and the Morrisey Sisters, Daphne Pollard, Claire Romaine.

KEITH AND PROCTOR'S 125TH STREET.—Hotel Laughland, Madame Rena, Artie Hall, "Slivers" Oakley, Binns, Binns and Binns, Alcide Capitaine, Martin Healy, and Annie Lloyd.

VICTORIA.—Surratt and Gould, Rice and Prevost, Joseph Howard and Anna Laughlin, Wilfred Clarke and company, Frank Morrell, Pauline (third week).

KENNEY'S THIRD AVENUE.—La Belle Troupe, Pongo and Leo, Fritz's dogs, Hilda Hawthorne, Carl McCullough, and the De Muths.

LAST WEEK'S BILLS.

KENNEY'S THIRD AVENUE.—Six Cornellas, Humes and Lewis, James McDuff, Gibson and Dale, Arthur Lanning and company, and Robinson Trio.

COLONIAL.—Eddie O'Neil was probably the busiest treasurer in New York last week due to the phenomenal business at this house. Newell and Niblo opened, followed in turn by Vinie Daly, Eddie Leonard and company, John E. Hazzard (see New Acts), Mr. and Mrs. Gardner Crane and company, Frank Stafford and company, Vesta Tilley (second week), the Quartette, and the Sensational Bolass.

AMERICAN MUSIC HALL.—Saunders and Cameron opened (see New Acts), followed by Minnie Hurst (illustrated songs), Magnani Four, Alf Ripon, Georgia Campers, Fox and Foxie Circus, Monetchel, Juliet & Francesca Redding and company, Clarice Vance, James J. Jeffries, Henry Helms, and Blanche Sloan.

HAMMERSTEIN'S VICTORIA.—The Reif Brothers opened, followed by Elsie Boehm, George Mozart, Musical Cuttys, Fred Karno and company, Charmion, and Pauline, the hypnotist.

BLANEY'S LINCOLN SQUARE.—The last week's bill under Morris' management at this house included Two Rosebuds, Rose Fulmer (illustrated songs), Campbell and Barber (second week), Hale and Corbin, Wilson Franklyn and company, Rinaldo (see New Acts), Laurence Irving and Mabel Hackney, Saharet, Fred Fischer and Maurice Burkhardt (see New Acts), Blake's Circus, Emma Carus, and the De Wynne Brothers.

KEITH AND PROCTOR'S FIFTH AVENUE.—The Charles Ahearn Troupe of Cyclists were first on the bill here, to be followed by Bertie Herron, Franco Piper, Andrew Mack and company, Lynn Pratt and company (see New Acts), Madame Odette Valery (see New Acts), Empire City Quartette, and Madame Theresa Renz. Very large business was the result during the week.

ALHAMBRA.—Another crowded house was seen at the Alhambra last Monday night, to welcome an evenly balanced and all around pleasing bill. De Haven and Sidney opened, followed by T. Roy Barnes and Bessie Crawford, Kenny, McGahan and Platt, Valerie Bergere and company, Jesse L. Lasky's Military Octette, Irene Franklin, Raymond and Caverley, and the Sutcliffe Troupe.

KEITH AND PROCTOR'S 125TH STREET.—Last week's bill attracted the crowded houses it deserved. The Piquays opened it, then, in order, came Harlan Knight, and company in Una Clayton's quaint little play, The Chalk Line; Tom Brown and Hiren Nevarro, At the Waldorf, Clifford and Burke, Julius Steger in a new sketch, The Way to the Heart; Mullen and Corelli, Isabel Butler and Edward Basset in their ice skating exhibition, and moving pictures.

AT OTHER HOUSES.

DEWEY.—Last week's bill included Royal Comedy Trio, Garetta and Paul, Dale and company, Wilson Sisters, Miss Urline, Nick Murphy and company, and Thomas Kane. Mr. Kane was with the Cohan and Harris Minstrels and was the big hit of the bill, singing illustrated songs.

UNIQUE.—Last week were Peltzer and White, Grace Childers, De Veau Sisters and Robert Vanni.

MANHATTAN.—Rankin and Ridge, Horinne Linden, Billy Quirk, and Langdon and Cosgrove were last week's offering.

FOURTEENTH STREET.—Minnie Palmer, Harry Holman, O'Neil Trio, Dumitrescu, Vermellion Troupe, Morello Brothers, and Jack Driscoll were last week's attractions.

VAUDEVILLE JOTTINGS.

Nelson Waring appeared at the Fifth Avenue on last Sunday evening, April 18, and scored a distinct hit. His piano playing is decidedly the best heard in vaudeville of recent date, and is on a par with that of many of the best musicians in the musical world. His selections were popular and appealed to his audience.

Manager M. S. Epstin, of the Columbia Theatre, Brooklyn, is the promoter of a Marathon race to be run over in that borough next Saturday, April 24. The race has been sanctioned by the A. A. U. and thirty-five entries have already been received. Mr. Epstin has donated silver cups and medals.

Barney Girard arrived in New York last week to complete his production of The Best Show on the Road, in which he is collaborating with Albert von Tilzer. He will also arrange for a Spring engagement of Follies of the Day in Atlantic City, in which Our Boys in Blue will be a feature attraction.

Al Fields and Dave Lewis, again together, scored an immense hit at the Orpheum, Brooklyn, last week and the first week's success proved the wisdom of the reunion. The dialogue is absurdly funny and the ridiculous hansom cab and the attendant business is side-splitting.

After Andrew Mack introduced "My Cousin Caruso" recently at Hammerstein's, with Leo Edwards at the piano, the result was Ben Welch, Bobby North, and Sam Dody from Jesse Lasky's Seven Hobos company, called on Gus Edwards for this song. Mr. Kingston, manager of Miss Innocence company, had Mr. Edwards play the song for Mr. Bigelow and the latter put it on with much success, it is said.

Clarice Mayne and J. W. Tate sailed to-day on the "Kron Prinzessin Cecile" for Europe. They will spend some time in Paris, then open at the Oxford May 10. Mr. Tate's song hit in America, "I Am Longing for Some One to Love Me," although phenomenal, has been dwarfed in comparison with his latest effort, "A Tiny Seed of Love," which to-day is the rage of England and used in more than a hundred pantomimes already.

The Spirit of '76, Joseph Leo's new act, has been booked over the United time, commencing this week at Wilmington.

Genie Pollard last week scored one of the big hits in the World Beaters Burlesque at the Murray Hill. She is doing character comedy work of a high order.

The Zanciys will sail on the S. S. "Lusitania" on April 28, to play a fourteen weeks' tour over the Moss and Stoll tour in England. They will then lay off two weeks prior to the tour, and will return to New York in September. Mr. Zancig has been very ill with pleural pneumonia for the past six weeks.

Mrs. Clara Mora Underhill, wife of George E. Underhill, who is associated with the Hyde and Behman Amusement Company, died on Thursday, April 15, at the home of her sister, Helene Mora, in Bensonhurst. She was forty-five years old.

The rumor that Henry Lee was bringing suit against the Orpheum Circuit, or Martin Beck, for an alleged breach of contract is now proven to be untrue. Mr. Lee stated to THE MIRROR'S Chicago representative last week that he would begin a ten weeks' tour over the Orpheum time on April 17.

Julian Eltinge opened at the Orpheum, Boston, last week, and will have six consecutive weeks to follow of Morris' time. The salary is a phenomenal one, and he is being billed like a Lauder attraction all over Boston and vicinity. He will do the same act he used in the minstrel co., and the following weeks an entirely new one.

Helena Frederick and co. in The Patriot have been engaged for thirty weeks' tour over the Orpheum circuit, commencing at the Majestic Theatre, Chicago, April 5.

Tom Waters opened in vaudeville at the American Theatre, St. Louis, Monday, March 15, with gratifying results, being, it is said, one of the substantial hits of the bill.

William Guard, who has been the press representative of the Manhattan Opera House for the past two seasons, will take over the publicity department of the Victoria Roof-Garden this Summer.

Margaret Perry, one of the Three Perry Sisters, broke her leg while performing at the Bijou Theatre, Bayonne, N. J., on April 6. In their sketch is a bedroom scene. Her injury was caused by her falling over one of the beds. The Perry Sisters had to cancel the balance of their engagement owing to the unfortunate accident.

Mrs. Agnes Wayburn was granted a divorce from Ned Wayburn by Justice Truax on April 5, also awarding her $15 a week alimony. They were married on December 25, 1897, in this city.

Tom, an elephant belonging to the Yankee Robinson Circus, attacked and killed one of the keepers, Charles Bartow, on last Thursday, April 8. The beast's regular keeper had been absent and this seemed to anger the huge animal, who seized Bartow with his trunk and hurled him against the wall of the barn in the Winter quarters in Des Moines, Ia. He then crushed the body to a pulp. It took over forty men to capture and secure the enraged elephant, who rushed through Ingersoll Park and did considerable damage before he was finally secured.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Pat Rooney (Marion Bent) last week, the arrival being greeted at the New York home of the happy parents.

The Family Theatre at Chester, Pa., returned to the two-a-day policy last week. Some time ago the house divided its bookings of each week with the Savoy at Atlantic City. It will now play along its old lines and will abandon the split week plan of operation.

Melville Ellis returned from his recent London engagement last week and opened at the Keith and Proctor 125th Street house yesterday.

Beginning Easter Monday, the Fulton Theatre, Brooklyn, like Mr. Morris' American and Lincoln Square, will have a fourteen-act bill weekly, if the reception of the Easter Week programme warrants it.

John Norman, one of the riders at the Hippodrome, was married on Sunday, April 4, to Allie Leon, of the ballet. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. H. Jenvy, of St. Paul's Church, Jersey City, N. J.

In closing his series of appearances at Tremont Temple, Boston, on Friday evening and Saturday afternoon of this week, R. G. Knowles is to tell of his rambles among the fisher folk of France and Flanders. Mr. Knowles has fully justified his claim to being "a humorous traveler" in these appearances, as his talk adds a cheer to his descriptions of foreign travel which is a constant source of pleasure to all who hear him.

William L. Bissell, for seven years manager of the Star Theatre, Brooklyn, died the night of Wednesday, March 31, at his home in Sullivan County, N. Y. He was a member of the Brooklyn Lodge of Elks.

Beatie Clayton has just signed a contract for a ten weeks' engagement in Paris, at a salary said to be the largest ever paid an American artist in Europe. She is to appear in the Olympia Music Hall commencing May 31 and will receive for the season of ten weeks $10,000 and transportation to Paris and return. In the French capital Miss Clayton will introduce two thoroughly American divertissements, which were arranged by her husband, Julian Mitchell. Miss Clayton will sail for Europe May 12, but will not be accompanied by Mr. Mitchell.

The "Vode-Veal" Trio, composed of Lottie Fee, Alice May and Evelyn Phelps, and known under the team name of Fee, May and Phelps, disbanded April 10 at the Broadway Theatre, Camden, N. J. Allen May bought the travesty skit Stranded, in which the trio has been appearing, from Howard Wall, the author and producer. Mr. May and Miss Fee will continue to use the act, while Evelyn Forbes will shortly appear in a new offering provided for her by Mr. Wall, under the title of The Laundry Girl. She will be supported by a company fully competent in every way.

Frank Walsh has just closed a four weeks' engagement in New England. He says that his new song, "Bump Up a Little Bit," made a big hit all over the circuit.

Tom Waters writes THE MIRROR that he has just received the following bookings: Haymarket, Chicago; Olympic, Chicago; Orpheum, Minneapolis; Orpheum, St. Paul, with other Eastern time to follow. He also has twenty-seven weeks over the Orpheum circuit.

William Tompkins writes that he expects to spend the Summer in Seattle, Wash. He has been playing Orpheum time for twelve months and Sullivan-Considine time for four months, the balance of the past two years being spent in Nevada. He is now taking a vacation of a month at Catalina Island with his wife, devoting part of his time to magazine and newspaper writing.

James Madison, the vaudeville sketch and monologue writer, has moved from 1133 Broadway to the Long Acre Building at 1493 Broadway.

The Keatons were the feature act at the New Broadway Theatre, Camden, N. J., during Easter week, and judging by the criticism of the local press they were the big hit of the bill.

Al Lawrence was last week elected to membership in the International League of Press Clubs.

Bert Levy has signed contracts to appear for eight weeks next Winter at the Imperial Opera House in St. Petersburg, Russia, and for the remainder of that season at the Tsarina Opera Royal, in Moscow. Mr. Levy will open at the Palace, London, in June, and he will following this with an engagement at the Follies Bergere, Paris, and the Berlin Wintergarten.

On the afternoon of Monday, May 3, Shubert and Anderson will give a monster professional matinee at the Hippodrome.

James J. Jeffries had a birthday anniversary on April 15. Mr. Jeffries was thirty-four years old and the occasion was remembered by many friends in the shape of appropriate gifts.

Blanche Dayne has bought another launch to add to the Cressy and Dayne fleet at Lake Sunapee, N. H. The fleet now numbers ten boats.

Arrangements are nearly complete for Miss St. Geo. Hussey, the celebrated Irish character actress, to be seen in her latest skit, Comical Conceptions, in the Western vaudeville houses this Spring.

Robert H. Bertram, assisted by Celia Rosewood and Alice M. May, open on the Pantages Circuit in The Story of the Rose on May 16.

The benefit to be tendered to Ned Hanson, late of the Quaker City Quartette, was to be held in the Lyric Theatre, Newark, on Sunday afternoon, April 25, but owing to a very sudden and recent order of the chief of police of that city, those in charge will be utterly unable to carry out the programme on that day, and they were obliged to secure the Krueger Auditorium, Newark, for Wednesday evening, May 19.

THE MOVING PICTURE FIELD

REVIEWS OF NEW FILMS.

LAST WEEK'S ISSUES AVERAGE WELL IN QUALITY AND CHARACTER.

Edison Company Produces an Excellent Subject—Biograph, as Usual, Issues Two Ably Acted Films—The Kalem Issue Is an Unusually Strong Melodrama—Other Manufacturers and Importers Maintain Their Standard of Excellence.

The Winning Coat (Biograph, April 12).—This is a dashing, romantic costume picture telling a pretty story. It is not as smoothly constructed as the average Biograph subjects, but it is nevertheless understandable. The Biograph producers, it should be noted, labor under the difficulty of having done so much superior work that we are apt to look for a higher standard of excellence from their hands than from some of the other producing companies. The Winning Coat is superbly mounted and smartly acted. It tells of a young courtier, banished by his king for dueling. Before he goes, he wins the purse, sword and coat of another courtier at the gaming table, and in the coat he finds a note, which tells of a conspiracy to kidnap the queen. By being present at the rendezvous and saving the queen, he wins pardon from the king and the royal consent to the hand of the girl he loves. There is some little confusion in conveying the story to the spectator, but it is accomplished after a fashion and the picture proves interesting.

A Sound Sleeper (Biograph, April 12).—This light, nonsensical "comic" is sufficiently amusing to warrant its use in filling out a reel, but otherwise we could hardly commend it as worthy of the Biograph. A tramp proves to be such a sound sleeper that a fight taking place over his body fails to wake him up. Later he goes to sleep in an ash barrel. He is covered with ashes and dumped into an ash pile from which he serenely emerges, brushes his coat and walks gayly away.

Moonstruck (Pathe, April 12).—If we are not mistaken this subject is a repetition, with little if any change, of a film produced by the same company a few years ago. However, it is clever enough to warrant the reproduction. It is a pleasing colored trick picture, telling of the visions of a Pierot character, who dreams that he flies to the moon, where he has many wonderful experiences.

Pranks of a Mischievous Kid (Pathe, April 12).—Uncommonly laughable is this "comic," the pranks of the boy being carried out in a natural manner that proves very effective. The boy plays truant from school and amuses himself in practical jokes on the grown-ups, for which he earns a sound whipping from his victims.

My Friend, Mr. Dummy (Lubin, April 12).—We could praise this "comic" with more pleasure if we had not recognized in it an old subject of the Vitagraph. However, the Lubin players have done it very well and it is laughably pleasing. An inebriated individual carries off a clothing dummy and permits it to be run over by an automobile and to be otherwise injured, each time collecting damages from the persons responsible for the trouble. When the clothing merchant recovers the dummy, he finds in the pockets, to his great joy, all the damage money.

The Curse of Gold (Lubin, April 12).—There is a very good story told by this picture, but it would have been more effective, in some of the scenes, if it had been more carefully handled. A miser, stingy with his family and unrelenting with his debtors, hides his gold in a secret underground room, where he at last becomes a prisoner, by a heavy timber falling across the outside of the door, locking him in. Here he is supposed to perish after making ineffectual efforts to force the door open, but we note that he takes good care not to try the door too hard, no doubt realizing if he does it will surely fall open. The anguish of his acting is overdone, and the female characters, whose costumes are of the period when large hoops were in vogue, are clumsy in their manner of managing their skirts. There is also an attempt at shadow effect in the cellar, or is it a transparency? Whatever it is, it is a failure.

A Marriage of Convenience (Vitagraph, April 13).—A young artist in love with his model is called home to marry a wealthy girl. When the model discovers the truth she slashes the picture for which she has been posing and follows this up by committing suicide. The ending is not a pleasant one, but the acting is performed with some feeling, despite the tendency to hurry the scenes, for which we have, before now, felt called upon to criticise Vitagraph methods.

A Tax on Bachelors (Vitagraph, April 13).—Rarely have we seen a more genuinely humorous comedy picture than this one. In act of freak legislation is supposed to provide that bachelors must pay a tax, and if they are proposed to by any single women before they pay the tax they must marry. The members of a bachelors' club and of an old maids' club read of the new law in the papers at about the same time. The bachelors start out for the tax office, and the old maids start on a hunt for bachelors. They come together at a corner, and the men flee in dismay, followed by the women. The men reach the tax office safely, and the poor women are locked out, being able only to see their intended victims through the windows buying immunity from marriage servitude. Then the men march out past the women, each man protected by his tax receipt.

Charlie Forced to Find a Job (Gaumont, April 13).—We are unable to see any humor in this picture, nor much merit of any kind. Charlie is a grown up man, who depends on his father for his living, but the old folks kick him out when he comes home one early morning. He obtains work of various degrading kinds that put his parents to shame, and they are at length glad to take him back to escape humiliation. Charlie's mother, poor lady, appears to have only one dress, in which she is seen morning, noon and night.

In The Limelight (Gaumont, April 13).—The title of this subject fails to convey any idea of its novel character. It is an exceedingly clever conception in trick photography, showing a man on a street corner with a fortune telling machine, in which people may look to see the past and future revealed. The future wife, husband and children and past ancestors are shown in the form of grotesque, dissolving drawings that are most ingeniously managed.

The Interrupted Joy Ride (Edison, April 13).—There are several laughable scenes in this film, and it pleases, despite the rather bungling style in which it is carried out. The chauffeur of an automobile is arrested for fast driving, and the owner is obliged to operate the machine himself, which he does with ridiculous and, in some cases, exciting results.

The Other Fellow (Edison, April 13).—We see in this picture, also, evidence of hasty and unfinished construction and management, with the result that a good idea is all but ruined. Two young men in love with the same girl fall to fighting to see who shall have her. They fight every time they meet, and some of their battles are pure waste of film. In the end the girl marries another fellow, to the disgust of the two fighters, but this interesting climax is so weakly led up to that it does not have the effect it deserves.

The Chaperone (Essanay, April 14).—We are glad to note in this subject a return by the Essanay Company to something like genuine comedy, in which there is a fair attempt at telling a humorous story with logical consistency. Some of the action displays lack of rehearsal, but on the whole the picture is satisfactory. It is at least laughable without being ridiculous. A young chap in love with a girl is dented the house by her father, unless he can bring a chaperone with him. Having no female relative to take along, he dresses up his chum to represent an old lady and the two go courting. The complications that follow are naturally funny. The chaperone has a great time kissing the girl and the father falls in love with the chaperone, signing a paper agreeing to the marriage of his daughter and her lover. We trust the Essanay Company will give us more of this class of comedy.

The Rubes and the Bunco Men (Essanay, April 14).—If the two "rube" characters in this picture had not been so outrageously overacted, we could have liked it better. There is a real story, with humorous situations, logically carried out. Two bunco men sell a stray carriage and team of horses to a pair of "rubes" and follow this up by selling them another man's house for the carriage and horses and $200. Then they return the team where they found it. The "rubes" are kicked out of the house they thought they had bought, and when they try to reclaim the team and carriage they again find themselves in trouble. The finishing scene with the two "rubes" making faces at the camera might have been dispensed with. There is also an instance of carelessness in stage management when the crooks are shown exhibiting a "for sale" sign reading "a horse and carriage" when it should have read "horses."

Under Suspicion (Gaumont, April 14).—It is seldom that we are offered as neat and clever comedy by the French as we see in this picture. It is also pleasingly acted and scenically beautiful. A wife and little daughter prepare to surprise "papa" on his birthday by presenting him with a new cane. The servant leaves the cane exposed and "papa" thinks it belongs to some man who has been visiting his wife. The wife and child gather flowers for the celebration and "papa" jealously believes the strange man has been prowling in his garden. The little girl writes a speech to recite to "papa" and the latter thinks his wife has been writing letters to a lover. He is terribly distressed until the truth is revealed to him in the manner his wife and child had planned.

Policemen in Action (Gaumont, April 14).—A comedy policeman, unable to overtake certain offenders, buys a pair of electric boots which have the effect of forcing him into a most marvelous style of locomotion, accomplished by trick photography. The series of episodes are comical and pleasing.

Oliver Cromwell (Pathe, April 14).—This beautifully colored and richly costumed picture deals with incidents in the life of Cromwell and the beheading of Charles I., some of the incidents being historical and others being fanciful. A daughter of Cromwell is represented as enlisting in disguise with the Royalists to defend Charles and is even supposed to personate the King after the battle of Naseby, to lead the Roundhead soldiers astray. We cannot think that this resort to fiction in a picture pretending to be historical is anything but a detriment to the subject. There is little fiction, however, in the beheading scene. It is shown with all its solemnity and horrible realism. The acting is capably done and the scenes admirably chosen.

Confidence (Biograph, April 12).—The first scene in this picture, in a Western gambling saloon, is to some extent meaningless. A girl is seen having something to do around a faro table. If she is a dealer she shows but slight familiarity with the business, and the faro table is but a poor excuse for the real thing. However, we gather that she falls out with her lover, a gambler, and runs away. The gambler is then stabbed, not fatally, by a Mexican, who appears to have no legitimate part in the story. But from this point on the picture is of unusual power and is splendidly acted. The girl comes East, becomes a nurse and marries a doctor. The gambler discovers her and blackmails her by threatening to give a packet of her old love letters to her husband. When he has secured all her money and jewels and returns for more he is surprised by the husband and brazenly hands him the letters, to the dismay of the poor, hunted woman. But the husband shows himself of noble character. He burns the letters without reading them and kicks the gambler out of the house.

Slip Powder (Lubin, April 15).—Shallow "comics" of this class constitute rather poor material for moving pictures, and yet they please a certain element. Slip Powder is no worse than dozens of others of its kind. A boy unable to get his feet into his shoes is given a powder to sprinkle into the shoes, making them slip on easily. This gives him an idea and he starts out with a can of the powder, sprinkling it on sidewalks and causing people to slip down in more or less comical fashion.

After the Bachelor's Ball (Lubin, April 15).—At the end of this picture we are told that it has all been a dream, which may be alleged as an excuse for its disconnected, rambling construction. A bachelor tries to make love to a statue of Venus; advertises for a cook and has fifteen or twenty applicants; walks in the park and is annoyed by meeting love-making couples; advertises for a wife and is chased by a crowd of women, and then wakes up. The picture has plenty of action and a few amusing situations, but there is no logical story told, and therefore there is but little interest.

Love Under Spanish Skies (Selig, April 15).—Magnificent scenery and costumes and a romantic story, told with dash and spirit, mark this picture. A Spanish cavalier is loved by a high-born girl, whose father intends her for another. She sends for her cavalier and he scales the castle walls and enters her chamber, but the father and his retainers force him to flee and the girl is locked in a dungeon. The cavalier, however, is not to be baffled. He gathers his friends, forces an entrance into the castle and, after a series of sword combats, rescues her. Taking her to a friendly monastery, the couple are married and a jolly monk conveys the news to the father, who becomes reconciled to the inevitable.

In the Days of Witchcraft (Edison, April 16).—Not in many weeks has the Edison studio turned out a stronger, more smoothly constructed film story than this one. Barring a tendency to stagy acting in some of the scenes, it is handled in a competent way throughout, and is warmly applauded by the spectators at nearly every exhibition. Only one possible inconsistency is noted. The charge of witchcraft must be supposed to have been made during the Puritan days in England, as there is no Catholic priest in evidence in the picture. Nevertheless, the girl who is charged with being a witch is handed a cross to kiss when she is about to be burned at the stake. The lover of the girl, in defending her from a young rake, has been injured by a blow on the head that impairs his reason, and the girl is accused of bewitching him. The demented lover regains his reason, and clears her of the charge just as the torch is about to be applied at her feet.

The Orange Grower's Daughter (Kalem, April 16).—This picture was heartily applauded when it was seen by THE MIRROR reviewer at Keith and Proctor's Twenty-third Street house, and we can well believe it will be equally well received wherever exhibited. It is melodrama of the most pronounced kind, but it is not inconsistent, except in the multitude of point blank shots fired without any one falling. The "heavy" is a bit overdone in one or two scenes; but, on the whole, he is sufficiently convincing to get himself properly hated. He is the overseer of the orange plantation, and is repulsed by the proprietor's daughter. In revenge he has her kidnapped, and when her sweetheart comes to her rescue the gang knocks him over, and throws him into the river, taking the girl on board a ship about to sail. But the lover revives in the water, is rescued, collects a posse and overpowers the kidnappers on the deck of the ship, recovering the girl. The photography is excellent, the Florida scenes warm and picturesque, and the story thrilling, interesting and clearly conveyed.

The General's Fiancee (Pathe, April 16).—A very clever little comedy story is told in this picture by competent actors. A rich old general is about to marry, much to the disgust of his brother and sister-in-law and their interesting son, who had supposed himself to be the heir. The youth, however, succeeds in stopping the match by a series of practical jokes of an amusing nature.

The Teamster's Daughter (Pathe, April 16).—We heard one complaint about this picture, that it has an unpleasant ending, but it should be remembered that all things in life do not end pleasantly. If they did we would not be able to appreciate them. The merit in this picture lies in its truthful portrayal, unpleasant as it is. A girl's lover is a worthless scamp, who robs and murders the girl's father. When the girl learns the truth, she pursues the murderer and kills him. The scenes are so naturally handled that we imagine we are witnessing a tragedy in real life.

Forgiven (Vitagraph, April 17).—The pathetic and interesting story in this film is told in a decidedly novel manner. It is true that we have to imagine the Vitagraph Company with a motion picture camera on a genuine field of battle, if we are to accept the story as convincing, but we may be willing to go even that far in our credulity, knowing how enterprising the Vitagraph Company is. Who knows but the next war may see the Vitagraph camera men at the front? The situation comes about in this way: An old farmer quarrels with his son and the boy enlists and goes to the Philippines, where he is killed in battle. Before the battle, however, he starts to write to his father forgiving him, and strangely enough a Vitagraph moving picture camera is on the spot to show the incident, together with the unfinished letter and the battle that follows. Six months later the old gentleman, having heard of the death, but, of course, never having received the letter, is still grieving over the event, when he is induced to attend a moving picture show. The film exhibited is the very one in which his son appears, and thus the letter of forgiveness is conveyed to him. Unreasonable as all this may appear, the picture is effective from its very novelty. Some of the details, however, show carelessness. The outside of the farmer's house looks like a hovel, littered with rubbish and old pails and cans that do not correspond with the neat interior. The town hall, also, is badly chosen. It looks more like a broken down stable.

Student Days (Vitagraph, April 17).—A rambling, but amusing, series of comedy situations are pictured in this film, based on the pranks of two college boys who steal a trained bear and feed it on candy, so that the animal follows them home, where it hugs the maiden aunt, frightens the preacher, and otherwise causes much amusement.

We're Backing Up (Pathe, April 17).—This is a trick picture in which people and vehicles appear to be going backward, induced by a professor with a wonderful electrical machine. The scenes are well managed and are pleasing.

Jack's Successful Bluff (Pathe, April 17).—Well acted comedy, telling a humorous story, is seen in this film. A young fellow comes home drunk, perhaps a trifle too drunk. His wife kicks him out, and he threatens suicide, and pretends to carry his threat into effect, leaving his clothing on the bank of a stream, where an officer finds them, and takes them to the police station. Here his wife arrives to tell of his threats, and she recognizes the clothing. By the time she returns home the husband is there ahead of her, and after she is emotionally frightened by his ghost, she is glad enough to learn that he is alive.

A War Time Tale (Pathe, April 17).—We doubt if the dual climax of this interesting story is sufficiently understood by average spectators. It appears to have been skipped in the acting. A young soldier hears that his baby is dying, and he deserts his post to visit his home. He is about to be shot when his wife runs in with the baby. When the commanding officer learns the facts he throws down his sword and returns to give the order to fire.

A Plot Foiled (Urban-Eclipse, April 17).—A thrilling and naturally acted story is seen in this picture. A little shepherd boy guarding his sheep overheard robbers plotting to enter his master's house. He follows, finds a gun and frightens the robbers away just as they have bound the farmer. Then the boy guides the soldiers through picturesque scenes till they capture the fugitives.

A Bachelor's Persistence (Urban-Eclipse, April 17).—The bachelor falls in love with a girl who ignores and repulses him, but he persists against every rebuff, until he is able to defend her against footpads, when she relents and accepts him. The idea is not new, but it is worked out with some variations in this picture.

INDEPENDENT RELEASES.

The New York Independents, namely the Great Northern and the Film Import and Trading Company, continue to be the only Independent interests that make regular announcements of new film releases. If the Chicago importers, the International and the Chicago Film Exchange, are issuing any new films they are not making the matter public in any periodicals or circular that THE MIRROR is able to obtain.

The new Great Northern releases are as follows: April 16, The Magic Purse, a beautifully colored and tinted film of the magic trick photography class, shown in connection with an interesting story; Bangkok, a scenic picture showing views in the capital of the King of Siam during the King's festival and jubilee. April 21, The Artist's Dream, a colored and tinted film of the trick character; A Walk Through the Zoo, said by the producers to be the finest artistic and realistic picture ever produced.

The Film Import and Trading Company released this week two subjects entitled The Unforgiving Father and Misplaced Confidence.

FILM EXAMINATION WORKING WELL.

The "censorship" committee of the New York civic bodies continues to examine new film subjects with great perseverance and its work is proving broad minded and of special value to the manufacturers, who show themselves eager to avoid scenes in their pictures that may appear objectionable to the committee. As soon as the censors cut out a bit of film the manufacturers study the discarded portion and make notes in order to prevent similar mistakes in the future, and it is safe to say that just as soon as they are able to learn exactly what is desired there will be nothing but that kind produced.

Over 100,000 feet of new licensed subjects have been examined, as well as a considerable amount of Independent product. Pathe subjects to the number of 112 have been passed upon, and also two months' supply for the Vitagraph Company, a similar quantity of Biograph production and advance copies well into the future for the other licensed manufacturers.

FOR LIGHT THEATRES.

Experiments made by Patents Company officials last week demonstrated the ease with which theatres may be well lighted without interfering with effective picture exhibition. It was found that by using green tinted globes near the curtain and amber tinted globes further back, and shielding the rays of light from the curtain, the room could be made so light that a newspaper could be read without decreasing the strength of the picture. The cost of such equipment is almost nothing, and theatre managers can have no valid excuse to longer delay the proper lighting of their houses. The Patents Company, it is announced, will insist on managers of licensed theatres keeping their houses sufficiently light to meet the objections that have been raised to moving picture theatres on this score.

LAEMMLE IS INDEPENDENT.

Another Chicago Exchange Out of the Patents Company Fold—Harry Davis' Licenses Revoked.

The announcement, not unexpected, was made last week by both the Patents Company and Carl Laemmle, of Chicago, that the Laemmle exchanges are no longer licensed. Mr. Laemmle's statement is to the effect that he withdrew because the Patents Company had not accomplished the things he and his exhibitor patrons desired. At the Patents Company offices it was said that Mr. Laemmle had failed to conform to the requirements of his contract and the Patents Company rules. Mr. Laemmle in an interview is quoted as saying that he is well pleased with the Independent supply, particularly that of the International Company, some of whose subjects he considers better than anything produced by the licensed companies. He does not, however, mention any titles of subjects. THE MIRROR is anxious to accord the International Company all the credit it deserves, and if it is true that it is issuing subjects of such superior quality THE MIRROR would be exceedingly glad to learn what they are and where they can be seen, so that merit can be acknowledged wherever found.

The Harry Davis exchanges are also no longer licensed, the reason assigned for cancellation being that he was using all his first runs in his own theatres.

Another change in licensed exchanges is the removal of the Lincoln, Neb., branch of the Pittsburgh Calcium Light to Omaha.

MOVEMENT FOR OPEN SUNDAYS.

The Motion Picture Patents Company has received a letter from Professor Ernst Richard, of Columbia University, stating that over 40,000 American citizens of the German-American Alliance would support the movement of the Liberal Sunday League. "I can likewise assure you of the sympathy and best wishes of a million and a half of citizens scattered over 40 States who form the National German-American Alliance, incorporated by act of Congress."

The Patents Company, which represents the principal film manufacturers of the world and over 5,000 picture theatres in the United States, is associated in this Sunday movement, with General John T. Cutting, August Belmont, Alfred G. Vanderbilt, Edward Lauterbach, Samuel Untermeyer, Robert C. Kammerer, Hon. Antonio Zucca, J. H. L. Curtis-Lithchild, and other prominent business and professional men, who form the Liberal Sunday League, and at the mass meeting in Carnegie Hall, Saturday, April 24, will furnish motion pictures showing how Sunday is observed in various parts of Europe.

FILMS SEIZED BY PATENTS COMPANY.

The Motion Picture Patents Company has doubled its force of detectives in order to carry out its purpose of preventing unlicensed theatres from using licensed films. One of the most notable replevin actions of the week took place on the evening of April 13, when a representative of the Patents Company and a city marshal visited a theatre run by Wirbalen, at 407 Eighth avenue. One Vitagraph film entitled The Inauguration of Taft, and one Pathe, Laplanders, were seized.

FIGHT PICTURES IN NEW YORK.

The fight pictures of the Johnson-Burns contest were shown for the first time in New York at the Broadway Theatre, April 19. The pictures are excellent, but the fight is seen to have been one-sided and to lack interest.

E. A. Schiller, manager of the Bayonne Opera House, has the right to show the pictures in three States—New Jersey, Pennsylvania, and Delaware.

MOVING PICTURE NOTES.

Interesting Items of News from Moving Pictures Theatres the Country Over.

The Nicolet, Columbia, Theatorium, Star, Elite and the Opera House, in Passaic, N. J., continue with moving pictures and illustrated songs.

The new Lyric will open in Laramie, Wyo., 12. This is a new house built especially for vaudeville, and a credit to the city.

At St. John, N. B., the Star reopened on Good Friday to big business with an augmented orchestra. Mae Colyer, concert soprano, joined this house 12. The Nickel opened Easter week with an orchestra of 12 pieces and the following vocalists: Miss Edwards, Mr. Courtnais and the New York Talking Picture co. Joseph Kilcoyne continues to draw many to the Unique by his fine singing.

The Quality Vaudeville in San Antonio, Tex., has discontinued vaudeville for a few weeks and is now running moving pictures and illustrated songs to good business. The Gem, Palace, Princess, Dixie, Alamo all did a good business week 4-10.

The building next to the Bijou Dream in Winchester, Va., has been leased to Baltimore parties, who will thoroughly remodel it for an up-to-date moving picture house. This makes four houses for Winchester.

The Crescent Theatre in Kearney, Neb., continues to do good business in the moving picture line and is using the best film service obtainable, with three changes a week.

Dreamland, the popular motion picture house in Charleston, W. Va., operated by Adler and Levy, was sold last Tuesday to L. H. Ramsey & Co., of Lexington, Ky. The house will be entirely remodeled and will in the future be used for ten cent vaudeville and the new name will be the Hippodrome.

The Marvel Theatre, Winston-Salem, N. C., had the Cox Family the past week and it is stated that this is the best attraction Manager Mead has yet secured, and the crowds continue to throng the little playhouse. The new Pickwick Theatre was opened to the public here last week, and it is getting their share of the patronage. The Lyric continues to please good business and is changing entire programme each day.

Manager J. C. Rogers, of the Wonderland, in Queensboro, Ky., promised the patrons a high class vaudeville bill week ending 10 and he certainly kept his word, for each of the acts was a feature in itself. The Bigalow Sisters, singers and dancers, proved to be the cleverest and most versatile team that has ever played in this house. The Kirklands, in black-face comedies, more than made good, keeping the audience in a roar of laughter. Pictures and songs were of the same high order as usual.

The Star and New Royal, in Marion, Ind., are two new motion picture houses that are making a bid for the amusement loving patronage, and are being well attended. Roy Tudor is manager of both houses.

Business 5-10 at the Clement Theatre, Dover, N. H., was big, notwithstanding it was Holy Week, and the following pleased: The Skipper's Daughter, The Man Monkey, What a Uniform Will Do, A Little Coquette, Guilty Guardian, Behind in His Rent, A Bad Shot, An Old Soldier's Story, The New Minister, The Stowaway, The Uplifting of Mr. Barker, The Miser, Venice on the Grand Canal, Call of the Wild, The Bank Messenger, Grandfather, and a Strong Draught.

The Sisters Rappa, Russian dancers, feature at the Scenic in Providence, R. I., 12-17; Sadi Alfarabi, equilibrist; Lizzie B. Raymond, and Annie Carter in illustrated songs, with a new and interesting line of motion pictures conclude an entertainment of high order. Motion pictures at the Nickel are The Journey of the Three Wise Men, The Maid and the Millionaire, Jolly Sports, and the Arabian Horsemen, also Walter La Foye and the Nickel Quartette in illustrated songs. The Bijou is doing a land office business and negotiations are now under way whereby the theatre will close up for a few weeks during the Summer to erect a balcony to accommodate the ever-increasing crowds. A good bill is offered 12-17, including For Love's Sake, The Mysterious Double, The Politician, Police Women, also illustrated songs by Will Ford and the Bijou Duo.

The new Colonial, in Bloomington, Ill., opened 10 capacity business. This was formerly the Nickelodeon, but the proprietors fitted it out completely at an expense of about $2500 and reopened as a ten-cent picture house. It is playing to capacity since the opening. The other motion picture houses all report good business.

The burning of a film in the moving picture machine at the Pantages' Theatre, in Spokane, Wash., threatened a panic the evening of 7, but was averted by the orchestra and several players headed by Robert Russell. Operator De Lion was slightly burned on the hands and face.

VAUDEVILLE JOTTINGS.

Gus Brohm and his wife, formerly known on the stage as La Petite Francesca, are rehearsing for vaudeville. They expect to return to the vaudeville stage to tour the world.

Lisle Leigh's season in vaudeville has terminated and she is visiting Mr. and Mrs. L. B. White at Riverside, R. I. Miss Leigh closed her season after playing a long tour to the coast. She will not open until next Fall.

SELIG LEADS WORLD IN MOTION PICTURES

IN BROOKLYN THEATRES.

The last attraction of the season at the Montauk Theatre is William Collier in The Patriot, this week.

At the Broadway Theatre this week Lulu Glaser in Mlle. Mischief is the offering. The Soul Kiss next week.

The Aborn Opera company at the Grand Opera House offers a double bill in Cavalleria Rusticana and I Pagliacci Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday night, and Il Trovatore Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights. The attendance last week was very large, and the audiences applauded many times for repetitions. Next week, Aida and Martha.

Chauncey Olcott remains at the Majestic Theatre this week. Ragged Robin has many good songs as well as an interesting story, and the theatre will be crowded all this week with Mr. Olcott's many admirers in this borough. Next week, Cole and Johnson in The Red Moon.

Howard Thurston is mystifying large audiences at the Folly Theatre this week. There are twenty-five persons in Mr. Thurston's company, including Paul Kleist. Next week, the Four Huntings.

STOCK COMPANIES.

The Crescent company, at the Crescent Theatre, appears this week in a very successful production of What Happened to Jones. G. H. Forbes in the title-role is thoroughly at home; in fact, it is the best part he has played this season. Alice Fleming as Cissy is very good. The part of Ebenezer is well done by Charles Scofield, who is a great favorite with the Crescent patrons. The other parts are well played by Arthur Buchanan, as the Bishop, Emelie Melville as Alvina, Jessie McAllister as Helma, Fanny Sanford as Mrs. Goodly, and Ben F. Wilson as Richard Heartsely. Next week, Merely Mary Ann.

Corse Payton's Players, at the Lee Avenue Theatre, distinguish themselves this week in the first presentation in stock of The Warrens of Virginia. A review of the play will be given next week in THE MIRROR.

Little Eleanor Onderdonk appears this week with the Lyceum company at the Lyceum Theatre in the part of Gerald Brooks in After Midnight. Three weeks ago Manager Phillips engaged Miss Onderdonk to fill a part for one week, but the little actress became so popular with the Lyceum audiences that they simply wouldn't hear of her leaving the company, and she is likely to remain there for the rest of the season.

BURLESQUE.

Flashlights of Broadway is presented at the Gayety Theatre this week by the Fads and Follies company. In the olio are Surly Moore and company, Irvin Walton, May Walsh, Allie Vivian, Louise Horton, Harry Hill, Morris and Morton, and the Percy Troupe.

Rose Sydell and her London Belles company appear this week at the Olympic Theatre. The olio includes many capable performers.

The Lid Lifters entertain this week at the Star Theatre. There are two funny sketches on the bill and the olio has the French Models as a special feature.

At the Empire this week a good bill is offered in The Frolicsome Lambs company. At the head of an exceptionally good vaudeville bill are Klein, Ott Brothers and Nicholson, and the Gus Onlaw Trio.

VAUDEVILLE.

VAUDEVILLE JOTTINGS.

Mrs. Tim McMahon (Edythe Chapelle) gave birth to a daughter on April 5.

"Tom" McCormick, who danced so cleverly with Louise Alexander and Joseph Smith, when that pair took the "Apache Dance" out of the Queen of the Moulin Rouge to show vaudeville patrons just how it should be done, is to appear, also in vaudeville, with Robert Dailey and Gertie Vanderbilt, when he will have an opportunity to prove that he sings as well as he dances. Mr. Dailey, Mr. McCormick and Miss Vanderbilt were together in The American Idea.

Henry Frey, the tramp and Hebrew comedian, returned to vaudeville this week, opening in Brooklyn. For the past five years he has been playing in melodrama.

Waller and Magill have been obliged to cancel all their vaudeville bookings, owing to the serious illness of Mr. Waller.

Alasco C. White, for years an animal trainer with P. T. Barnum's Circus, died in this city on March 31 of old age, being seventy-seven years old. He had traveled all over the world, and was famous as a trainer of wild beasts. He was a member of the G. A. R. and the F. and A. M. He is survived by his widow, two sons and two daughters.

George H. Hall, for three seasons stage doorkeeper at the New York Hippodrome, died at the French Hospital on March 30.

"Josh" Daly's Country Choir closed a successful tour over the Morris circuit in Denver, Colo., April 17, and immediately upon their arrival in New York will sail for Birmingham, England, on May 3, which gives them but fifteen hours' time to spare. The Choir will tour England, Ireland, Scotland, and Wales, under the William Morris (Inc.) management.

As announced in THE MIRROR recently, the Majestic Theatre, Toronto, has been turned into a vaudeville house. It plays popular prices, ranging from five to thirty cents, with four shows daily. The Majestic will form part of a circuit which includes the Academy at Buffalo, Pike's in Cincinnati, Burt's in Toledo and others.

Harry T. De Vere and Jess Mellville will appear in vaudeville early next Fall, and are completing arrangements at this time for their Fall work.

Leona Belasco, late of Lasky's Song Bird co., has been engaged for the Boston Grand Opera co. Miss Belasco has been studying under Madame Vinello Johnson, of Boston, for some time.

Frank Losee, it is announced, will make his vaudeville debut at the end of the present season.

It is announced that Louis F. Werba is about to sue the Keith-Proctor people for $45,000 for an alleged breach of contract in connection with the production of Spiritland. According to Mr. Werba his contract called for forty-two weeks' booking. He has received but two so far, and it is understood that the act has been shelved for all time. Mr. Werba states that according to the contract if the production proved satisfactory after a first dress rehearsal it was to be given the time. The rehearsal called for took place at the New York Theatre on January 28. The week of February 1 the act played the Greenpoint and then came to the Fifth Avenue for the first of its run. It lasted two weeks and was closed. Mr. Werba is to sue for the salary of $1,000 a week, which he claims is due him for the balance of the forty unplayed weeks, and for $5,000, for cost of production.

The Grand Opera House at St. Catharines, Ont., formerly owned by Messrs. Wilson and managed by Charles A. Wilson, has been sold to Harry Marsey, of Niagara Falls, and opened as a first-class vaudeville theatre on March 29, reserving one night a week for traveling attractions that may be booked.

Percy Plunkett and company made a big hit in the sketch, Not in the Choir, at the Bijou, Woonsocket, R. I., recently. Miss Fildes is to join the Allen Opera company, and Mr. Plunkett will engage a new woman for the act.

Billee Seaton is packing the Imperial at Lenox Avenue and 116th Street every performance. She is singing "I've Lost My Teddy Bear," "Everybody Loves Me 'Cause I'm Crazy," and her vision song. She is billed about Harlem like a circus.

Contracts have been signed whereby Lizie Leigh has acquired the exclusive rights for United States, Canada and foreign countries of the dramatic playlet, La Blanche, by Mabel S. Keightley.

TRADE MARK

Lady Helen's Escapade

A pretty comedy-drama showing how a lady of quality, becoming bored with the monotony of her life, hungers for excitement and with this in view hires herself out as a domestic. She meets and falls in love with a poor but wonderfully clever musician, thereby turning her wilful whim into a pretty, romantic episode. Length, 765 feet.

A Troublesome Satchel

Funny short comedy in which a young man purchases a satchel at a sale of unclaimed express packages and finds it contains a set of burglar's tools. He tries to get rid of it but has a hard time doing so. Length, 212 feet.

Released April 22d, 1909

The Drive for a Life

A Thrilling Story of a Woman's Jealousy

This is a most exciting picture story of a young man who upon being engaged to an estimable girl, returns the letters of a former sweetheart with the intelligence. This sweetheart is incited to revenge by jealousy, and poisoning some candy sends it to the fiancee as coming from the young man. He discovers her intentions, however, and after a most thrilling drive in an automobile, arrives at the girl's home in time to prevent her partaking of the sweets. The drive is one of the most daring attempts ever done in motion pictures. Length, 940 feet.

The Analysis of Play Construction and Dramatic Principle

By WILLIAM T. PRICE

Author of "The Technique of the Drama," Etc.

"The most valuable contribution to the subject in years, if not the most valuable in the English language." Mr. Harrison Grey Fiske, in THE DRAMATIC MIRROR.

This book aims at the demolition of the fallacy that one can be born a playwright. This fallacy is a soul destroying delusion. No man has ever been born a playwright or ever will be born with any knowledge whatever of the art. No one ever lived who did not have to learn it, else it would not be an art at all. No one lives who may not learn more of it,—else it would be a dead art, embalmed, finished and done for in books, past all hope of betterment in formulation, certainly not a living and progressive art. Practical instruction in it being something new, a new initiative had to be taken with the whole subject and in the whole matter. This is a text book for the student and for the workshop of the playwright. It is not and could not be a compilation, for it is a new departure in the study.

Royal Octavo, $5.00. Postpaid.

MOTION PICTURE PATENTS COMPANY

80 Fifth Avenue, New York City

Takes pleasure in announcing that it has at last succeeded in getting a reliable Casualty Company to issue Fire and Accident Insurance, at about half the former rates to any and all Licensed Theatres. Heretofore, only about ten per cent. (10%) of the Exhibitors have been able to obtain insurance at any price.

The policy covers all deaths and bodily injuries resulting from either fire or panic in the theatre or on the sidewalk immediately adjacent thereto; liability for death or injury to one person, limited to Five thousand dollars ($5,000.00); total liability, death or injuries to several persons, limited to Ten thousand dollars ($10,000.00) covers patrons, owners, employees, all. Thirty-five dollars ($35.00) per year for theatres with maximum seating capacity of Five hundred (500) or less; an additional Ten cents (10 cts.) per year for every seat over Five hundred (500).

This insurance will be issued only to Licensees of the

Motion Picture Patents Company
